Senate Swings to State Dry Law Repeal

UPPER CHAMBER GOES WET WITH 26 VOTES SURE

Statute Is Near End, Poll Indicates.

Returns on the Illinois referendum on three prohibition questions had been received last night from 6,857 of the 7,136 precincts in Illinois. The results they gave were these:

	Yes.	No.
Repeal Eighteenth Amendment	993,796	510,395
Modify Volstead act..	924,738	462,627
Repeal state dry law..	1,000,931	491,710

Of the 279 precincts missing 29 are in Chicago and the remaining 250 are downstate.

Passage of a bill to repeal the Illinois search and seizure act, known as the state prohibition law, appeared certain yesterday when 26 state senators, a majority of the chamber, indicated they would support such a measure. In previous sessions of the legislature the senate has twice voted down the Weber-O'Grady repeal bill which had been passed by the house.

The twenty-six include two senators who previously had opposed repeal but now are prepared to abide by the decision of the voters in their districts, who declared for repeal.

12 of 26 Newly Elected.

Twelve of the twenty-six are senators who voted for the Weber-O'Grady repeal measure in the last session and the were others were newly elected last Tuesday on wet platforms or pledged to abide by the outcome of the state prohibition referendum.

It is considered probable that more than the 26 senators required for a majority of the 51 members of the upper house will support the repeal measure, inasmuch as the voters in 12 other districts, whose senators previously had opposed repeal, voted in favor of it in the referendum.

Two Swing Over to Repeal.

The two senators who have swung over in support of repeal as a result of the referendum are Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, in the 45th district, and Ray Paddock of Wauconda, in the 8th district. Senator Searcy said yesterday that the referendum returns in his district, while incomplete, indicate a heavy majority in favor of repeal, and that in view of this, he would "follow this mandate explicitly."

"No other course could be followed in good faith with my district," he said. "Unless the final figures radically change the picture, my vote in the senate will be cast as my constituents have voted."

Senator Paddock said the voters of his district also had expressed themselves in opposition to the state prohibition law, and that he believed his constituency expected him to recognize the will of the majority.

12 New Senators for Repeal.

The twelve newly elected senators who are aligned in opposition to the state prohibition law, with their districts and places of residence, are Daniel A. Serritella [1st, Chicago], Francis J. Loughran [13th, Chicago], Peter P. Kielminski [15th, Chicago], Richey V. Graham [19th, Chicago], George M. Maypole [21st, Chicago], William F. Gillmeister [23d, Oak Park], Frank J. Huckin Jr. [25th, Chicago], Edward P. O'Grady [29th, Chicago], Harold G. Ward [31st, Chicago], N. M. Mason [39th, Oglesby], James O. Monroe [47th, Collinsville], R. P. Kline [49th, East St. Louis].

The twelve senators who voted in favor of the repeal bill in the last session of the legislature are: Joseph Rendel [2d, Chicago], Adelbert H. Roberts [3d, Chicago], Frank McDermott [4th], Chicago], Roy C. Woods [6th, Chicago], Arthur A. Huebsch [7th, Chicago], Patrick J. Carroll [9th, Chicago], Thomas J. Courtney [11th, Chicago], James B. Leonardo [17th, Chicago], Victor P. Michel [18th, Cicero], John Broderick [27th, Chicago], J. Leroy Adair [36th, Quincy], Dr. W. L. Finn [42d, Iuka].

Two Questions Are Asked.

The TRIBUNE asked all the members of the next senate two questions. They were: "Will you abide by the referendum vote in your district?" and "Will you vote for repeal of the state prohibition law?" Among the replies were the following:

Senator Roberts—"I answer 'yes' to both questions."

Senator McDermott—"I feel confident that the next senate will favor

DRUGGAN FACES JAIL; IS CITED FOR CONTEMPT

Lyle Acts After Fruitless Raids.

The woes of the ailing Terry Druggan increased yesterday as the pressure of the authorities' drive on public enemies was concentrated on the beer baron, senior partner of that infamous alliance, Druggan and Lake.

Judge John H. Lyle in the Felony court issued a citation charging Druggan with contempt of court for having attempted to mislead the judge into believing that because of illness Druggan was unable to appear in court.

Druggan's handsomely appointed apartment at 7064 Greenview avenue and his suite at the Morrison hotel had been invaded by detectives led by Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, and the papers seized in these raids were being examined by state and federal officers.

Contempt Petition Presented.

When both of these raids failed to reveal the whereabouts of Terry, Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne presented a petition before Judge Lyle asking that the beer baron be cited for contempt of court. On Thursday, when Druggan's case on a charge of vagrancy came up before Judge Lyle, the gangster's physician, Dr. Charles H. Kraft, testified that Druggan was unable to appear. But he admitted that he had permitted his patient to take strolls down Michigan boulevard, to build him up.

Then Judge Lyle declared Druggan's bond forfeited and, stating that he had no faith in the willingness of the police to serve the capias for Druggan's arrest, sought the aid of Investigator Roche and Charles F. Rathbun, special assistant state's attorney. The raids followed, Judge Lyle personally accompanying the officials.

Faces Long Jail Term.

"It is evident that Druggan was well enough to leave his room when it appeared that he was to be arrested on my warrant," Judge Lyle stated. "I shall issue the citation for contempt, and unless Druggan can make a showing of innocence he faces a long stretch in the county jail."

Included among the papers found in Druggan's abodes were many letters, especially from women seeking lawyers to extricate them from their own troubles or similar favors.

One letter was from a 64 year old woman who years ago migrated from Denmark and who wanted Druggan to pay her expenses on a visit back to her motherland.

A swarm of unpaid bills was found, indicating that Druggan would have a low rating in Bradstreet's. Florist, cleaning, drug store, and countless similar accounts were permitted to run for months without payment despite the somewhat timorously worded appeals from Terry's creditors. Even the horseshoer who cared for the hoodlum's string of race horses was unpaid.

U. S. to Use Records.

Voluminous records of account concerning the operation of Druggan's farm, his earnings and expenditures, were found, and it is expected these may be used by the government in Druggan's trial for evasion of income taxes.

Judge Lyle issued a search warrant to permit Prosecutor Rathbun to open a safe deposit box maintained by Druggan at the Central Trust company, a record of which was found in his effects. Only $6 worth of clipped Liberty bond coupons was found.

A business card of George Lohman, chief deputy in the office of City Collector Morris Eller, was found, with a notation on the back, as follows:

"Terry: This will introduce to you George Lohman. Please take care of him. FRANK MORRISON."

Morrison has been known as the political fixer for Druggan.

Capone Plot Mentioned.

Another letter, which earlier had been interpreted as evidence of a plot to kill Scarface Al Capone, was signed "Don B. Collins," and postmarked Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The writer recalled that Druggan had helped him out of a criminal case in 1927 and was volunteering to be of service to Druggan if the latter desired. The only reference which might refer to Capone follows:

"I am now located at above address and you are aware that a certain party is building a home in this coun-

TRAGEDY ENDS CHILDREN'S JOY ON MOVING DAY

It was a gala day yesterday for Harold Geserick Jr., 6 years old. His family was moving from their apartment at 6243 Ellis avenue to one at 6236 Greenwood avenue, and he was having a great time rummaging through old toys and other articles salvaged from concealment.

Occasionally as he found some interesting object he would hurry next door to 6240 Ellis avenue to show it to his little chum, Betty Jane Pine, 3 years old. Betty caught the spirit of moving day, too, and rustled up forgotten playthings of her own. One was a magnet. Harold was not to be outdone. He hurried home to find something to excel the magnet. On the dresser was a shiny, steel object, placed there momentarily by his grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Bolger, preparatory to wrapping.

Harold hastened back to Betty Jane's. She was waiting at the kitchen window. Harold held the object to the window. Suddenly there was an explosion. Betty Jane fell dead. Harold had procured a revolver, accidentally fired it, and a bullet had pierced the kitchen window and entered his chum's head.

Jobless 1,000 Sell Apples on N. Y. Corners

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 7. — [Special.] — This city had the unemployment situation thrust squarely in its face today and before sundown a large part of its working population had gone on an unprecedented apple spree and more than a thousand jobless men had money in their pockets for the first time in months.

All the way from Wall street to Times square and as far uptown as the subway reaches there was an apple vender on every corner and sometimes two or three. Some of them were just bums, others plainly were family men out of work, a few wore warm overcoats, and there was a middle aged man clad in a velvet collared dress coat, his patent leather shoes topped by white spats, doing a rushing business in front of the Metropolitan Life Assurance building.

There were a few women, mostly old and ragged, but the men held the best corners. Each wore a placard in his hatband or propped against his box of apples stating that he was unemployed and urging the public to buy apples.

Profit $10,000.

The public responded by unbuttoning its overcoat and digging into its pocket and tonight it was estimated that approximately 1,000 one man apple stands had sold about 300,000 apples for not less than $15,000, the venders' profit approaching $10,000, or around $10 a man.

The frontal attack of the apple on the unemployment situation began ten days ago in the Wall street district. It spread uptown as far as Times square early this week. Yesterday city officials announced no license was required for sidewalk apple venders. Taxi drivers began giving free lifts to the venders and it jumped into big business in a day.

The emergency employment committee, of which Seward Prosser, the banker, is chairman, has been issuing cards for a week permitting worthy applicants to obtain the first box of 100 apples without cash payment.

Today the committee was swamped with unemployed men who wanted to try the apple business. More than 300 new "apple merchants" had obtained cards before 4 p. m., and in the meanwhile some commission houses had gone into the business of supplying apples to any and all callers at $2 a box of 100.

"Racket" Develops.

As soon as the apple business got into the big money class, however, rackets began to develop. The best spots were grabbed by "wise guys."

The writer met an old friend, a former telegrapher, presiding over three half filled apple boxes.

"I got six men working for me in this block," he grinned, "and we are averaging better than three boxes apiece a day. I keep them supplied with apples and take a 50 per cent cut. When they get a few dollars ahead they go on their own and I get some new men. Naw, I don't know anything about getting a card from the city committee. Sure it's a racket, but it won't last long."

STOCKS DROP ANEW; LEADERS HIT LOWEST LEVELS OF THE YEAR

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Wall street gave way to a spell of blues today and sold the stock market to the lowest price levels recorded in more than a year. Leading issues lost from $1 to $7 a share, with others faring even worse. Peoples Gas, high priced Chicago utility issue, was hammered down to a new low of 202½ and closed showing a net decline of $12 a share. Pere Marquette and Pittsburgh and West Virginia dropped $10 a share each and Union Pacific railroad $9.

All the group leaders were heavily sold. United States Steel made a new bottom of 140, a net loss of 3¾ points. General Electric, Westinghouse Manufacturing, Radio, Consolidated Gas—every pivotal issue—followed into new low territory.

The scope and persistency of the selling movement struck observers with amazement. There seemed to be a feeling that there was something "hanging over the market"—just what nobody could guess.

E. B. M'Lean, Publisher, Is Sued by Wife

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Edward B. McLean, millionaire publisher, and his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Lucile Walsh McLean, one of the capital's outstanding hostesses and owner of the "unlucky" Hope diamond, have come to the parting of the ways, Washington learned today.

Charging that since September her husband has failed to support her and has announced he means to fight "with every weapon in the world any effort on her part to compel him to do so," Mrs. McLean petitioned Supreme Court Justice William Hitz of the District of Columbia for $10,000 monthly allowance and counsel fees during her suit for separate maintenance.

At the same time she asked an order restraining the American Security and Trust company, as trustees of the estate of John R. McLean, her husband's father, from payment of the $25,000 income it returns him annually. Justice Hitz ordered the company's attorneys to show cause next Thursday why the injunction should not be issued.

Both Social Leaders.

For some months reports of differences between the McLeans have been current in the gossip of Washington society, in which both have been among the leaders.

The McLean estate in Cleveland Park, one of the most extensive and valuable in Washington and, during the Harding régime, the social rendezvous of the administration, has of late been infrequently occupied.

The famous $2,000,000 diamond, once the property of Louis XIV. and smuggled out of France during the revolution, has been seen less often at the capital's reception.

Since June, 1929, Mrs. McLean charges, her husband has lived apart from his family, occupying one of the houses of the McLean estate at 1809 M street, N. W., and making long visits to Palm Beach, New York, and Los Angeles.

Not Divorce Action.

In the action which, her attorneys say, is in no sense a proceeding for a divorce, Mrs. McLean is represented by former Associate Supreme Court Justice A. A. Hoehling.

Listing her expenses, she declares that two of her children are attending a boarding school at Aiken, S. C. The support and education of the family, she says, costs $4,000 monthly, and the expenses of the McLean estate run to $4,500. Of her private income, she asserts, she has expended some $500,000 in the improvement of the place—it is named "Friendship"—and she has been forced to draw upon her capital for current bills.

Meanwhile, she says, her husband has maintained a $1,000,000 stock farm near Leesburg, Va., a $30,000 duck camp on the Potomac, three completely furnished residences in Washington, an apartment at the New York Ritz, four expensive automobiles and a private railway car that cost $75,000.

Says Income Is Million.

His income, she says, once was $1,000,000 annually, and, in addition to his business interests in the Washington Post and the Cincinnati Enquirer, he enjoys the income from his father's large estate.

Mrs. McLean, wealthy in her own right, is the daughter of Thomas F. Walsh, a Colorado miner who struck it rich. When she was married at the palatial Walsh place in Colorado she was considered that state's greatest heiress. Her widowed mother, prominent in Washington society for many years, maintains a large house on Massachusetts avenue, near Du Pont circle, the most fashionable district of the capital, as well as a large estate in nearby Maryland.

Mrs. McLean acquired the Hope diamond after it was brought to America in 1909, soon after she and McLean were married. The stone is supposed to have been reduced from 67½ carats to its present weight of 44½ carats to disguise it when it was taken out of France.

It's a Good Time to Buy a New Model Overcoat

You see them on the street. You see them at the theater. You see them on the trains and in other modes of public conveyance. There is no longer any doubt about it—the new crop of overcoats is here. The first touch of cold weather started it. The second blast of coolness added to the momentum. Overcoats are epidemic.

It will be many weeks before the sun of spring gets around to announcing the end of the frosty season. An overcoat bought now can get in a lot of work before the time comes for putting it aside. Men who buy their overcoats now will get the maximum return from their investment.

This, moreover, appears to be a good year to buy a new overcoat. The ones now on display in Chicago stores not only are attractive from the point of view of style and materials, but also from the point of view of values. The overcoat dollar is bigger. This year you get a whole lot more overcoat for your money.

PLEDGE PARTY WILL GO ALONG FOR GOOD TIMES

7 Leaders Promise No Obstruction.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Seven Democratic leaders tonight issued a statement announcing that the Democratic party, in assuming legislative control at the opening of the Seventy-second congress, would do everything in its power to steer the nation in a direct line toward prosperity. They pledged the party to coöperate with President Hoover and not act as an obstructive body.

Assume Control Is Theirs.

The Democratic leaders in this perhaps unprecedented statement are assuming they will control both houses. As a fact, the Republicans, according to latest returns, lead by one vote in the senate and by one or two in the house. However, with Senator Brookhart threatening to join the Democrats—on certain conditions—and with the radical insurgents in the offing, the Democratic leaders seem to have a reasonable premise for their claim of control.

The seven signers of the Democratic pledge not to obstruct, in a persistent and partisan sense, the administration of President Hoover were Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential opponent of President Hoover in 1928; John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee; John W. Davis, Democratic nominee in 1924; James M. Cox, Democratic presidential nominee in 1920; Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], Democratic leader in the senate; Representative John N. Garner, Democratic house leader, and Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee.

Will Welcome Assistance.

In taking the position that Tuesday's election had given control over legislation in the next congress to the Democratic party, the signers of the statement gave but one indication that possibly they would need the help of the Farmer-Laborites or insurgent Republicans in putting over their program. This came in a sentence which stated that "it, the Democratic party, would welcome the assistance of every man of every party or no party, official or otherwise, who can contribute to the effort to make this country a happier place in which to live."

The Democratic leaders stated that party leaders in congress would neither ask for a general tariff revision during the last two years of President Hoover's term nor hold up appropriations in an effort to force the President to adopt their program. This was taken as an indication that the Democrats would not attempt to force President Hoover to call a special session next March by opposing appropriation bills.

Hoover's View in Harmony.

No post-election political statement came from the White House during the day. But in his Friday press conference President Hoover made this brief statement after a long cabinet meeting:

The job for the country now is to concentrate on further measures of coöperation for economic recovery. This is the only suggestion I have to make on this occasion.

The President probably knew nothing at the time of the prospective statement of the Democratic leaders. But later in the evening observers expressed the idea that there was a certain degree of harmony between this brief expression and the pronouncement of Democracy's chiefs.

Text of Democrats' Statement.

"A remarkable victory has come to the Democratic party," the statement said. "We, however, regard it less as a political triumph than as a great opportunity for constructive service.

"For a year and a half the Democrats have conducted as vigorous a campaign as they could, not to destroy the administration, not to accomplish the downfall of any political figure, but to resist and to correct a situation that had become well-nigh intolerable. The minority in the senate and the house of representatives fought bravely and sincerely to prevent the enactment of a tariff bill which was not only the apotheosis of bad economy but was doubly dangerous because of the conditions in the country. Certainly, with the nation in the throes of a ghastly business depression, it was no time to place a greater burden upon consumers and an additional handicap on business.

"Despite the opposition of the Democrats and the progressive wing of the Republican party, and over the protests of leading economists of the nation, that bill was forced on the country by the brutal strength of numbers, and was signed by the President. Some of the effects of its unwise, unjust, and uneconomic provisions are already apparent. It is delaying the recovery of many industries through its destruction of our foreign markets not only because of the hostility it has engendered, but as well by the retaliatory tariffs it has incited.

"Of course, the leaders of Democracy are thrilled by the demonstration of confidence the country has given. But they and the others who must now assume legislative responsibility do not regard the present occasion one for celebration or for self-gratification.

Responsibility Is Grave.

"The responsibilities bestowed by the election are too grave for mere manifestations of exultation. The country faces a parlous situation. There is profit neither to it nor to the victors in the election in dwelling on the causes or responsibilities for this condition.

"The task ahead is to repair the damage, to get the ship of state back on even keel and to go ahead on a course which will bring us out of the tempest with the least disturbance and the greatest speed consistent with safety.

"The Democratic party faces its duty with a firm determination to permit no thought of political advance to swerve it from the course that is best for the country. It has neither the time nor the desire to punish anybody or to exalt itself.

Will Steer for Prosperity.

"To the extent of its ability, it will steer the legislation of the nation in a straight line toward the goal of prosperity, nor permit itself to be diverted either by political expediency or a desire to show that it now dominates the enacting branch of the government.

"To this end the seventy-second congress will not be an obstructive body. It will not seek to embarrass the President of the United States, but will be glad to coöperate with him and with the members of the opposite party in the house and senate in every measure that conduces to the welfare of the country. It will welcome the assistance of every man of every party or of no party, official or otherwise, who can contribute to the effort to make this country a happier place in which to live. It has in mind no rash policies, but will seek as carefully as possible to remedy the evils that are afflicting the nation.

Reassure Business Men.

"The Democratic legislative leaders are serious men, constructive but not reactionary, with long experience in government and a complete cognizance of the effects of legislative acts on the national well-being. They know perfectly well that even enlightened political selfishness demands that business should not be frightened, and that every honest industry should be aided and not hindered in the necessarily slow progress back to prosperity. There will be no interruption to the steady progress of the business of government. There will be no holding up of necessary appropriations, no rejection of fit appointees to important places merely because these appointments are made by a President of the opposite party.

No General Tariff Revision.

"As to the tariff the Democratic policy, announced in its platform and through its candidates in the last presidential campaign, is directly opposed to periodic general revisions, which inevitably bring in their trail a shameful load of scandal and hideous dislocation of our whole industrial and commercial system. Democrats in the present congress sought the enactment of a plan that would limit changes to those obviously required—changes in individual schedules on the recommendation of nonpartisan experts in consonance with the dictates of economic science. With such a process tariff alteration would proceed with the maximum of patience and caution, and would cause no earthquakes in our business structure.

"Whatever changes may be considered necessary to rid the present act of its outstanding enormities, nothing is farther from the minds of those who will direct legislation on the Democratic side than a general revision of the tariff.

Federal Reserve Praised.

"The one bright spot in the financial gloom of the present situation is the federal reserve system. That feature of our government, a Democratic establishment, has been praised by President Coolidge, by President Hoover, and by Secretary Mellon. It has stood the test of war and is cited on all sides as the agency that in such times as these has kept our whole fiscal structure from going on the rocks. It has been hailed not only in the United States but the world over as the most skillful financial system that any country has ever devised.

"It is mentioned as an example of the type of legislation that the Democrats will promote as a symbol of their good faith and their capacity to realize the nation's needs and to find the sound, constructive way of supplying them.

Disclaim Autocratic Ideas.

"If there are delays, embarrassments and confusion in the seventy-second congress the fault will lie with the failure of the other party to join with us in a conscientious effort to subordinate politics for the public good.

"The Democratic party realizes that it has not been given a charter of autocratic authority, but has merely been intrusted with a great task and that on its ability to perform this task fearlessly, justly, honestly, and skillfully depends the length of its tenure and the extension of its authority in the government."

Bishop Griswold Suffers Setback, Doctor Reports

Bishop Sheldon Munson Griswold of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, who has been critically ill at the Evanston hospital since Oct. 10, and whose condition had been showing some improvement, suffered a setback yesterday, according to his physician, Dr. Dwight F. Clark. Bishop Griswold is suffering from a general breakdown of the heart and kidneys and because of his advanced age slight hope is held for his recovery.

BROOKHART MAY AID DEMOCRATS IN ORGANIZATION

Will Help Them if They Reciprocate, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The first indication that the radical Republican insurgent group in the senate might frustrate Republican hopes of organizing the senate on their basis of a one man majority came today when Senator Smith W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.] threatened to vote with the Democrats.

Senator Brookhart announced he would support the Democrats in organizing the senate if the Democrats would promise to favor his personal legislative program. Mr. Brookhart's program included repudiation of "Mellonism," a demand for the ousting of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, tariff adjustment, passage of new farm legislation, and revision of the tariff.

G. O. P. Margin Small.

The latest returns, unofficial but considered complete, give the Republicans a majority of one over the Democrats in the senate. There is one Farmer-Labor senator, a holdover.

With the Farmer-Laborite voting with the Democrats, a tie would ensue in the senate which Republicans contend would be broken by Vice President Curtis in favor of the Republicans.

The last returns reaching Republican national headquarters gave the Republicans a margin of one vote in the house over both the Democratic and Farmer-Labor party. The vote was Republican 218, Democratic 216, and Farmer-Laborite, 1.

Farmer-Labor Power Possible.

On the basis of these returns it was apparent that organization of both houses might easily be thrown into the hands of the Farmer-Labor representative and senator, even if the radical Republicans in the senate remained inside the reservation. With the radicals on the rampage, the chances either for organization of the senate or any kind of legislative control would be lost to the Republicans.

Senator Nye [Rep., N. D.] sounded a somewhat similar note on his return to Washington today when he said that the election was a mandate for adequate farm relief and for greater federal control over power properties. Senator Henrik Shipstead [Farmer-Labor, Minn.] is on record for a program which includes new farm legislation, revision of the tariff and an extensive program to relieve unemployment.

Senator Norris Silent.

McCook, Neb., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—United States Senator George W. Norris refuses to say whether he will support Senator Brookhart in the latter's proposal to help the Democrats organize the senate on certain conditions. Senator Norris today would not even talk about the Iowa senator's proposition.

Kvale Has a Part.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 7.—(AP)—The shadow of Paul John Kvale, 34 year old Farmer-Labor congressman from the Seventh Minnesota district, loomed large over the new house of congress today. He may hold the controlling vote.

"I have no statement to make," he said at his home at Benson, Minn., today. He refused to reveal with whom his sympathies lay. But political observers scanned the statement he issued when he announced his decision to file to succeed his father last year. He said at that time:

"I have decided to file as Farmer-Laborite. That is the party my father represented and I am filing chiefly in response to the wishes of my father's friends of that party.

GIRL, 16, DIRECTS TWO YOUTHS IN SLAYING OF LOVER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 7. — According to statements by the police today, Lieschen Neumann, 16 years old and pretty, stood with ax in hand, ready to kill, while she directed the murder of her lover, a jeweler, Friedrich Ulbrich, by two boys.

Wanting money, she led the boys to the jeweler's shop, and when they tried to flee because they had not succeeded in throttling the jeweler in their first attempt, she raised the ax and ordered them back.

After killing the jeweler the trio looted the store. They got $18.

CONTRACTOR CHARGES CITY HALL DELAYS HURT HIS BUSINESS

An electrical contractor charged yesterday that his business was being injured because of delays of employés of Michael J. Kennedy, city commissioner of gas and electricity, in passing upon electrical work. The accuser is J. T. Kruszka, head of the Noble Electric company, who said that for the last 18 months he had been having difficulty in getting meters and service wires installed because the Commonwealth Edison company was not notified by the city department.

"After every job is completed," said Mr. Kruszka, "we mail a card to the electrical inspection bureau of the city. Upon receipt of this card the Edison representative in the city hall is notified that the work of installing a meter or service wires—whichever the case may be—can proceed.

"If I do work for a politician or a well known business man the notifications are sent through promptly," said Mr. Kruszka. "But on other jobs the work is frequently held up."

C. K. Cregier, chief electrical inspector, said that the delays in the installation of meters may have been caused by the customer not signing up for it. After notifying the Edison company representative the city department has no further responsibility in the matter, he said. The department, he said, is a month behind in mailing out final approvals on jobs. Kennedy said no effort is being made to harm the business of any contractor.

WOMEN TO TAKE PLACES IN JURY BOX IN JANUARY

Officials Are Preparing to Comply with Vote.

The first women to sit on juries in Cook county probably will be selected early in January. This announcement was made yesterday by the Cook county jury commissioners, who have been considering means of initiating the system since Tuesday's referendum vote, which resulted in a substantial victory for the proposition.

A situation which was at first believed to present an obstacle to the use of women on juries has been already eliminated. The names of men for jury service are obtained from the city directory. However, comparatively few names of women can be obtained that way or from the telephone directory.

Seek Poll Officials' Help.

The jury commission, headed by State Representative Thomas P. Keane, has decided that the simplest method of obtaining the names of women is through the registration lists. A meeting of the commissioners will be held soon at which time election officials will be asked for permission to use the lists.

Before starting the system, the commissioners plan to ask the advice of the judges. Several inspection trips will be made into other states where women serve on juries.

The jury commissioners announced that women named for jury service will be required to reply to the notice, but all who have a legitimate reason for exemption will be excused.

Exemptions from Service.

The measure approved by the voters in the referendum exempts from compulsory jury service all women who have the actual care of young children, prospective mothers, and those caring for the sick and aged. In addition all who are suffering from an ailment may ask to be excused. School teachers will be exempt during the school term.

The new Criminal courts building was designed with separate sleeping quarters and other facilities for women in anticipation of the time when they would be granted the right to serve.

2 WOMEN DIE, 2 MEN HURT AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Two women were instantly killed and two men injured late last night when their automobile was struck by a Chicago bound gravel train on the Chicago and North Western railroad at route 19, one and a half miles southeast of Crystal Lake. The dead were:

Mrs. Catherine Balmes, 660 East Hillside avenue, Barrington.

Mrs. Lucille Murphy, 922 Dakin street, Chicago.

The injured were Peter Balmes, husband of Mrs. Balmes, and Bert Falter of Barrington. They were taken to Woodstock for medical treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Balmes, Mrs. Murphy and Falter were driving toward Crystal Lake when the accident occurred. The grade crossing is protected with a light signal and the driver, it was said, probably failed to observe the approaching train.

G. O. P. HAS HOPE OLSON MAY WIN IN VOTE CANVASS

Democrat Chiefs Off for Hot Springs Confab.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Seventy Democratic chiefs of assorted degrees led by Anton J. Cermak, county chairman, left for Hot Springs, Ark., last night with 2,000 new jobs in the basket for allottment to the faithful and a dozen or so assorted mayoralty booms packed in ice in the baggage car ahead. Another trainload is to lead for the Arkansas spa tomorrow night bearing 100 other Democratic big shots and lesser shots.

Meanwhile the Republicans sped the Democrats on their way with shouts that the official canvass of the vote may upset the election of chief justice of the Municipal court and one or two judges. John J. Sonsteby, Democrat, was elected on the face of the police returns as chief justice by a plurality of 16,712 over Chief Justice Harry Olson.

Olson Does Not Concede Defeat.

Judge Olson walked through the Sherman house lobby yesterday and spread word that he has not conceded defeat and that the official count might put him across. He told the political lights that the count on municipal judges, who are on a separate ballot, is made after the judges and clerks of election have got into a state of fatigue and that the police figures sometimes become somewhat useless in the late watches.

"In one election," said Judge Olson, "the police returns showed one candidate for municipal judge to have lost by 40,000 votes, but when the canvass was made he was shown to have won by a considerable margin. Towards the end of the counting the polling place officials are weary and carelessness sometimes creeps in. There is no reason for tossing up the sponge before the official figures are compiled."

Hold Hope for Others.

Republicans also claimed the official count might save Judges Charles F. McKinley and Herbert G. Immenhausen. On the police figures, McKinley was 402 votes behind George V. McIntyre, the low man among the winners. Immenhausen was 1,057 votes behind McKinley.

On county commissioners from the country towns the Republicans claim the official canvass may upset the election of Frank J. Kasper, Democrat, who on the police figures was given a lead of 1,371 over Axel Lonquist, Republican, out of 83,000 total votes cast.

Yates' Lead Increases.

Egypt came through with belated returns yesterday, increasing the lead of Richard Yates, Republican, over Walter Nesbit, Democrat, of Belleville, for congressman-at-large. This neck and neck race has had the eyes of the country, as it may determine whether Republicans or Democrats will have control of the next house in Washington.

With 71 precincts missing, the tabulation gives Yates a lead of 12,535 [illegible] figures stood: Yates, 969,032; Nesbit, [illegible],487. Of the missing precincts 42 were downstate, where Yates was running ahead and 29 were in Cook county, where Nesbit was leading. The vote for Yates, dryest of the drys, in the face of the dripping wet Democratic landslide of 700,000 on senator, yesterday made the politicians blink.

Parsons Wins for Congress.

The Associated Press reported last night that its investigation of complete returns in the 24th congressional district in southern Illinois indicated that Claude V. Parsons, Democratic candidate for congress, had a lead of 24 votes over James Heldinger, Republican, in the long term contest. The vote stood: Parsons, 27,329; Heldinger, 27,295.

Parsons also was the victor in the contest to fill out an unexpired term, polling 26,918 votes to 26,735 for Heldinger. In both contests the vote was complete, the report said.

With 6,263 precincts tabulated out of 7,136 in Illinois, George A. Barr Republican, of Joliet, was leading M. C. Zacharias, Democrat, of Chicago, for university trustee by 18,179. The vote stood: Barr, 823,088; Zacharias, 814,909. Other trustee candidates stood: Williams [Dem.], 860,483; Ewing [Dem.], 831,283; Barrett [Rep.], 814,318; Colp [Rep.], 777,790. For the vacancy, the vote stood: Hopkins [Dem.], 846,446; Blake [Rep.], 780,395.

Blair 61,962 Votes Ahead.

Francis G. Blair, superintendent of public instruction, is 61,962 ahead of Mrs. Eva Batterton, Democrat, in the same precincts. The vote stood: Blair, 935,291; Batterton, 873,329. Blair led the Republican ticket.

In the state treasurership race Edward J. Barrett, Democrat, held a lead of about 100,000 over Clarence F. Buck, Republican, the vote standing: Barrett, 972,005; Buck, 879,572. Cook county and 3,203 downstate precincts had been heard from.

The $14,000,000 conservation bond issue appears to have lost. In 5,140 precincts the vote is 582,000 for and 535,000 against. Almost half the downstate precincts are still to be heard from, and downstate has been registering an adverse vote. To carry, the proposal required a majority of all votes cast for legislators.

As the Democrats entrained for Hot Springs last night, gossip was that in the reorganization of the sanitary district on Dec. 1 Ross A. Woodhull may be elected president. The Democrats will have eight of the nine members of the district board.

Convict Three in Robbery of W. V. Kelley Home

Martin Ertle, Christ Staropoulis, both of Chicago, and Isador Curtis of Evanston, charged with the burglary of the Lake Bluff home of William V. The crime was committed on the night of Sept. 28. Mr. Kelley and seven servants were terrorized. Only $184 was stolen.

TWO CARDINALS DIE IN DAY; 11 SEATS VACANT

Pope May Call Consistory in December.

ROME, Nov. 7.—Vatican authorities said tonight that the news of the deaths of two more cardinals, that of Cardinal Mistrangelo, archbishop of Florence, and of Cardinal Charost, archbishop of Rennes, France, made the consistory which Pope Pius has been planning to hold in December even more imperative. The death of these two princes of the church has depleted the sacred college to the point where there are only 29 Italian cardinals and 30 foreign cardinals.

Cardinal Charost will be remembered in Chicago due to the fact that he was one of the French prelates who attended the Eucharistic congress there in June, 1926. On that occasion the cardinal preached a short sermon in French at Soldiers' field.

It is said that a secret consistory will be held on Dec. 15 and a public one three days later. Though no official declaration has yet been made, an early announcement is expected, as there are now 11 vacancies in the ranks of the cardinals.

Envoy to U. S. Considered.

Among those thought likely to be elected is Msgr. Fumasoni Biondi, apostolic delegate of the holy see to the United States. He has held the Washington post since 1922, and his diplomatic position is considered to be a stepping stone to the red hat.

The purple may also be accorded, ecclesiastic circles here believe, to Msgr. Iorio, secretary of the congregation of sacraments, and Msgr. Massimi, dean of the tribunal of the holy rota.

Dante's City Loses Cardinal.

FLORENCE, Italy, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Cardinal Alfonso Maria Mistrangelo, archbishop of Florence, died at 10:15 o'clock tonight of gastric poisoning. He was 78 years old and had undergone an operation earlier in the day in an attempt to save his life.

Born in Savona, province of Genoa, on April 26, 1852, the late cardinal adopted his religious vocation so early that at 18 he was already wearing a monk's habit in the Order of Calasanzian Brothers, who dedicate their lives to teaching. The order is restricted in numbers and has an iron discipline.

While still very young, he was promoted to the rectorship of the order's college at Ovada. His reputation for being able to quell and wring work out of unwilling pupils soon became such that the clergy of the countryside, not without a touch of fun-loving malice, soon sent him all the bad boys they could lay hands on. At the same time he established for himself the reputation as a preacher which was to follow him well into advanced age.

Had Persuasive Tongue.

His first real test as a militant evangelist came when the population of a certain town outside Ovada rebelled violently against the bishop, and threatened to go over to Protestantism. The still young Msgr. Mistrangelo arrived in the dissenting locality one morning, gathered the malcontents in the cathedral, and by sheer force of oratory prevailed upon them to return to their old faith and be obedient to their clerical superiors.

He became archbishop of Florence in 1889, and continued his work for Catholic youth begun when he was bishop of Pontremoli. In 1915 he was elevated to a cardinalcy.

The cardinal could not be called other than reserved with regard to Fascism, from its beginnings in 1919 up to and beyond the march on Rome of 1922. He made a show of resistance to the breaking up of such juvenile organizations as the Catholic Boy Scouts. He was one of the last supporters of the newspaper Unita Cattolica, which disappeared after the conclusion of the Lateran treaties in 1929.

Cardinal Dies Alone.

RENNES, France, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Victim of a cold which overtaxed his heart, Cardinal Charost, archbishop of Rennes and noted for his war relief work in northern France, died today at the age of 70. He was born at Le Mans on Nov. 14, 1860.

The cardinal caught cold in church last Sunday, but had so far recovered that he went on his daily walk this afternoon, but suddenly suffered a relapse. Feeling very ill, the cardinal requested a passing motorist to take him to his palace, where he collapsed.

Dr. La Salle administered an injection and the cardinal asked to be left alone. When the doctor returned half an hour later, the cardinal was dead. The doctor diagnosed his death as being caused by heart failure brought on by fits of coughing.

Preached at Germans in 1914.

When the German army under the command of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria entered Lille in August, 1914, some of the officers on the second Sunday of the occupation went to church.

They remained for the sermon and heard Cardinal Charost then bishop of Lille, tell the congregation:

"A serious, anomalous situation obtains. Lille is in the hands of the enemy, the city is occupied by the soldiers of Germany. You must bow before force and attempt no overt act of rebellion. But you must also do nothing that will assist the invader to carry out his designs against our country and maintain stout allegiance to the republic."

Four hours later the bishop was under arrest and sent to Aachen as a hostage. He subbornly refused to retract any of his utterances. He was repatriated a few months later and installed his bishopric about 30 miles behind the French battle lines.

He was nominated as cardinal and received the red hat from the hands of the late Pope Benedict XV. in December, 1922. The pope wishing to emphasize the new cardinal's "war service" consecrated him under the auspices of Sainte Marie de la victoire (Holy Mary of victory).

During his cardinalate the little Norman girl, Therese de Lisieux was canonized by the Vatican and made the blessed Therese of Lisieux. Of late years Lisieux has become a sacred place of pilgrimage, second to Lourdes only in the number of visitors who come and worship there each year.

PROPERTY HOLDERS AGREE ON CHANGES IN SUBWAY PROGRAM

State street property owners are reported to have reached an agreement among themselves on changes in the subway plans. The chief change is to raise the mezzanine floor three feet. The utilities, which will place their wires and pipes above the subway, have not agreed to the change suggested.

"Unless the State street property owners get Robert Ridgway, chief consulting engineer, to agree to the change," said President Faherty of the board of local improvements, "there will be no change."

The next few days will indicate whether the public hearing on subways, scheduled for Nov. 21, will be deferred because of the difference in views on the height of the mezzanine floor.

MORROW BOOM SPEEDS UP UNDER G. O. P. DEFEATS

Eastern Wets Hopeful Hoover Won't Run.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

The Republican disaster last Tuesday has given impetus to the movement centering in the east to retire President Hoover and bring about the nomination of Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey for President by the Republican national convention in 1932.

The movement has gained considerable headway in the wet wing of the Republican party in such wet eastern states as New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Delaware, and indications are not wanting that the Morrow boom may be hospitably received in some of the western Republican states swept by the Democrats this week.

Rebellious in Ohio.

From Cleveland comes the information that the wet Republicans in Ohio are manifesting a rebellious attitude toward Mr. Hoover, and his Ohio lieutenants, Postmaster General Brown and Senator Simeon D. Fess, who are held to blame for the Republican reverses in that state.

Maurice Maschke, Cleveland Republican leader, warned Brown and Fess months ago that the tide was flowing strongly against national prohibition in Ohio and that the nomination of a 'dry candidate for senator would swamp the ticket. Some of the wet Republican leaders in Ohio now are predicting that Mr. Morrow, if he were to enter the lists against Mr. Hoover, would get the majority of the Ohio delegates to the Republican national convention.

Situation in Illinois.

While there does not appear to be any appreciable Morrow sentiment in Illinois, the attitude of many Republican leaders, particularly those of the anti-prohibition persuasion, toward the President is noticeably lukewarm. According to these leaders, Mr. Hoover was a liability in this election. "Hoover prosperity" became a deadly Democratic taunt. Mrs. McCormick virtually was the only Republican who had a good word to say for the President on the stump, and many are of the opinion that she only injured her own cause thereby.

With Illinois now definitely classed as wet by virtue of a 2 to 1 vote on the referendum Tuesday for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, with the majority of the Republican organization now openly, instead of covertly, wet, by virtue of the party commitment to abide by the referendum, and with the organization shot through with anti-Hoover sentiment, Illinois becomes fallow ground for cultivation by the promoters of the Morrow boom.

The Morrow movement in the east is being fostered by Republican leaders closely affiliated with the Association Against Prohibition and by the anti-Hoover business element that stood out so long against his nomination at Kansas City and endeavored to draft Mr. Coolidge for a third term. There have been rumors for some time that this group, which is well financed, is behind the revolt of southern Republicans under the leadership of Col. Mann against domination by Postmaster General Brown, who as chief patronage dispenser of the administration is being relied upon by the White House to deliver the southern delegates to Mr. Hoover in the national convention of 1932.

Morrow Backing Hoover.

The Morrow boomers are handicapped in two ways. They are proceeding, for one thing, in apparent defiance of Mr. Morrow's withdrawal of himself from consideration for the nomination two years hence. During his successful campaign for senator from New Jersey on a platform espousing repeal of the eighteenth amendment, Mr. Morrow, in answer to the wet Republicans booming him for President in 1932, stated in a speech that he looked forward with pleasure to voting for Mr. Hoover for reelection.

This, however, did not deter the wet Republicans and other anti-Hooverites in the east. They chose to regard Mr. Morrow's disclaimer of presidential ambitions in 1932 as merely the polite expression of a pious amenity. Mr. Morrow's statement, they explained, was predicated upon the assumption that Mr. Hoover would be a candidate and they were proceeding upon the assumption that Mr. Hoover would not be a candidate for renomination or that he would be unable to renominate himself and that the convention would then turn to Mr. Morrow and Mr. Morrow would be free to accept without treason to Mr. Hoover. The program of these anti-Hooverites is to draft M.. Morrow as it was to draft Mr. Coolidge two years ago.

President's Great Power.

The other handicap is produced by the tremendous power which a President possesses to renominate himself. So great is this power that it has become a political axiom that a President can have a renomination if he wants it. He is head of a vast political machine composed of federal jobholders numbering close to 1,000,000 persons. He invariably controls, by means of patronage, the paper Republican delegations from the Republican rotten boroughs of the south, where the G. O. P. still is a fiction, despite the efforts of Mr. Hoover to build up a white Republican party in that region. With these delegates in the bag the President seeking renomination has close to one-third of the convention to begin with, and he needs only one more than half of the body to win.

In addition to the machine power he possesses a President desiring renomination is favored by the widespread assent to the notion that a President is entitled to two terms if he wants them. Ever since so formidable an opponent as Theodore Roosevelt failed to defeat President Taft in the Republican convention of 1912 it has been customary to regard as futile any attempt to deprive a President of renomination.

The anti-Hooverites dispose of the Taft precedent by pointing out that Mr. Taft had the support of the regular Republican organization, whereas the regular Republican organization today is shot through with disaffection due to personal dislike of Mr. Hoover on the part of leaders and to opposition to the dry stand of the President. Thus the opposition to the President in his own party holds it possible to defeat Mr. Hoover for renomination.

Hopes Hoover Will Not Run.

What this element of the party really hopes for, however, is victory without a fight as the result of an announcement by Mr. Hoover that he will not stand for renomination. They are hopeful that Mr. Hoover will choose not to run in preference to accepting renomination and entering a contest in which he will be doomed to defeat on the prohibition and other issues by the same forces that operated so disastrously to the Republicans this week.

Mr. Hoover and his advisers are well aware of this smoldering revolt against him in the party, but they minimize its importance. The President's friends profess to know exactly where it originates. They trace it to Wall street influences that always have been opposed to Mr. Hoover, dating back to the days when as secretary of commerce he thwarted the plans of the international bankers to make highly profitable loans to European countries for military purposes.

The President is known to be a candidate for renomination and to be shaping his course politically with that end in view. He is his own board of political strategy. While some of the Republican leaders almost within the shadow of the White House have been guilty of laughing behind the back of the President at what they consider his political ineptitude, the defenders of Mr. Hoover say that the master mind behind his nomination at Kansas City was his own and that he is proceeding on the same lines to achieve renomination.

Blame It on Hard Times.

Such anti-Hoover sentiment as exists in the Republican party is attributed by the President's lieutenants to the business depression and unemployment instead of to reaction against the eighteenth amendment. This they regard as merely the ill luck of a man who happens to be in the presidential chair during hard times because of the tendency of unthinking persons to blame the administration for adverse economic conditions.

All this will be changed by the restoration of prosperity, in the opinion of the defenders of the President. They look for such a turn in the economic tide before another year has elapsed. By that time the presidential primaries will be not far away and with good times prevailing the popularity of Mr. Hoover will be restored and opposition to his renomination will fade away, according to the view in the Hoover camp.

Men who ordinarily enjoy the confidence of the President profess to have not the slightest notion whether he will modify his position on prohibition, although they are quite sure he will not go so far as to advocate repeal of the eighteenth amendment. They would not be surprised if he should espouse some form of modification, possibly permissive of the restoration of beer of a low alcoholic content, if not of light wines, particularly if the Wickersham commission should so recommend.

They do not expect him to satisfy the advocates of repeal in the Republican party, but with good times restored they believe that he will command the support of all but a handful of wet irreconcilables and will be overwhelmingly renominated and reelected.

Roosevelt Halts Boom for 1932; Thinks of Present Job

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt denied today that he was a candidate for President in 1932 and asserted that his sole interest for the next two years would be the governorship of New York state.

In the face of spontaneous booms in various states and a formal declaration by James A. Farley, New York state Democratic chairman, that the tremendous plurality obtained by Mr. Roosevelt made him inevitable as the next presidential candidate of his party, the governor acted to head off what his friends believe is a premature drive in his behalf.

Mr. Roosevelt issued a statement in the executive office as the result of requests for comment on Mr. Farley's assertion of yesterday that the Democrats of New York would lose no time in putting him into the race.

Dictates a Reply.

Sitting at his desk the governor wrote out the following reply:

"On several occasions during the last two years I have stated unequivocally that I am giving no consideration or thought or time to anything except the duties of the governorship.

"I repeat that now, and to be perfectly clearly understood, you can add that this applies to any candidacy, national or otherwise, in 1932.

"Experience shows me that I was right two years ago believing that I should give all my energies and thoughts to the governorship of New York and nothing else."

Mr. Farley's statement, according to advisers of the governor, was made without the knowledge of Mr. Roosevelt and came to him as considerably of a surprise. The whole policy of the governor's political group has been to play down the 1932 boom at the present time.

No Advice to Mr. Long.

Coupled with Gov. Roosevelt's denial of active presidential candidacy was a denial in effect that he had assumed national leadership in the party by advising Senator Elect Huey P. Long of Louisiana not to take his senate seat until 1932.

James J. Mahoney, Gov. Roosevelt's assistant secretary, declared that there had been no such communication with Gov. Long.

The policy of the Roosevelt supporters in striking at immediate efforts to put him to the forefront for the next presidential election follows closely that which former Gov. Smith pursued in his four years as governor between 1924 and 1928. The quiet campaign of Gov. Smith's friends after the debacle at the old Madison Square Garden in 1924 was looked upon as an extremely successful political drive of this kind.

REPORT VICTOR IN BRAZIL REVOLT WILL EXILE FOES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 7.—A private dispatch from Rio de Janeiro says that a government decree awaiting the signature of Dr. Getulio Vargas, the provisional president, orders the exile of a number of prominent politicians, including former President Washington Luis and Dr. Julio Prestes, who would have been president on the 15th of this month had the old régime not been overthrown by the revolution.

Arrest Returning Officials.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 7.—Oscar Bormann, delegate of the Brazilian treasury to London, and Eurico Carneiro Leo, ex-chief of police of Pernambuco, were arrested on their arrival here this afternoon on the steamship Alcantara.

U. S. Flyers Seek to Enlist.

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Stirred to the call of battle by the arrest of one of their number in Brazil—not to mention their urgent need for employment—more than 40 American aviators have sought to enlist in the Brazilian civil war.

Seeking information from the Society for Promotion of Aviation, they evinced little interest in the cause of the warring parties, but were willing to fight on either side so long as they could climb back into places and receive pay for it.

The spur, officials of the society said, was a news item telling of the arrest of Orton Hoover, American aviator, by the provisional government of Brazil, which resented his participation in the civil war on the side of the old government.

STATE SENATE FOR DRY REPEAL WITH 26 VOTES

Illinois Prohibition Law Near End, Poll Shows.

repeal and I will introduce such a measure in the senate."

Senator Elect Loughran—"My answer is 'yes' to both questions."

Senator Elect Graham—"I will abide by the referendum in my district, which, of course, is for repeal of the prohibition act. As a member of the lower house I voted for repeal of the Illinois prohibition act and I will so vote as a member of the senate."

Senator Elect Huckin—"As a member of the general assembly I will abide by the result of the prohibition referendum voted on last Tuesday. I will also vote for repeal of the Illinois prohibition act."

Senator Elect Ward—"As the Democratic candidate for state senator of the 31st district I pledged myself to vote for repeal of the Illinois prohibition act. I most assuredly will abide by my pledge."

Senator Elect Monroe [Dem., 47th]—"I will vote for repeal of the Illinois prohibition act, and if congress passes and submits a resolution for repeal of the 18th amendment I will vote for repeal. Conditions in my district have reached the stage of nullification. There are three to five times as many public and private places selling liquor today as there were saloons before prohibition."

Drys of Past Are Polled.

Several sitting senators who voted against repeal of the prohibition act two years ago, but whose districts went wet last Tuesday, replied as follows to the questions:

James J. Barbour [6th, Evanston]—"I have not pledged myself to any policy one way or the other and shall make no decision until I know what legislative measures are to be considered."

Charles W. Baker [10th, Monroe Center]—"I shall adhere to the dry principles on which I was elected for my present term."

Richard R. Meents [20th, Ashkum]—"I am not ready to reply to the questions."

Andrew S. Cuthbertson [38th, Bunker Hill]—"As long as the 18th amendment is in force I shall stand by the state law."

Richard J. Barr [41st, Joliet]—"I shall meet this question when I come to it."

Two senators who have voted dry in the past and whose districts remained dry in the referendum replied as follows:

Senator Henry M. Dunlap [24th, Savoy]—"My district voted 'No' on all questions relative to the repeal of the 18th amendment, modification of the Volstead act and repeal of the search and seizure act. My district and I are in perfect accord on these questions."

Senator James H. Felts [50th, Marion]—"I was elected as a dry and consider my campaign pledge holds good to the end of my present term. I shall vote dry on all measures coming before the senate at the next session."

The membership of the new house of representatives also was polled on the two questions asked the senators and their replies are to be published tomorrow.

TWO CONGRESSMEN IN WET DISTRICTS SILENT ON REPEAL

Congressmen Morton D. Hull and Carl R. Chindblom, both Republicans, were asked yesterday whether they would abide by Tuesday's referendum vote on prohibition in their districts. Hull evaded a direct reply and Chindblom declined to answer.

Both are veteran members of congress, have voted dry on all questions in the past and were Anti-Saloon league candidates. The referendum vote in the Second Illinois district, which Hull has represented for four terms, was computed to be 86,571 for repeal of the 18th amendment and 27,387 against. The vote so far tabulated in the 10th district, represented by Chindblom for six terms, was 72,306 for repeal and 24,277 against.

The Republican state convention on Aug. 28 unanimously adopted a plank pledging adherence "to the doctrine of majority rule," and pledging "its representatives in the congress of the United States to carry out fully the expressed will of the people of their districts at the referendum on these questions of public policy in the election of Nov. 4, 1930."

A similar plank was adopted by the Democratic state convention, held on Aug. 20.

The Democratic platform affects three downstate congressmen elect—Henry T. Rainey [20th], William W. Arnold [23d], and Kent E. Keller [25th]—whose districts voted slightly against repeal, but who are obligated by their party platform to vote for repeal.

At Democratic headquarters yesterday the question was asked as to what would be done if Rainey, Arnold, and Keller do not vote for repeal. The reply was: "We'll beat them next time."

Congressman Hull was reelected by a vote of 80,127 to 63,905 for his Democratic and wet opponent. Congressman Chindblom has a plurality of 2,282 votes with a few missing precincts.

Congressman Frank R. Reid [Rep., 11th], John C. Allen [Rep., 14th], B. M. Chiperfield [Rep., 15th], and Congressman at Large Richard Yates [Rep.] are in the same position as Hull and Chindblom—previously dry but elected in wet districts.

KILLED BY FALLING BUCKET.

Andrew Owszarak, 49 years old, 166 Wabash street, Hammond, was killed yesterday when a steel bucket fell on him in the foundry of the Illinois Steel company where he was employed.

G. O. P. TO STAY DRY IN 1932 OR SPLIT, FESS SAYS

Raps Ohioans Who Backed Wet Democrat.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The Republican party still will be flying a dry banner in the 1932 presidential election, Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, Republican national chairman, said today.

The statement was a direct challenge to Ohio Republicans who supported Senator Elect Robert J. Bulkley, wet Democrat, in his successful fight to unseat Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch.

Senator Fess predicted that the Democrats would adopt a wet plank in their platform and nominate a presidential candidate who favored repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Scores G. O. P. Newspapers.

Regardless of what action the Democrats took, Fess said, the G. O. P. would remain dry or the party would split.

Fess scored traditionally Republican Ohio newspapers that supported Bulkley because he was wet.

"Newspapers that supported Bulkley are not Republican in politics," he said. "They went against the President when he needed them most and failed to stand by the administration in a crisis."

Today marked the first time the Ohio senator has admitted that prohibition is an active, pertinent issue. Prior to the election three days ago Fess had asserted that prohibition had no part in the platform of a political candidate.

Calls on G. O. P. to Go Wet.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—A move to make the Republican party the leader for prohibition modification, bring modification of the Volstead act about promptly and so remove prohibition as an issue in 1932 was initiated today by Representative L. C. Dyer [Rep., Mo.], ranking member of the house judiciary committee. He warned the Republican party, saying, "Any party that is dry is going to have a hard time in 1932."

The signs point to an increased feeling among Republicans that if it is logical to go to work to cure economic depression, as President Hoover urged today, it also is logical and politically practical to go to work to cure the prohibition situation.

"Prohibition is bound to be the big issue in 1932 unless something is done about it in the meantime," said Representative Dyer.

WHO OWNS SPEAKER'S CAR IN 72D CONGRESS? "MINE," SAYS GARNER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Before the election Jack Garner, the minority leader, called the speaker's limousine "our car," but today he referred to it as "mine."

The machine is furnished the speaker of the house by the government and Garner rode in it frequently as Nicholas Longworth's guest. He referred to it as "ours" and insisted "Nick" had it only by sufferance on the part of the people.

Longworth sent him a telegram today asking, "whose car is it?"

Garner replied: "Think it's mine. Will be pleasure to let you ride."

SINCLAIR LEWIS SUED FOR $1,000 MONTH ALIMONY

Reno, Nev., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Upon the heels of an announcement that Sinclair Lewis had won the Nobel prize in literature with his novel "Babbitt," his former wife, Grace Heggler Lewis, today started proceedings before the Nevada Supreme court in an effort to collect $1,000 a month alimony as originally provided in a Reno divorce decree.

When the divorce was granted to Mrs. Lewis April 16, 1928, on a charge of desertion, a settlement was made. It provided that Lewis establish a $50,000 trust fund for a 16 year old son of the couple and that he pay Mrs. Lewis $1,000 a month so long as she did not remarry and his income did not fall below $48,000 a year.

Some time later Lewis, who in the meantime had married Dorothy Thompson, author and lecturer, came to Reno and obtained a modification of the agreement. The $1,000 a month payment was reduced to $300 a month, with the further provision that at the end of each year he would pay the balance based upon one-fourth of his income for the preceding year.

Mrs. Lewis asks that the Supreme court return to force the original order providing $1,000 a month alimony.

GIRL TELLS HOW BAUER SHOT HER AND KILLED SELF

Clears Up Mystery in Death of Furrier.

For two hours yesterday afternoon in the presence of her lawyer and the police, Mrs. Vera Thompson, 24 year old divorcee, told the story of her romance with Samuel Bauer, State street furrier, who wounded her twice and killed himself with a pistol Thursday night as she kept a tryst in his car.

At the conclusion of her story Capt. Thomas Duffy, commander of the Sheffield avenue police district, said he was satisfied that Bauer, a married man with five children, had tried to murder her and then committed suicide, as Mrs. Thompson claimed. Capt. Duffy announced he would recommend a verdict to that effect to the coroner's jury, which adjourned until next Thursday after hearing brief testimony from two of the furrier's children yesterday morning.

Tries to Hide Identity.

Following the shooting, Mrs. Thompson tried to avoid questioning by registering under an assumed name at the Belmont Avenue hotel, 721 Belmont avenue. An attorney, John Owen, whom she telephoned for advice, brought Capt. Duffy and Chief of Detectives John Norton to her room about 3 p. m.

She and Bauer met about four years ago when she brought a coat into his store for alterations, Mrs. Thompson said. They became intimate and Bauer had since that time contributed to her support and given her many gifts. "He was real good to me and I won't say a word against him," the girl tearfully told Capt. Duffy.

"He called me up Thursday afternoon and asked me to see a show with him," Mrs. Thompson narrated. "I told him I was cleaning the apartment, so he promised to come and get me at 6 o'clock. We left about 7 o'clock and were driving along Cambridge avenue when he told me he heard I was out on a party Tuesday night.

Demands Proof of Charge.

"I denied it. He became excited and stopped the car. I started to get out, but he pulled me back. He took a drink and offered me one, which I refused. Then I told him that unless he stopped suspecting me and gave me the name of the man that accused me of going on parties, I would leave him."

Bauer then drew the pistol, according to Mrs. Thompson's story. As she tried to wrest it from him the weapon fell into the back of the sedan, and she had clutched the muzzle when the first shot severed two fingers of her left hand.

Finds Bauer Is Dead.

As she begged him not to kill her, he fired again, the bullet striking her in the right side. She could not remember a third shot, but, upon lifting Bauer's head after the third shot, perceived he was dead.

She fled from the car, running to the apartment at 614 Oakdale avenue which she and another girl shared, and there removed her glove and bandaged her hand. Next she went to the home of her sister, who telephoned the attorney, Mr. Owen heard her story and installed her in the hotel, where a doctor was attending her last night. Her wounds are described as serious, but unlikely to prove fatal.

NOTE THREATENS GRANDDAUGHTER OF WM. WRIGLEY

A letter threatening harm to his daughter unless he pays extortionists a large sum of money has been received by James R. Offield of 1400 Astor street, it was disclosed yesterday. Miss Betty Offield held her debut at the home yesterday and several policemen were noted about the place.

The wording of the communication was not disclosed and it could not be learned just how much the extortionists had demanded. Neither Mr. Offield nor William Wrigley Jr., the girl's grandfather, would comment on the matter, although Mr. Wrigley was inclined to make light of the affair.

"I get those letters by the dozens," said the chewing gum magnate, "and I always throw them into a waste basket that has no bottom to it. This one was of no importance."

Mr. Offield would not comment save to say that he wished no publicity on the affair.

When the debut of Miss Offield was held yesterday afternoon two policemen from the Hudson avenue station attended, ostensibly to direct traffic near the home, but it was noticed that they augmented forces which appeared to be special guards or private detectives. The policemen left the home at 7:30 p. m. after the reception had ended.

City to Turn Filled-In River Over to Railways

Plans to turn over to the railroads the land made by the filling in of the old channel of the river between Polk and 16th streets were made yesterday at a conference held in the office of Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the council finance committee. The city's work on the river straightening project will be finished by Nov. 15 and with the transfer of land the city will be relieved of paying $20,000 a month interest on money advanced by the railroads.

Police Find Youth Dead in Auto; Seize Brother

William said they had started for a ride after buying a bottle of moonshine, but could not recall where they got it.

HOLDUP VICTIMS DELAY PICKING OF MURDER JURY

Rejected by Counsel for Bell and Sullivan.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Walter Pulchoven, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Walter Short, murder, sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary; Eric Rushing, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Philip Finnegan.

The task of selecting a jury in a case in which the prosecution is asking for the death penalty has been made more difficult by the prevalence of robberies, it was revealed yesterday in Judge Joseph Sabath's Criminal court, where Frank H. Bell and Richard Sullivan are on trial for the murder of Christ Patras, manager of the Villa Rica café in North Clark street.

Many men called into the jury box yesterday were excused because they said that they themselves, some member of their family, or their employers had been victims of robberies. The defense will not accept any man who has been the victim of a crime of violence.

Defense Fears Prejudice.

It was pointed out that the defendants were implicated in some robberies which occurred before the Patras murder. The defense holds that any man who has been a victim of a robbery might be prejudiced against the defendants and not try them alone on the evidence of the murder.

"It seems like almost everybody in town has either been the victim of a robbery or some friend or relative has experienced this misfortune," said Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler, who, with Assistant State's Attorney Ross Lee Laird, is prosecuting the case.

Robbery Victims Excused.

The case of George Kueble, 3110 Irving Park boulevard, a jeweler, is an example of the difficulty experienced yesterday. He said he has been held up twice in his store and would have a prejudice against robbers. Clarence Seaborg, 3509 North Racine avenue, president of a laundry company, and Irwin Kurzin, 1631 Roosevelt road, owner of a men's furnishing store, were excused for similar reasons.

When court adjourned last evening only four jurors had been sworn in. The trial has been in progress for two days. The judge announced that he will hold a session of the trial today.

Sullivan, who has vowed to get even with his co-defendant at the first opportunity, yesterday was cautioned by the judge not to try to take revenge in court. Special bailiffs have been assigned to keep the defendants apart. Sullivan has turned against Bell because the latter made a "confession" in which he implicated Sullivan in the murder of Alfred Lingle. Officials have since discounted Bell's story.

UNION OFFICIAL DENIES MAKING PLEA FOR CAPONE

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court yesterday received a letter from Michael J. Galvin, secretary and treasurer of the Chicago Truck Drivers' and Chauffeurs' union, protesting that a wrong construction was put on his talk with the judge last week. At that time it was reported that Galvin had approached the chief justice with a proposal that Al Capone, alias Brown, would withdraw from the labor racketeering field if he were given a free hand in the illicit beer business.

"I am deeply grieved that any construction can be put upon my conversation with you other than that I had the best interests of local 705 and its members at heart," Galvin wrote. "I merely wanted to impress upon you that Al Brown has no connection with local 705 or any of its members."

The remainder of the five page letter deals with the history of the union and the fact that its principal officers have held office for 19 years.

JUSTICE PROTESTS FREEING OF MADDOX ON BOND OF $64,000

The release of Claude Maddox, Capone gangster, on $64,000 bonds was protested yesterday by Police Magistrate George F. Lee of Maywood, who fixed the amount of the bond. Maddox, who is charged with assault to murder and vagrancy, was freed on Thursday after his attorney, W. W. Smith, had petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Joseph B. David.

"I first knew of the release of Maddox when I read it in a newspaper," declared Justice Lee. "A number of efforts had been made to get me to release him on real estate bonds. I insisted that a cash bond be furnished. I didn't want to let such a ruthless killer at large unless there was an absolute surety that he would be forced to appear for trial."

Assistant state's attorneys, however, pointed out that Maddox' release had been effected in a legal manner. There is no authority for a judge insisting upon a cash bond, they said. The bond approved by Judge David scheduled property worth more than $160,000.

Maddox is accused of a shotgun attack upon Sergt. James McBride, Bellwood policeman, who is the principal witness against William ["Three Fingered Jack"] White in a murder case.

A list of 800 names and addresses, which Prosecutor Ruthbun said he believed were those of beer parlors supplied with Druggan-Lake beer, was found, and those named will be investigated.

Examined by U. S. Doctors.

Dr. E. I. Cloan and Dr. H. M. Fogo of the United States public health service examined Druggan at the Morrison hotel Thursday, it was learned yesterday, and reported that he would be unable to appear for trial on the income tax charges for two or three weeks. The trial is tentatively set for Nov. 12.

Bonds of $10,000 scheduled for George [Bugs] Moran were forfeited by Judge Harry Olson yesterday when Moran failed to appear on a charge of vagrancy. The bond was scheduled by Michael Schwigel, 4639 North Albany avenue.

Another public enemy, Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, who is scheduled to be tried for vagrancy Nov. 20, made the mistake yesterday of loitering around the city hall. He was arrested by Sergt. Andrew Carroll and taken to the detective bureau. After questioning he was released on $100 bond and will appear today in the South State street court.

LAWYER SEIZED TRYING TO SELL STOLEN BONDS

Nebraskan Holding Loot Reaches New York.

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Franklin P. Ferguson, attorney, was arrested tonight accused of receiving stolen property. His arrest followed a disclosure that part of the $250,000 loot taken in a Lincoln, Neb., bank robbery last Sept. 17 had turned up in the financial district.

Police said Ferguson presented $15,000 worth of bonds for sale today to Jepson, Tremaine & Co., brokers, in whose office he has desk room. The securities were sent to a bond brokerage office, whence they soon came back with a message declaring them to be part of the securities stolen in the daring daylight robbery of the Lincoln National Bank and Trust company. Ferguson then took the bonds and departed.

A detective arrested Ferguson in the Harvard club. He said that this morning he met a friend, Raymond Sims, by chance. Sims, he said, is a security dealer.

Mentions the Bonds.

During their conversation the dealer told him he had $15,000 worth of bonds he wanted to sell. The bonds, Sims declared, were given him by a friend who was settling an estate.

Ferguson said he offered to dispose of the bonds and agreed to meet Sims in the Hotel Pennsylvania in the afternoon to give him the $15,000 cash. When he received the bonds back from the brokerage house, he went to the hotel to meet Sims who, however, was two hours late.

When Sims did arrive, Ferguson declared he demanded an explanation of him. Sims, he said, went into a telephone booth to call the friend from whom he said he had received the bonds. But Ferguson happened to turn his head for a moment, and when he looked around, he declared, both Sims and the bonds were gone.

A Harvard Honor Man.

Ferguson, who is 41, was graduated from Harvard with honors in 1910. He took his law degree at Columbia law school, where he won various prizes and was editor of the Columbia Law Review. In 1917 he became attorney for the American Locomotive company.

He is general counsel for the Consolidated Dairy Products company, of which he is a director. He is also a director in the Seal-Kap corporation and Delancy Enterprises, Inc. He is a member of the Harvard club, Heights Casino, Columbia, "C" club, Bar association, Coldstream Golf club, and West Side Tennis club.

BONDS OFFERED HERE.

A $12,000 parcel of Liberty bonds said to have been stolen in the holdup of the Lincoln National bank were offered for sale Thursday to the A. C. Allyn Investment Securities company, 100 West Monroe street, by Dewey Berlovich, 26, of Des Moines, Ia. Berlovich was arrested and turned over to officers from the Nebraska city. He is accused of being one of the seven participants in the holdup.

Ex-Bank Teller Sentenced to Two Years in Prison

Stanley Bryiski, 34 years old, former teller of the Peru, Ill., National bank, was sentenced to two years in Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge Woodward yesterday on charges of embezzling $48,000 of the bank's funds. A motion for probation was denied when Assistant United States Attorney Owen A. West informed the court that Bryiski has been arrested for intoxication since his release on bond in the embezzlement case.

SLAYER HELD TO GRAND JURY.

Edward Kowlowski, 20 years old, who confessed the killing of two hoodlums whose bodies were found at 1082 North Marshfield avenue, last Sunday, was ordered held to the grand jury on a murder charge after an inquest yesterday. The slain men were William ["Smooth"] Sierra, former convict, and Frank ["Slick"] Smurlo, who had served in the house of correction.

NITTO, FREED BY U. S. ON $50,000 BOND, IS SEIZED AS VAGRANT

Frank Nitto, alias Nitti, Capone hoodlum under indictment for income tax evasion, was released from federal custody yesterday afternoon in bond of $50,000 after Judge Evan A. Evans had denied a habeas corpus writ to reduce the bail to $25,000.

As soon as Nitto was released he was seized by city detectives on a vagrancy warrant issued by Judge John H. Lyle. Bond of $10,000 on this charge was scheduled by the Grand Central Surety company and the defendant went free again. He is to be arraigned before Judge Lyle next Wednesday.

The $50,000 federal bond consisted of $10,000 cash, $25,000 surety posted by the Grand Central company, and real estate valued at $45,000.

Federal Judge Woodward yesterday denied a motion of Attorney William F. Waugh to continue the trial of Jack Guzik, another Capone gangster indicted on income tax charges. The case is set for Wednesday and Attorney Waugh charged the government was holding a witness, Fred Reese, a gambler, under duress. The government agreed to produce the witness for its own use.

WIFE, 65, HANGS HERSELF.

Mrs. Carrie Obergeferll, 65 years old, hanged herself yesterday in a closet in her home at 908 Willow street. The body was found by her husband, John, who earlier in the day had prevented her suicide by gas.

INQUEST REVEALS POLICE WORKING ON AIELLO CLEWS

Information which may lead to the capture of the murderers of Joe Aiello, north side booze chieftain, was hinted yesterday at an inquest into the killing. Coroner Herman N. Bundesen continued the hearing until next week after Capt. Patrick Collins of the Fillmore street station testified that he was tracing important clews from out of town.

Pasquale Prestigiacomo, 205 North Kolmar avenue, in front of whose home Aiello was slain, refused to testify on advice of his attorney. Miss Sylvia Hewitt, 3447 Flournoy street, bookkeeper of the Ideo-American Importing company, owned by Prestigiacomo, told of clerical records, but indicated unfamiliarity with details and was advised to return at the rehearing of the inquest.

Lefty Lewis Seized by Police; Quizzed at Bureau

Harry [Lefty] Lewis, alleged labor racketeer and once tried for the murder of a junk dealer, was arrested yesterday by Detectives William Drury and John Howe as he was parking his car near the Washington street entrance of the county building. He was taken to the detective bureau for questioning and held there until Chief of Detectives Norton had an opportunity to talk with him.

ROBBED OF CASH AND AUTO.

..."and I had my hot biscuits same as usual."

"Mary, the baby and I got off the train not more than seven hours ago, total strangers in Chicago, and would you believe it, I've just finished with one of Mary's fine dinners, and had my hot biscuits same as usual!"

How did we do it? Well, you know Mary! To her, baby's diet, and my hot biscuits for dinner, are things to worry about. She insisted that there were places in Chicago where we could go right to housekeeping. I thought so, too, but where to find them?

Then I remembered what a friend had told me about the Chicago Tribune, so I bought a copy before we left the station, turned to the want ad section, and in ten minutes we had checked a list of furnished apartments that we could afford. Two hours later we rented one.

STRANGERS in Chicago will find the Tribune Want Ad Section an invaluable guide to choice furnished apartments in all sections of the city and suburbs. You can quickly select an apartment for size, convenience, location and transportation, at rentals you can afford. You needn't be without a permanent home more than a few hours after your arrival in Chicago, if you will remember to consult the Tribune Want Ads first.

BULLET PROOF GLASS BAFFLES BANK BANDITS

Gunmen Flee When Their Shots Bounce Back.

Shortly after the Plainfield State bank at Plainfield, near Joliet, opened yesterday morning two masked bandits entered the lobby with drawn revolvers. The leader, a well dressed man, leveled his revolver at the four members of the bank staff, while his companion, who was dressed as a mechanic, forced two women depositors to stand against the wall.

"Stick 'em up," the leader ordered.

President Avery Lambert, who was behind the glass partition, made no move. Cashier Clyde Wolf, the assistant cashier, Mrs. Lucy O'Toole, and Miss Florence Lunt, bookkeeper, also refused to obey the command.

Bullet Proof Glass.

The leader fired above the president's head when a second command was ignored. The bullet flattened against the glass and bounded back toward the robber. The leader cried out in amazement to his companion and both opened fire on the partition.

"Bullet proof!" Lambert shouted.

The robbers fired eight shots. The bullets bounded about the bank and fragments of glass scattered over the lobby. One of the depositors, Mrs. Lulu Foss, 45 years old, was grazed above the right eye by a bullet.

The baffled leader turned and fled out of the bank, followed by the second bandit. They escaped toward Aurora in a maroon colored automobile. Lambert touched off a burglar alarm which sounded in the center of the business district several blocks away, and Wolf seized a gun and ran to the street. The bandits sped out of range and were gone when the police arrived.

Bank Robbed Twice.

Lambert explained that the bullet-proof glass was installed secretly several months ago after the bank's directors met to make preparations to thwart robberies. Last July a robber walked into the bank with a gun in either hand, locked President Lambert, Wolf, Mrs. O'Toole, and Miss Lunt in the vault, and escaped with $4,500.

In July, 1920, five bandits looted the bank of $30,000 and made their escape after a pitched battle with armed citizens. Four of the townspeople were wounded by the gang.

DENIES THREAT OF WITHHOLDING BULLET EVIDENCE

Capt. Seth Wiard ballistic expert associated with Lieut. Col. Calvin A. Goddard at the crime research laboratory of Northwestern university, yesterday denied that the laboratory threatened to withhold evidence necessary to convict a Kansas City man charged with two murders until a $150 fee was paid. Chief of Police B. T. Thurman of Kansas City, according to a dispatch from that city, charged that withholding of the evidence had been threatened.

"Last October the chief sent several bullets to the laboratory for examination," Capt. Wiard said. "He was notified that all bullets were fired from the same gun. Meanwhile a man named Eli Varble, owner of the gun, confessed to the two murders. We notified the chief that we were holding the bullets awaiting instructions and inclosed a bill for the customary fee in out of town cases.

"There was no intimation that the evidence would be withheld until the fee was paid. This morning we received a check for the bill from the chief, together with instructions that the bullets be returned to him."

MODERN BANDIT GANG ROBS TRAIN A LA WILD WEST

Uses Machine Guns; Loot Is $60,000.

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 7.—(AP)—With the dispatch of modern racketeering and some of the flare of the old west a band of outlaws held up a Southern Pacific passenger train near Nobel today and escaped with loot estimated at $60,000 or more.

Passengers were not molested, but were thrown into a panic when a transformer on an adjoining electric line blew out. Eyewitnesses agreed but one shot was fired by the six or seven armed and masked men. The escape was made in a stolen motor car.

The train was No. 36, which runs daily between Oakland and Tracy, Cal., leaving Oakland about 7 a. m. Authorities believed two men boarded the train at Berkeley as passengers.

Engineer Held Up.

Near Nobel, 7 miles from here, an armed, masked man, who had climbed across coaches and tender, jumped into the locomotive cab and commanded the engineer and fireman to stop the engine.

R. E. Lemery, engineer, and S. E. O'Brien, fireman, were forced to lie one the ground. A large sedan was waiting beside the track with other robbers in it. Two machine guns were mounted on the car and each robber was armed.

Methodically the robbers entered the baggage car, held up John McClintock, baggage man, and took an undetermined number of bags of mail, including approximately $55,000 consigned by the federal reserve bank in San Francisco to the American Trust company branch at Pittsburg.

Passengers got out their money and valuables and had them ready. But the robbers were after bigger game.

Six or Seven in Band.

Miss Mobel Skaale, a commuter, said she believed there were six men in the gang, but some passengers told of seeing seven. Miss Skaale said she heard a shot fired, but believed it was done to intimidate some one. No one was hurt.

The bandits fled in the sedan and the train pulled on to Stege, where authorities were notified.

After the robbery C. F. Fredericks, station agent at Stege, found $1,000 in currency in grass behind a hedge fence.

Earthquake Causes Panic in Two Italian Towns

SPINAZZOLO, Province of Bari, Italy, Nov. 7.—(AP)—A severe earthquake was felt here at midnight and a number of houses were damaged. No casualties were reported. The shock also was felt at Cerignola. Both towns were scenes of considerable panic among the population.

WALES TO BOOST BRITISH GOODS ON ARGENTINE VISIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The Prince of Wales will leave England on Jan. 17 aboard the liner Oropesa instead of a British warship for the opening of the British trade exposition in Buenos Aires in March. He will travel as an ordinary passenger and his visit will be wholly informal, in contrast to the rigidly ceremonial tour of Argentina in 1925. He will probably be accompanied by his brother, Prince George. Both are studying Spanish in preparation for what is to be a sales campaign of British goods in South America.

Latin Americans are making great preparations for the reception of the prince, who is going as the ambassador of imperial trade rather than the official representative of the empire. The exhibition, which will open on March 17, will last for six weeks. It will be confined to British products.

The prince will visit other South American countries, possibly Chile and Brazil, and will call at Havana en route. As he plans to do some flying the aircraft carrier Eagle will be stationed at Buenos Aires during the exhibition.

U. S. GRANTS USE OF ARMY STORES TO AID JOBLESS

Unemployed of City to Register Today.

War department equipment will be turned over to the governor's commission on unemployment and relief, Secretary of War Hurley promised in Washington yesterday. Army cots, blankets and rolling kitchens will be put at the disposal of the commissioner to care for the jobless and the needy.

This assurance was given Gen. Enoch H. Crowder, who went to Washington at the request of Gov. Emmerson to convince Secretary Hurley that he should rescind the order he issued refusing the use of the cots and blankets. Gen. Crowder was successful in his mission and phoned James Keeley of the commission that orders releasing the equipment were being sent to Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth corps area.

Will Equip Naval Armory.

Mr. Keeley said that the naval reserve armory on the lake front at Randolph street would probably be the first shelter to be equipped with the army stores. Most of the equipment can be obtained from the army warehouse at Pershing road and Wood street.

This morning registration of all the unemployed in the city, both male and female, will take place in the schools. From 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. all classes of jobless are asked to visit the school nearest them and give complete data about themselves to teachers, who will record it upon a special form designed by the commission. The three downtown locations for registration are: 460 South State street, 188 West Randolph street, Room 1803, and the Jones school, Plymouth court and Harrison street.

With the results of this registration in hand the commission will begin, on Monday, the calculations of how many shelters it will need to care for the unemployed and can approximate the best possible locations by noting the intensity of registration in the various areas. It is eventually planned to provide four classes of shelters—for girls, women, boys and men.

Eleven Shelters Being Used.

At present about eleven shelters are being supervised by organizations affiliated with the commission.

The distribution of clothing to the thinly clad will begin the first of next week, D. F. Kelly of the commission's clothing committee announced yesterday. The Salvation Army will be the agency making this distribution and it will hand out clothing which has been cleaned, mended and made serviceable through coöperation of the cleaning and dyeing concerns.

Last night, three prominent speakers made radio addresses over station WENR pleading for funds for the campaign being conducted by the United Charities. They were Col. Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; Miss Jane Addams, and Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman. Tonight Attorney Silas Strawn, Miss Mary McDowell, and State's Attorney Swanson will make similar pleas.

Project Nearing Completion.

One city improvement nearing completion was noted at Kinzie and Wells streets, where the Chicago Rapid Transit company is completing a new elevated station near the Merchandise Mart. This is in furtherance of the plan of many large concerns to make all needed improvements now to aid the employment situation.

The Y. W. C. A. has started a temporary free vocational school at 59 East Monroe street, it was announced yesterday, and is giving courses in bookkeeping, calculating machines, comptometers, and dictaphones, without expense to the girls who wish to learn a trade against the opening up of the job situation. Many of the girls have complained that they have lost their jobs because they did not know how to operate this complicated office machinery, it was said. The school will continue as long as it is needed, according to Miss Marion Miller of the association.

A meeting of 300 deacons of the Presbyterian church to discover what each church is doing in its locality to alleviate unemployment has been called for Nov. 13 at the Second Presbyterian church. This was revealed yesterday at a meeting of the social service committee of the Chicago Presbytery at the La Salle hotel.

Zion Police Chief, Jailed with Woman, Is Suspended

Chief of Police Conrad A. Brune of Zion, who was arrested with Mrs. Mamie Dehne in a raid at Long Grove, in the Fox lake region, on Thursday, was suspended last night by Mayor E. E. Harwood of Zion. Brune is a deacon of the Zion church. Brune and Mrs. Dehne were arraigned yesterday before Justice of the Peace Harold Tallett of North Chicago and released on bonds. Their cases were set for Nov. 13. Brune was charged with disorderly conduct and his companion with violation of the dry laws.

Sally Joyful; Jobs of Higher Grade Come in; More Needed

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

If anybody thinks that doleful news is all that emanates these days from that department of THE TRIBUNE where Sally Joy Brown collects jobs for the jobless, they should have heard her optimistic comments last night. Jobs had come tumbling onto her desk either out of the mail bag or over the telephone wire. Not nearly enough to fill the demand of searchers for employment at the Illinois Free Employment Service, 116 North Dearborn street, but more and better than on any previous day.

The climax came in the final telephone call just before Sally quit for the night. It reported the placing of the unfortunate Kentucky engineer whose experience was mentioned a few days ago—who applied to Sally only after being forced to part with his gold cuff buttons to get himself a place to sleep.

Will Start Work Soon.

"Simply great!" exulted Sally. "There was a man who had unusual ability, but no luck at all. You remember he'd lost his job and contracted pneumonia simultaneously. The man I sent him to just called to say he had a job in prospect for Monday or Tuesday, that he liked Mr. W—— immensely, and had given him enough money to tide him over until the work starts.

"But look," Sally said, waving a sheaf of pale blue papers, "every one of these means a job for one of those men or women over at the employment agency. We still have people calling us to fill places for men at odd jobs about the homes, but the standard is going up.

"Here's one firm that telephoned for an experienced bookkeeper. I sent them a young college man with twelve years' experience, who once had made $80 a week. When he got there it turned out to be more of an office manager position, where he'd have charge of twenty-five girls.

Wants Two Store Clerks.

"Then here's a haberdasher who is located out on Madison street, who can use two salesmen at $35 or $35 a week. Here's a tailor who wants two bushelmen at $25 per week. This is a request from the Merchandise Mart restaurants for three dishwashers.

"A firm in the Merchandise Mart called for two men to help assemble catalogs at 70 cents an hour, and another hired two young boys to clip advertisements at 50 cents an hour—we have so many who need such jobs. We could use just oodles more."

Sally or her assistants are available by phone or mail every week day to make a record of any work you have to do and other details connected with it. Call Superior 0100 and ask for Miss Brown.

SOCIAL ABILITY IS CALLED KEY TO MODERN JOB

Illinois Vocational Group Convenes.

The economic distributing system was blamed for the present unemployment unrest yesterday by E. W. Barnhart of the federal board for vocational education. Mr. Barnhart addressed the opening session of the Illinois Vocational association convention at the Hotel Sherman.

"When we look over our country today we find the greatest contrast in its history," declared Mr. Barnhart. "Hundreds of thousands are out of work. There is a great gap between the accumulation of food and stark necessity. Somewhere the distributing system is wrong."

Changing Economic World.

Mr. Barnhart discussed the magnitude of the change which has come in the economic world.

Forty years ago commercial education was thought of in terms of shorthand and bookkeeping, but the 1930 census figures will prove, he said, that less than ten per cent of all commercial workers in this country are stenographers and bookkeepers. He told how hundreds of new commercial occupations have evolved, how the system of promotion has changed, how men and women are now rated on their social abilities rather than as technicians.

"When I was an office boy," said Mr. Barnhart, "I dreamed of the time when I would be made a bill clerk, then a bookkeeper, a cashier, and the boss of my own business. That type of promotion is past. Promotion lies now in the field in which one works. Department heads now are primarily people who manage people.

Why They Fire Nowadays.

"Employers are becoming concerned in the social abilities of those they hire. They are calling in the psychiatrists. Nowadays they fire their employés not so much for lack of skill as for lack of ability to get along with people.

"Those out of work are the least able workers, or the good workers under the least able managers. We must turn out better workers or add to unemployment.

"No business man with intelligence will dictate to a 16 year old girl. She cannot understand his business. The time is rapidly approaching when schools will break up shorthand into specialized groups, trained to understand the businesses in which they are employed."

Bogan Speaks at Dinner.

William J. Bogan, superintendent of Chicago schools, addressing the association at a dinner last night, declared that the schools of tomorrow should set up two goals: adaptation to social change and the education of every one in the community.

Among other speakers were William Nelson Pelouze, who called the United States the only civilized nation in the world without an industrial art, and Prof. Arthur B. Mays of the University of Illinois.

COURT REVERSES GIRL'S VERDICT AGAINST THAW

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—A verdict against Harry K. Thaw, awarding $25,000 damages to Marcia Estardus, night club hostess, for injuries she alleged Thaw inflicted at a New Year's eve party in 1926, was reversed today by the appellate division of the state Supreme court.

A jury a year ago awarded Miss Estardus $75,000 damages, but Supreme Court Justice Levy later reduced the award by two-thirds.

The appellate division held the verdict to be "against the weight of credible evidence."

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Three hundred unemployed men will be put to work next week cleaning up the litter and debris in vacant lots in the Bronx. The movement was initiated by a group of society women. Later the project will be enlarged to include other boroughs.

RUSH BOND ISSUE JOBS, ORDER TO CITY OFFICIALS

But Work Is Expected to Wait Till After Jan. 1.

The city hall organization called on department heads yesterday to get work started before the "snow flies" on improvement projects for which money was voted by the people last Tuesday. Fiscal authorities pointed out, however, that in following routine procedure the winter will be well along before the money is available for use.

Jan. 1, 1931, is regarded as the earliest date on which the money will be in hand. It is estimated that it will take sixty days to print the bonds and complete the details of their sale. Also the city council has ordered that the bonds small not begin to bear interest until Jan. 1.

See Wait Until Jan. 15.

Before the money can be spent, even after the sale of bonds, the council must appropriate from each of the bond funds, according to members of the council. These appropriations cannot be made until after the first of the year, and with other legal details to be considered it is believed that the money will not be available before Jan. 15.

These facts placed department heads, who had received instructions, in somewhat of a quandary.

$40,000 Funds Transferred.

The council at last Wednesday's meeting anticipated that plans and specifications would have to be prepared on which contracts can be let to carry out the improvements. A transfer of funds amounting to approximately $40,000 was made to the division of bridges in Commissioner Richard Wolfe's department of public works, so that the preliminary work can be finished by Jan. 1.

Muskogee, Okla., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The list price for shots at ex-husbands was quoted at $2.50 each today in police court here. Mrs. Roy Bingham took two shots and was fined $5. She was accused of firing through a window into the home occupied by Bingham and his second wife. One bullet lodged in Bingham's pillow, but he was sitting up, listening to the radio.

WOODS ASKS REPORTS FROM COMMUNITIES ON RELIEF OF JOBLESS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—In an appeal this evening to the mayors and other heads of local governments joining in the national movement to relieve unemployment, Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of the emergency committee for employment, stressed the necessity for coöperation.

"Victory," he said, "depends on thousands of local communities planning and working toward the common goal. We are all engaged in a race against human suffering. Millions of our fellow citizens out of a job will have to depend on the leadership of other millions for a solution of our joint problem."

Col. Woods, saying he believed it the first time the radio had ever been used to gather such statistics, asked every mayor and local government head to notify the committee concerning measures being taken by public and private agencies to furnish employment and supply relief.

Earlier in the day Col. Woods met the building trades department officials of the American Federation of Labor, and officials of general contractors and other groups.

"We discussed conditions on public and semi-public building work throughout the country," Col. Woods stated. "We are seeing that every project which can go through, shall go through, and that every obstruction to progress shall be removed."

Col. Woods had had telephone calls within ten hours with the governors of forty-four states and with representatives of the others.

GOOD FELLOWS' DINNER TODAY WILL AID NEEDY

Harding Restaurant to Donate Proceeds.

Good Fellows will eat today at Harding's restaurant at 21 South Wabash avenue. John P. Harding, owner, is donating the day's receipts to the Good Fellow fund for the relief of Chicago's 75,000 needy families.

EDDIE DUMPKE.

There'll be special entertainment at the restaurant without any special prices. Several stage stars, including Helen Morgan, former New York night club hostess and now in the lead of "Sweet Adeline," will visit the eating Good Fellows, and East and Dumpke, who are known at WGN listeners as "Sisters of the Skillet," will make a personal appearance.

"As a former State street shop girl, living on the west side," said Miss Morgan, "I want to do my little bit in cooperating with the Good Fellows in helping the jobless care for their families until bette: times arrive."

Public Bazaar in Afternoon.

"Every one seems anxious to do his share in this relief work," said Mr. Harding. "I want publicly to thank my employes who are donating their day's services. And I want publicly to thank the merchants who have donated supplies for this charity day."

In the afternoon a public bazaar will be held on the third floor of the restaurant. There'll be entertainment there, also.

Merchants, eager to help cheer the public mind and thus to improve business generally, have contributed attractive articles for the bazaar. There probably will be many bargains because everything must be sold in the afternoon, and a sale at any price will return 100 per cent profit to the Good Fellow fund.

Family Relief Goes On.

In the meantime more groups—from offices, factories, stores, societies, and clubs—are lumping contributions so that those unable to adopt a family alone can do so collectively. Three subscribers to this plan reported yesterday to the Good Fellow headquarters in THE TRIBUNE office at Dearborn and Madison streets.

The employes of the Chicago Label and Box company sent a check for $82.50. The Hyde Park Laundry company sent a weekly payment of $19.50. The employes of Nature's Rival company made a bi-weekly contribution of $22. The West Park Hospital Alumnae association mailed $50.

There were also numerous donations from individuals in the day's mail. Whether large or small, every penny will reach some family whose needs and worthiness have been established by a trained social service worker. THE TRIBUNE pays the expenses of administration.

HOOVER ASKS FOR A THANKSGIVING DEVOTED TO AID

Is for "Every Person in Community."

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Observance of Thanksgiving day by aiding those people who are in need and suffering from causes beyond their control was urged upon the country today by President Hoover.

In his annual proclamation designating Nov. 27 as a day of national thanksgiving, the President suggested that "a proper celebration of the day should include that we make sure that every person in the community, young and old, shall have cause to give thanks for our institutions and for the neighborly sentiment of our people."

Day an "Inheritance."

"Notwithstanding that our forefathers endured the hardships and privations of a primitive life, surrounded by dangers and solaced only with meager comforts," the proclamation said, "they nevertheless bequeathed to us a custom of devoting one day of every year to universal thanksgiving to Almighty God for the blessing of life itself and the means to sustain it, for the sanctuary of home and the joys that prevade it, and for the mercies of His protection from accident, sickness or death.

"Our country has many causes for thanksgiving. We have been blest with distinctive evidence of divine favor. As a nation we have suffered far less than other peoples from the present world difficulties. We have been free from civil and industrial discord. The outlook for peace between nations has been strengthened.

"Have Made Progress."

"In a large view we have made progress upon the enduring structure of our institutions. The arts and sciences that enrich our lives and enlarge our control of nature have made notable advances. Education has been further extended. We have made gains in the prevention of disease and in the protection of childhood."

MAJ. GEN. PARKER MAKES PLEA FOR PREPAREDNESS

Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the 6th corps area, delivered a patriotic address last night at the conclusion of Parker day at the Morgan Park Military academy. He declared that "righteousness prevails only where there is something to make it prevail." The address was given in the mess hall before 350 cadets and guests.

Gen. Parker commended the modern trend of thought toward a policy of military preparedness and said the old idea of the military man as a man of violence was rapidly being overcome. He said the modern youth was being educated to regard preparedness as a civic duty.

"Wars come when least expected and give no warning of their approach," Gen. Parker said, adding that "pacifism is a product of ignorance and is based on misunderstanding of the problems that perpetually confront nations."

Morgan Park academy is on the war department's national list of honor schools.

HUSKING CHAMP AGAIN WINS AS 25,000 LOOK ON

Recrown Harold Holmes Illinois' Best.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—A summer of sunburned cornfields was no barrier to more than 25,000 Illinois farmers today, forming the largest crowd ever to witness a state or national cornhusking contest. The cheering throngs that overran highways and fields near the Eugene Funk farm south of Bloomington, made today's fiery contest with the holder of the world's husking record and the possessor of the national and the Illinois state championships competing a climax in seven years of this annual classic in rural America.

When eighty minutes of tremendous work had been completed, and the heaping wagons of corn had been weighed, Harold Holmes was taken on the shoulders of admirers, as able to retain his state championship. Harold picked 27.63 bushels of corn to win over Walter Olson, national champion of 1929, and Edmond Cauwels, who only last week had rung up a world's record of 37.33 bushels in Henry county.

Crowds Gather Early

It was a gala day for McLean county, the richest corn county in the nation. Last night the crowd began filling up the streets and hotels. Early today police were jostling the spirited crowds into vacant fields south of Bloomington. Autos bore license plates of half a dozen states.

At 11 o'clock in the forenoon of a crisp, clear autumn day thirteen husky competitors assembled in the Funk barn for instructions and drawing for positions. The selected field of corn, yielding 50 to 60 bushels to the acre, was a special hybrid from which all leaves and tassels had fallen, leaving the ears clinging to postlike stalks.

Then came the march to the scene of action. The huskers stood with their drivers in low slung wagons which had extra high boards on one side, soon to become booming objects of golden onslaught. Each wagon was pulled by a fat, sleek pair of Percherons.

Men Go Into Action.

At the field each lad stripped to his liking. While news and movie cameras clicked and the radio carried the event into the ether each competitor adjusted a glovelike hook or peg to his right palm and, "warmed up" on the first few stalks at hand. Then the gun and action.

"Snap, swish, boom!" went the bombardment as ear after ear left its stalk, sailed through the air in a rapid arc against the wagon's bang board and dropped to rest on the bottoms. Crowds surged forward, overrunning the field in spite of the guards.

"Go to it, Harold, doggone you, we're for you," went cheers of farmers, young and old. After the first thrill lulled a bit, groups gathered through the fields, gray haired men boasting and bantering of their achievements so far removed in antiquity to escape verification.

Welch Finishes Second.

At 3 o'clock winners were announced. Orville Welch, Piatt county, trailed close on Holmes' heels for second with 27.03 bushels; Theo. Tuttle, La Salle county was third with 26.93 bushels; William Wellenreiter, McLean county, fourth with 26.92 bushels; and Ernest Rehn, Marshall-Putnam county, fifth with 26.75 bushels.

Holmes, Walter Olson, and Welch will compete next Friday for the national husking title at Norton, Kas.

Suspend Policemen During Probe of Shooting Affray

Two policemen, Joseph E. Glennon and Thomas Durkin, both formerly assigned to the automobile detail, were suspended yesterday by Acting Police Commissioner Alcock pending an investigation of the part they played in a revolver battle with two automobile thieves several weeks ago. Four persons were wounded during the fight as they came out of a synagogue at Douglas boulevard and Homan avenue. Alcock said he believed that the bystanders were wounded by bullets fired by the bandits, but suspended the policemen while determining if they used good judgment.

Brig. Gen. King, at 87, Asks His Secretary to Marry Him

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. Charles King, 87, Indian fighter, author and veteran of five wars, tonight said he had proposed matrimony to Miss Lucille Rhoades of 92½ 28th street, and was eagerly awaiting her answer. The proposal was in a letter he sent while in the east recently, he said.

Miss Rhoades is connected with a shorthand reporting firm and has acted as Gen. King's secretary.

She stated she had not met the general since he returned from the east. She declined to discuss the general's proposal.

"I'm sorry the news became public," said the general at the Carlton hotel. "Sometimes it seems it should be personal between the parties concerned. But I'm glad that I'm not the one who made it known."

His Aid for 40 Years.

He spoke admiringly of Miss Rhoades. She was the only women he ever met who could make out a military report, and had done all his secretarial work for 40 years—outside of three European trips that he made, he said. More than 250 short stories and 65 long stories written by Gen. King have been typed by her, he said.

"One of my daughters, to whom I had confided my feelings while down east, let the cat out of the bag. And, although I'm 87 years old, I'm still soldier enough manfully to admit the truth—especially when it's something I'm so proud of as my attachment for Miss Rhoades."

The general said that he had received no answer.

"Maybe it's too much for me even to hope for one," he said. "What would she want with an old dragoon like me? Now, if I were 30 years younger—but what's the use of hoping for a thing like that? I think Miss Rhoades has the greatest respect for me, but whether her feelings go further—well, that's the question for her to decide. If the answer is the right one, I cannot tell you how much happiness it will mean to me."

The general said that his plans—if the answer were the right one—included a trip to Europe.

Son Approves Marriage.

"I've been a soldier all my life," said the veteran. "I've tried to face all issues, whether personal or general, in an open manner. And that's why, as long as this has become public, that I'm expressing my opinion openly on it. Only I hope that it doesn't cause unnecessary embarrassment to Miss Rhoades."

He had expressed his feelings, and his hopes in regard to Miss Rhoades, to his son—Commander Rufus King, U. S. N.—while in the east, he said.

"My son heartily approved of the move," he said, "and jumped to his feet and said: 'Dad, she's splendid! My daughters also were enthusiastic, and wrote letters to Miss Rhoades."

She was born during the civil war, according to the general.

"It may be a vain hope," said the general, "but when I mentioned that to my son he quoted the old maxim that faint heart never won fair maiden."

LABOR RADICALS START MOVE TO OUST SNOWDEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The difference between a large group of back bench Laborites and Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden have suddenly reached an acute stage and a movement designed to bring a bout his resignation is gaining force.

This situation has arisen through Mr. Snowden's opposition to the proposed loan for unemployment relief.

Mr. Snowden, however, has made it clear that under no circumstances would he agree to the raising of a loan, Exasperated by the chancellor's obstinacy, the rebels tonight declared that if Prime Minister MacDonald does not persuade Mr. Snowden to yield they will vote against the government.

MAN, WOMAN HELD AS SLAYERS OF HER HUSBAND

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Charged with the murder of the woman's husband, Mrs. Marie Cole, 25, and Frank Jordan, 25, both of Indianapolis, were under arrest tonight. Raymond Cole, 37, was found shot to death near Greenfield, Ind., last Saturday. Detectives said Jordan admitted an affair with Mrs. Cole and said she expressed a desire to "get rid" of her husband. Jordan told police that Mrs. Cole asked him to meet her the night of Cole's death near the spot where the body was found, and that as he drove up Mrs. Cole ran to him crying, "Hi-jackers!"

Cole was a rum runner, his widow told police.

Mrs. Mary Warhurst, 40 years old, who, according to the police, identified herself as a former dramatic teacher in an Iowa university and said she lived at 713 Ovid avenue, Des Moines, will be arraigned on a shoplifting charge in the South State street court this morning. She was arrested in a loop department store last Tuesday on a charge of stealing a blouse, and has been held in the county jail, unable to furnish $1,000 bail. An Associated Press dispatch last night from Mount Pleasant, Ia., quotes C. C. Warhurst as reporting his wife missing in Chicago. He is said to have departed for Chicago.

HONOR 40 AND 8 FOR SUCCESS OF VETERANS' CAMP

Awarded Trophy 4th Year by National Body.

For the fourth consecutive year the National Forty and Eight society has awarded the Mills trophy for the greatest service to the American Legion to Voiture 220 of Chicago. For the last three years Voiture 220 has received the reward because of its operation of THE TRIBUNE Forty and Eight convalescent camp in the forest preserve at 143 street and Kean avenue.

The idea of the camp was born following the acquisition of a site for the chalet of Voiture 220 in the preserves. Under the impetus of Capt. James Russell, then chef de gare of Voiture 220, with the coöperation of Col. A. A. Sprague, trustee of THE TRIBUNE fund, and President Cermak of the county board, a farm house on a chosen site—the highest point in Cook county—was renovated and utilities installed.

Three New Cottages Built.

Three new cottages have since been built. This fall the members of the Rogers Park post are building a large addition to the "War Mothers" cabin. Another post is building a modern heating plant.

There are at present thirty-eight veterans of the world war, released from the Speedway and other hospitals, who are finding strength in the fresh country air, rest and quiet of the farm. The normal capacity is thirty-two. Several who entered acquiescent to invalidism or death have been rebuilt within six weeks to the extent that they are fit and eager to get back to a job.

The gardens and the poultry plant furnish a means of occupational therapy. No labor is required of patients beyond keeping their quarters clean. Little undertakings such as gardening and poultry husbandry keep the men outdoors in the sunshine. There are many volunteers for the work.

Praised by Medical Group.

Recently the camp was commended by the American Medical association through its council on medical education and hospitals. Dr. Homer A. Sanger, chairman of the council, wrote: "The convalescent center is doing a work that is needed and we are convinced that it is doing it in a good way. Its great usefulness is enhanced by getting away from the hospital idea entirely."

New York Woman Dies at Age of 112 Years

Middleton, N. Y., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Hadsell, 112 years old, died here today.

DYING WIFE ASSERTS HUSBAND SET FIRE TO HER FOR INSURANCE

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elizabeth Swavely died today in Jersey City hospital after declaring on her death bed that her husband had set fire to her night clothing with the purpose of killing her and collecting her life insurance.

The woman, burned from head to foot, was found earlier in the day in a furnished room by firemen who responded to an alarm sounded by her husband, Howard, who is held on a charge of murder as a result of his wife's dying accusation.

"He woke me out of bed and chased me with a lighted paper," the wife told Detective Harry Alberts. "He said to me: 'I got you now,' and he put the lighted paper up to my face and set fire to my clothes. After he set fire to me he ran out into the hall and started to call: 'Fire!' but that was just a bluff on his part.

"He is hungry for money and knows that I am insured for a couple of thousand dollars."

Swavely denied his wife's charges.

Walter Rummel, Pianist, Wins Divorce in Paris

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 7.—On the grounds that his wife interfered with his artistic career, a French court today granted a divorce to Walter Rummel, famous American pianist living in Paris and grandson of Samuel F. B. Morse, inventor of the telegraph. Mr. Rommel declared in his petition that his wife, the former Sarah Hetherington of London, was constantly disturbing his work and made so much noise around the house that it was impossible for him to play the piano.

General Bliss Is Weaker; Doctors Fear End Is Near

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Gen. Tasker Bliss, army chief of staff during the world war, who is in a critical condition with an intestinal ailment, was reported "considerably weaker" tonight. Doubt was expressed that he would live until morning.

FORMER ACTRESS FOUND DEAD.

Mrs. Maude Roberts, 35 years old, formerly an actress, was found dead from poison yesterday in her room at 6619 Blackstone avenue. The police said there was evidence of suicide. A note was found addressed to Mrs. Roberts' husband, who is on a vaudeville tour in the south.

Art Treasures Saved from Fire in Historic Castle

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Valuable art treasures and historic furniture were saved from a fire which damaged the first floor of the Fredensborg royal castle, which for years has been the autumn residence of Danish monarchs. During the lifetime of Christian IX, most of the crowned heads of Europe visited Fredensborg every year. The castle was particularly beloved by the Russian czar, Alexander, son-in-law of Christian IX.

King George V of England has one of the finest stamp collections in the world. Numerous wealthy Americans collect fine paintings. Others are collectors of early American furniture. Fishes are also rare sport for some. Of the truly rare groups of collectors are those who make up cases of rare butterflies. Rare specimens are eagerly sought, and it is known that scientists and laymen have spent months in the heart of tropical jungles, braving fevers, snake bites and attacks from wild animals, to get just one rare butterfly. Here is your opportunity to begin a truly fascinating hobby.

CLAIRVOYANTS, FOLDING BEDS, PEP UP '80 ADS

Domestics Are Given Helpers to Bring in Wood and Coal

The want ads of 1880 did not lack in color, human interest, and humor, even though citizens' needs and want ads were fewer. Advertisers did not skimp on words, even resorting to poetry to get their messages across.

Kitchen Coöperation

Evidently domestic help in the '80s were just as particular about conveniences as they are today. This advertiser recognizes the fact in her want ad.

WANTED—A GOOD, PLAIN COOK TO go to close-in suburban town, where she will have a good home, and all city conveniences for work. Boy to bring the wood and coal. Unexceptional references required. Address L 48, Tribune Office.

Love, Marriage, Business

Perhaps the reason why this generation is so successful in dodging automobiles and trucks is found in the fact that the Chicagoans of the '30s were curious about the future. They wanted to look before they leaped, just as their great-grandchildren do today at every street crossing. Consequently, clairvoyants, seers and palm readers had their heyday. The anonymous recomendation was the type of want ad often employed.

WE RECOMMEND MRS. FRANKS from Boston as the best adviser and counselor on love, marriage, and business. 361 Madison-st.

A Surprise in Every Spring

Necessity and adjectives made the folding bed a popular article of furniture 50 years ago, and its improved models are to be found now in our most modern apartments. However, in those days broken bones, bruises and an occasional case of death by strangulation could result from an encounter with a folding bed equipped with super-active springs.

WHY MR. DELANCEY GETS COLD

Mrs. Walter Pfortmiller, Ontarioville, Ill., can tell Mr. Delancey why some rooming houses are always as cold as a beef vault! The landlady takes the furnace with her shopping and forgets it. Simple, isn't it! She says, about this ad:

6 RM. HSE.—HOLLAND FURNACE; near shopping district; Raven. exp. to surf. trans. Friend low for quick sale. Pk. owner, Juniper 0000 or Jun. 0000 after 6 p. m.

"I would rather have my furnace at home, instead of near the shopping district. No wonder some homes are so cold!" Well, here is $1, Mrs. Pfortmiller.

TRICKLE, TRICKLE—SPLASH!

It's a pleasure to get away from the chilling blast and cold rooms, but isn't it worse to have a fur coat that leaks? Mrs. R. J. Kimmel, 2552 Ardmore avenue, is surprised that a fur coat can leak. So are we. We wonder now how a beaver stands it, and what he uses for cold cure. Mrs. Kimmel sends in this ad and inquires:

EXCH.—LADY'S FUR COAT FOR roofing. Mr. Blank, 0000 N. Ashland. Sun. 0000.

"Do fur coats leak? Must have been a bare-skin!" Here, this $1 will buy at least one bundle of shingles for you.

TIME IS RIPE FOR BUILDING SOUND FUTURE

Chance to Go Into Business Yourself Was Never Greater

Ever so often in the business history of this country there comes a time when opportunities to build the foundations for a sizable fortune are excellent. We are in such a period of opportunity now. Many business signs, beginning with the low prices for sound stocks and bonds, lower cost of materials and reasonable labor charges are definite indications. Then, too, depleted stocks on the shelves of distributors and retailers indicate that a resumption of business is near at hand.

Business Needs Capital

A second indication that opportunity knocks is in the appeals made for working capital by small, well managed businesses. These small industries are in normal times highly prosperous, providing stock holders and owners with a comfortable income and excellent prospects for future increases in wealth. Many of these firms are interested in injecting "new blood" into their organizations as well as capital, and often offer a permanent job at a good salary as a part of their inducement to invest in their businesses. These are also opportunities for distributors who have sales organizations able to sell products of many types.

Tribune Want Ads in Index

A most reliable guide or index to these worth-while opportunities for the small investor is found in the Tribune Want Ad Section. Especially on Sunday, several columns in the Want Ad Section, under Business Opportunities, are devoted to the interests of the small investor and the small but sound businesses in need of additional capital.

Full precautions are taken to protect the investor against unscrupulous and fraudulent advertisers, especially as to the truth of the statements made and the reliability of the advertiser.

Wide Variety Offered

Opportunities exist in many lines of industry, and requirements for investments are equally varied. Repeating a few of them here, taken from a recent issue of the Tribune, will serve to illustrate this point. Here is a firm wanting a branch manager who can invest $5,000; another offers a branch manager $75 weekly salary, requiring an investment of $500; another man wants a partner who can invest $50,000; a landscaping company wants a man with $10,000 to invest in an associate company to be located in Chicago; a manufacturer of light steel products wants to merge with another of the same type.

Time to Invest

For the man who wishes to invest a small sum of money and his services as well, now is the time for him to turn to the Business Opportunities Column under Partnerships and Investment, and Distributors, listed in the Chicago Tribune Want Ad Section. He'll be likely to find opportunity awaiting him there.

REDS CELEBRATE; MOSCOW PUTS ON GREAT WAR SHOW

Thousands Parade; Cry Hate at Capitalism.

MOSCOW, Nov. 7.—(AP)—One of the greatest processions in soviet history marched past communist and government leaders in Red square today in a parade celebrating the thirteenth anniversary of October day, the date on which the proletariat uprising had its beginning.

The parade began this morning, with infantry leading. Following them were tanks, artillery, cavalry, and numerous military bands. Civilians marched past by the thousands, carrying red banners on which were inscribed boasts of communist successes and execrations of capitalism.

No Top Hats Visible.

The reviewers, headed by Joseph Stalin, secretary general of the communist party, which is the real ruler of Russia; Michael Kalinin, president of the central executive committee; Rykov, premier and head of the soviet cabinet, and other important figures such as Ordjonikidze, Rudzutak, Molotev, Kaganovitch, and Kuibishev stood at the corner of Lenin's new tomb during the inspection.

They wore no top hats, tail coats, or other evidences of the bourgeois, but were dressed simply, most of them in soft shirts or blouses, and lounge suits, or in military uniforms. Stalin was in uniform. The reviewers occasionally shouted words of greeting to the marchers, who would shout back, "Hurrah for the party."

Police Battle Crowds.

Meanwhile, the innumerable bands played the "Internationale" and other communistic music. Airplanes soared above in formation, while on the streets about the square police fought with the enthusiastic mobs which tried to break the restraining cordons. Voroshilov, commissar of war, made the only speech to the troops.

Some of the inscriptions on the enormous flaming-red placards and symbolical wooden floats were:

"Hurrah for the thirteenth anniversary of the revolution."

"Three cheers for the approaching world revolution."

"Down with capitalism, up with socialism."

"Capitalists of all countries are preparing an armed intervention. Workers of the world, protect the fatherland of all proletarians."

"Destroy Rich Peasants."

"We will complete the five year industrialization plan in four years. All energy to the construction of new industrial giants of the new state and the collective farms."

"We will destroy the kulaks (rich peasants) and exterminate them as a class."

"Shame to those who desert."

"Down with counter revolutionists of all types."

Millions turned out for the celebration with the greatest enthusiasm. They had another cause for happiness, for the government, in honor of the day, increased rations allowances to those holding approved bread cards. Workers and peasants dined well, although private traders, former aristocrats and others were on short rations since they could not buy from government or cooperative stores.

Holiday Continues Today.

All trams were stopped and the streets of the city were literally jammed with people. Special performances are being given in the theaters this evening and even on street corner platforms which have been built for the occasion. The holiday continues tomorrow, factories and other workhouses opening Sunday.

Among the notable features of today's celebration was public opening of the new tomb of Nicolai Lenin, father of Russian communism, constructed of 18,000 tons of native granite in Red square.

30 Hurt in Montreal Riot.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 7.—More than thirty persons, including several policemen, were injured here today when the local communist party attempted to celebrate the thirteenth anniversary of the foundation of the soviet republic. Police stopped two outdoor demonstrations by force, swinging batons freely when the Reds resisted. The mob retaliated by throwing rocks, sticks, pots and pans. One group flung red pepper into the eyes of the cops.

U. S. and Britain Balk French Plan to Cut Navy Personnel

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 7.—The big navy powers won an important technical advantage at the preparatory disarmament conference today when they silenced French demands for categorical limitation of naval personnel.

Great Britain opposed any figure restricting the number of officers and crew, pointing out that the Washington and London treaties limited warships, thus automatically restricting men.

Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, supported Lord Robert Cecil's contentions.

Rene Massigli of France objected, however, declaring that the various categories in armies — officers, non-commissioned officers and enlisted men—were enumerated specifically, and the same should hold true for navies.

The French delegate stressed the fact that a preponderance of trained officers would permit an increase in naval strength in time of war through converting merchantmen into auxiliary cruisers, thus having sufficient expert officers to command them.

Maxim Litvinov, Russian commissar of foreign affairs, supported the French demand, recalling that in the world war trawlers were unable to operate as fishing boats, but when there were naval officers aboard they became expert mine sweepers and anti-submarine craft.

Gen. de Marinis of Italy supported the Anglo-American viewpoint, although in 1927 Italy sided with France on this question.

N. Sato of Japan poured oil on the troubled waters, declaring that he shared Lord Cecil's opinions, but was willing to compromise with M. Massigli by the provision that the naval forces of all powers should be publicly announced, with numbers in all ranks.

The problem finally was referred to a subcommittee, which, after a two hour meeting, reached a tentative agreement adopting the British plan for global enumeration of personnel, but agreeing to make public the number of officers and men in annual statements.

Surgical Wires Removed from Tom Mix's Shoulder

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 7.—(AP)—A successful operation was performed on Tom Mix, cowboy film star, today for the removal from his shoulder of surgical wire strands inserted when he was injured several years ago in a film accident. The strands, physicians said, had caused the actor to suffer from arthritis.

Laborites Lose Parliament Seat to Tory by 1,600 Votes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The Labor government got a setback today as the result of the by-election in Shipley, Yorkshire, for a seat left vacant by the death of William MacKinder, sitting Labor member. The Conservative candidate won by a majority of 1,600 as compared with the Labor majority of 5,000 in the last election.

ITALY SEIZES 20 IN PLOT AGAINST FASCIST REGIME

Prominent Men Accused of "Criminal Action."

ROME, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The government today announced, through the official Stefani news agency, that some twenty persons had been arrested in alleged anti-Fascist plots and that other investigations were under way.

The communique asserted that the arrests occurred in the days preceding the anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome [Oct. 28] and charged that those held had prepared criminal actions against the régime in concert with anti-Fascist elements in Paris.

Word came from Milan that the announcement created much excitement there, since it is understood the plot centered in that city. Among those arrested in Milan is Bartelo Belotti, a statesman of the old régime, who was sentenced to confinement on an island for political prisoners.

Prominent Men Involved.

It is reported other prominent Milanese are involved, including a prominent lawyer, formerly a city official, another lawyer supposed to be active in Italian Free Masonry, and a widely known Socialist. Aside from Belotti, however, there has been no official confirmation of the complicity of these others.

Men of prominence also are under suspicion elsewhere. Giuseppe Rensi, professor of philosophy at the University of Genoa, who had been sentenced to imprisonment upon an island, while Ernesto Rossi, 34 year old instructor of political economy in the University of Bergamo, was taken to Rome today for questioning. As Prof. Rossi's train reached Viareggio he escaped from four detectives by leaping out of a window, but was found later.

Government Rounds Up Reds.

At Padua four persons have been arrestetd on charges of anti-Fascism and will be tried before a special tribunal in Rome.

Meanwhile the government is continuing a drive against communists. Several men were arrested today at Empoli, near Florence, on charges of distributing communist literature, while nine Milan Reds were on trial in Rome today under similar accusations. In addition eight Milan street railway employes, accused of communistic leanings, already have been sentenced.

HARMON'S WIDOW FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

Mrs. Mae J. Harmon, 616 Rush street, widow of Patrick J. (Paddy) Harmon, sports promoter and founder of the Chicago Stadium, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the federal District court yesterday. Harmon was killed in an automobile accident near Des Plaines last summer.

Mrs. Harmon lists liabilities of $92,734 and assets of $450. According to Attorney Otto Baer, who filed the petition, the principal debt is owed to Otto Price, 804 Leland avenue, who loaned Harmon $91,000 to use in connection with building the Stadium.

Indict Ex-Officials of Vets' Group for Conspiracy

Danny Sullivan, former state adjutant of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, and Harry Neierenberg, former state commander of the New York division of the organization, were named in true bills returned yesterday by the grand jury charging conspiracy to defraud both the public and their own organization. According to Assistant State's Attorney C. E. Lounsbury, who presented the evidence to the grand jury, the pair profited through the circulation of unauthorized collection cans and fake flowers which were distributed Sept. 27, when the organization held a tag day.

CHARGE RAILWAY BUILDS TERMINAL TO BLOCK OUSTER

The construction of a new mail terminal by the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad at Polk and State streets was carried out to aid the railroad in its fight to keep the city from forcing the railroad to remove its tracks from Plymouth court and Taylor street, John C. Drennan, assistant corporation counsel, charged yesterday at a hearing before the Illinois commerce commission.

After the city ordered the railroad to remove its tracks its officials appealed to the commission for an order directing them to continue their service over the tracks in question. The new mail terminal is served by the tracks which the city wants removed, so Plymouth court and Taylor street can be widened and opened.

William A. Dudley, secretary of the Greater Central District association, a witness for the city, testified that the railroad could have built the mail terminal on a different site.

Talent, Work Bring Lewis Nobel Prize

For "Babbitt's" Creator Is Real Go-Getter.

The most exciting thing that has happened in American literary circles for years is the awarding of the Nobel prize to Sinclair Lewis. It has been rumored for some time that the prize finally might be given to an American novelist, although Galsworthy, Chesterton, and Maxim Gorky from abroad were the most often mentioned candidates.

SINCLAIR LEWIS.

Perhaps Mr. Lewis' age has something to do with the surprise of the world. Before this prize has been given usually at the end of many years of creative work and to men or women who are past Mr. Lewis' 45 years. To those who know him Sinclair Lewis has nothing of pompous middle age about him. He is still a boy personally, despite eighteen years of literary work, ten of which have been spent in the most glaring limelight, both here and abroad. He published his first novel, "Our Mr. Wrenn," in 1914—that is, his first novel under his own name. In 1912, under the pseudonym of Tom Graham, he wrote a book called "Hike and the Aeroplane," which does not appear in any list of his works, but does in collectors' lists of first editions.

"The Trail of the Hawk" followed in 1915. Those three books were all written while he was doing assorted editorial work on newspapers, magazines, and in publishing firms. "The Job," was published in 1917. Mr. Lewis gathered some of the material for that book in Chicago. Then for the first time I met him. He was a very red headed and red faced person, done on the architectural lines of a good malacca cane, with the most delightful gay sense of humor and whimsy, the most naive and honest delight in the world in life, and belied a dazzling capacity for grinding work. In those days he was "Hal" to his friends, not "Red" [which has become his almost official nickname]. "Hal" was the relic of a first name which disappeared like the tadpole's tail when he became a frog. Whether it was Henry or Harry I can't remember, but I think it was Harry. There was no more amusing person in the world than Hal Lewis in those days. For sheer joy of being alive he was unrivaled.

"The Innocents" was also published in 1917, and "Free Air" in 1919, both of them lighter books than he had previously done and showing no signs of what was going to happen to him in 1920 when "Main Street" was published. "Main Street" is one of the outstanding best sellers of all American literary history. It began the period of bitter satires which ended with "Elmer Gantry" in 1927. "Babbitt," for which Mr. Lewis is said to have received the Nobel prize specifically, followed "Main Street" in 1922, "Arrowsmith" in 1925. "Mantrap" was just a left handed novel, published in 1926. "The Man Who Knew Coolidge" in 1928 didn't startle anyone. But "Dodsworth," published last year, was another turning point in the Lewis literary life. For while still a satire it had a gayety that the satires of Lewis' bitter period entirely lacked. It coincided with Mr. Lewis' second marriage to a delightful woman, herself a writer, Dorothy Thompson. Mr. Lewis will remember 1930 not only as the year he received the Nobel prize, but as the year that his second son was born, a child in whom he is said to have the most extravagant delight.

His son by a previous marriage was named Wells after H. G. Wells, for he was born just at the time that Mr. Lewis looked upon H. G. Wells as the greatest of all living [and maybe dead] writers. It was a great blow to Mr. Lewis when "God the Invisible King" was published just after he had irrevocably christened his son for its author. F. B.

THE WRITING BLOOD FLOWS IN THE VEINS OF THE TREVELYANS

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—There have been a number of examples of literary talent running through a family, and it is to be observed that often this talent runs to seed after two or three generations. But I know of no parallel to the case of the Macaulays and the Trevelyans.

WALTER DE LA MARE.

Lord Macaulay made the telling of history as enthralling as the telling of romantic tales. His portraits are being riddled with criticism now. But what modern history can compare for sheer readability with Macaulay's? None. As we come to the end of it we are horrified at the thought that we shall not be able to read his account of the reign of Queen Anne and the reigns of the Georges. But although Lord Macaulay left no children, one of his sisters, married to a very distinguished man, had a son, Sir George Otto Trevelyan, who turned to biography and history.

Sir George not only wrote the life of his uncle, but a standard work on "The Early Life of Charles James Fox" and a history of the American Revolution. The younger son of Sir George Trevelyan is Prof. George Macaulay Trevelyan, recently made an O. M., whose early historical works were instantly acclaimed (although his "England in the Age of Wycliffe" was published when the author was only 23) as being worthy, in brilliance, of his great-uncle, besides being less partisan.

Now Prof. Trevelyan has written a book, "England Under Queen Anne," which will definitely continue Macaulay's great work. But that is not the end of the story, for at about the same time will be published a long and important piece of historical writing, "William III, and the Defence of Holland: 1672-74," by Miss Mary Caroline Trevelyan, young daughter of Prof. Trevelyan. I should think this succession of able writers in one vein —that of brilliant historical narrative —must be unique. Four generations!

Walter de la Mare has edited a new collection of essays, to be called "The Eighteen-Eighties," the work of Fellows of the Royal Society of Literature. Among these essays are to be noted those on the "Novels of the Period," by Forrest Reid; "Walter Pater," by T. S. Eliot; "Gilbert and Sullivan Opera," by G. K. Chesterton; "Ibsen," by Harley Granville-Barker, and "Lewis Carroll," by Mr. de la Mare himself. It sounds as though the book ought to be a feast of delight.

There also is to be a new volume of stories this season by Mr. de la Mare. The title is to be "On the Edge," which, I suppose, must be taken to indicate that the stories belong to the same genre as those in his previous collection, "The Connoisseur."

I suppose that the two writers of their generation who are personally most beloved by all who know them or know of them are Mr. de la Mare and H. M. Tomlinson. That is because, with great gifts, they are both entirely unaffected, simple men to whom the art of writing is supremely important.

More About Wolsey.

The 400th anniversary of the death of Cardinal Wolsey, who was one of the greatest cardinal-statesmen, will be celebrated on Nov. 29. Authors Chat of This and That at Various Teas

Margaret Ayer Barnes Gets Censor's Advice.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—A glorified literary tea party was the fiesta for which the J. B. Lippincott company of Philadelphia preempted the ballroom of the Ritz-Carlton on Thursday. Dancing underneath the crystal canopy to the low throb of a marimba orchestra, or clustered on the cerise and silver chairs around tables, festive with everything except tea, some two hundred authors and journalists made merry from four till seven—and long after.

ROBERT BENCHLEY

Chatting with Blair Niles we learned that her new novel, now half done, will have New York as its background. The handsome, squarely built gentleman with monocle was identified as Joseph Louis Vance. The handsomest man without one was Joseph Lippincott. Carolyn Wells was the center of a tea table group. So were Mrs. Joseph Pennell, Grace Livingstone Hill, Elinor Mordaunt. We glimpsed, too, Richardson Wright, Langston Hughes, Harold Donaldson Eberlein, Donald Douglas, Mathilde Elker, and Mrs. Oliver Herford.

On this same Thursday afternoon uptown on Madison avenue Margaret Ayer Barnes, author of the successful first novel, "Years of Grace," was holding court at the tea given in her honor by Caroline Mason Smith, Caroline Schauffler, and Helen McKelvy.

"I've managed commuting from Chicago to New York, but I couldn't quite see it from Chicago to Hollywood," Mrs. Barnes explained her refusal of some long term movie offers. In New York this week for consultations as to the filming of her plays, she related with that hearty, infectious smile of hers the advice of a censor.

"Take out the sex and crime, baby, and you'll be all right," he assured her. Mrs. Barnes' second novel has its title, "Third Thoughts," and two chapters are finished. The scene is on shipboard, but Chicago will be represented by several of the characters.

Also on this same Thursday afternoon was the Charles and Albert Boni tea staged downtown on West 12th street at the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Denys Wortman, with the luckily flexible hours of from five till midnight. The featured guests were Capt. William Morris Barnes, who lived the adventures and recounted the tales, and Hilda Renbolt Wortman, who set them down in "When Ships Were Ships." When we arrived about half past eight an impromptu cabaret was in progress with Samuel Taylor Moore, author of the Hetty Green biography, followed as entertainer by Manuel Komroff and Denys Wortman. Black eyed Dawn Powell, Milt Gross, Art Young, George Seldes were other notables present.

On the day preceding this very festive Thursday were two teas and an evening party. Robert Benchley, whose new book has the engaging title, "The Treasurer's Report and Other Aspects of Community Singing," was the lion at the reception held by Young Books, Inc.

Mrs. Edward Mills of Longmans Green chose Wednesday, too, for a welcome to our city to Clare Leighton, just come from London.

THIS SUCCESS BOOK FITS PSYCHOLOGY, HUMAN NATURE, TOO

BY RALPH DENNIS.

[Dean of the School of Speech, Northwestern university.]

"Strategy in Handling People," by Ewing T. Webb and John J. B. Morgan. [Boulton, Pierce & Co.].

When Mr. Durant was galloping across the country lecturing, it was his pleasure at times to spend thirty minutes of his hour proving that there is no such thing as progress and then, doing an about face, to spend thirty minutes proving that progress was a visible fact. As a member of the audience you took your choice, and your choice probably depended upon the slant on life which was yours when you entered the room.

And so it will be with readers of that interesting new book, "Strategy in Handling People," by Webb and Morgan. Dry-as-dust educators will never read this book but will smile pityingly when it is mentioned—the book is, God help us, "popular."

But the man on the street, not of the intelligentsia, not a professor, can read the book and he will, and will profit thereby.

Grant that the Webb and Morgan book is sugar coated psychology. It is, but it packs dynamite. There is not a man or woman, young or old, successful or unsuccessful, but can learn something from it.

This is a case book with incidents in the lives of the great and the near great for its examples and thus it becomes a modest directory of Who's Who, from Hanna to Hoover, from Kaiser Bill to Mussolini, from Peary to Pershing.

Despite this, the book need not foster a cult of success worshipers. It can and will be used by those who are after a quick and easy way to make money, and it can and will be used by those who wish to know how to get along with people, who are not looking for personal profit but rather for some group or community good, for an added smoothness in human relationships, a better way of getting valuable things done.

Beyond a doubt the book will become a standard required reading in schools of commerce, which will probably damn it in the eyes of many a young fellow who, coming upon the book in a happier way, would find it interesting and a guide post around many a bit of rough going.

With wisdom the authors of this book have suggested that the book should be read over a period of days and nights; if downed at one sitting the book will become a maze, a jumble. The multiplicity of incidents and the comments thereon will leave the reader dazed, with a sense of fullness like that which follows a Thanksgiving dinner, and with not an idea stirring. Read on the installment plan with a little thought as to "How can I use that?" and no person, whether a baffled bank clerk lost in a remote cage or a bustling executive whose colaborers don't quite hit the ball, can fail to profit.

From sky pilot to physician, salesman to dentist, actor to executive, this book will have meanings and values. Most of us have to get along with somebody; be it husband, wife, janitor, or cook, we have to handle people.

Mary Borden's Latest Book Tells of Women

Joys, Tragedies of Two Told by a Third.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"A Woman with White Eyes," by Mary Borden [Doubleday Doran].

Mary Borden has chosen for her latest novel a technique different from any that she has ever used. "A Woman with White Eyes," though written in the first person, is reminiscential only in the sense that the person who is doing the remembering is trying to piece together not her own life but that of another woman. The novel is dominated by a hazy person like "The Servant in the House" of that school of dramatic effects produced by the sudden appearance and disappearance of a person whose actual human reality is slightly doubtful to the audience or the reader.

MARY BORDEN.

There is a very simple theme to be developed, that of the tremendous power of love and the toll life takes of those who give too much to another human being. With that as a theme, the narrator has to tell the simple story of two American women with their roots in the English countryside, but never being fully rooted there, and what batterings life gave them—batterings of love and beauty as well as hatred and intrigue.

"A Woman with White Eyes," however, is anything but a simple book. It is perhaps the most complex novel of the year, for the author has so embroidered every little tendril of her theme and of plot that the reader is dazed by that intricacy before the book is finished. The author's technique at times makes her story—which really interests the reader—such a melange the reader wishes that Caroline Merryweather, the person who pours out her memory in the book, had either a more orderly or a less detailed flow of consciousness.

Mary Borden's book is not done in the "Ulysses" manner, in the sense that the memories flow completely unchecked from the mind of a character, induced by irrelevancies, but seemingly recorded by an omnipotent observer. The memories of Caroline Merryweather are consciously kept to the persons and things involved in the plot. There are no irrelevancies. But in another sense—in the sense that the memories are unorganized, unmarshaled, and have no chronological sequence—"A Woman with White Eyes" is done in the "Ulysses" manner. It is not a legal but a natural child, technically, of "Ulysses."

If "A Woman with White Eyes" had been a little less diffused, technically, it would have been a much more powerful book. There is a certain sincerity about it which makes it impressive, a certain cold looking of life in the face. There is a certain keen understanding of how an intelligent person suddenly can see his or her long life as completely futile. There also is a real understanding of the type of man that fascinates womankind in England, although the man is a minor character; there also is keen understanding of the very Englishness of England—so hard for most Americans to get. All of the minor as well as the major ingredients of the novel are right. Only the mixture is wrong.

Mary Borden herself must seem a very romantic figure to those who grew up with her in the years of grace in Chicago, Ill. She is now the wife of Brig. Gen. E. L. Spears of the British army and she knows everybody in England who is amusing to know. Socially and artistically she is as much at home on the continent as is the heroine of any smart novel. She has made an international reputation as a novelist, and that in a country where every one writes well by instinct and where Americans still are considered, even though very chicly so, savages.

Erskine Takes More Legends and Provides Unexpected Endings

John Erskine's latest volume is a collection of short stories called "Cinderella's Daughter" [after the first story of the eight in the book]. They are all side lights on legend, like "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," done in exactly the same half satiric, half buffoonery manner.

"Sequels and Consequences," Mr. Erskine calls them. For instance, the sequel and consequences to Lady Godiva's ride are, according to Mr. Erskine, disillusioning both to the lady's idea of her charms and her hopes of public appreciation.

One of the tales is "Beanstalk" and concerns the well known Jack. "Jack and the Beanstalk" is the title of an opera which Mr. Erskine has just finished with Louis Gruenberg. He also has written the book of another one which is called "Helen Retires," for which the young modernist composer, George Antheil, has written the music. Which reminds us that this fall there was scheduled for production in Berlin an opera whose score was to be the work of George Antheil and the book was made by J. P. McEvoy from "Hollywood Girl." It was hoped to duplicate with it the previous success of Mr. Antheil's "Transatlantic," which won gaudy praise from continental critics.

Who So World Weary as Co-ed After Four Years at University?

"I Lived This Story," by Betty White [Doubleday-Doran], is the book which won the campus novel prize offered by College Humor and the publishers for a novel written by an undergraduate or a person no more than one year out of college.

It is a story of college—Northwestern university. It is obvious—and its heroine is a starry-eyed, passionately collegiate soul in the beginning who is as disillusioned by the end of her four years as almost utter disappointment in ideals can make one.

It has deftness of touch, it is sophisticated. It hasn't the earmarks of callowness, unless that complete disillusionment is callowness. It is a little mannered, a little self-conscious, but the work of experienced writers is often that.

Bernard De Voto, in whose class Miss White studied composition, says of the book, "This is the only good novel that has ever been written about a co-educational university. It is the only good college novel ever written from the co-ed's point of view."

Andre Maurois Starts Work on Biography of Woodrow Wilson

André Maurois, now lecturing at Princeton university on French romantic literature, has admitted that he intends to write a biography of Woodrow Wilson. Princeton affords him endless opportunities to gather intimate material, for Wilson spent a great part of his life there.

M. Maurois will visit Wilson's birthplace in the south and Bryn Mawr where he was a professor.

The Wilson life will be M. Maurois' first essay into modern biography. With his meticulous care for detail and his unexampled sensitiveness to the exact mood in which a man is best portrayed, the experiment will be extremely interesting.

Meanwhile, this fall there is a tiny volume from M. Maurois' pen called "Conversation" [Dutton]. It is in the manner of the famous maxims of La Rochefoucauld.

How Frenchman Turned Moslem, Pirate, Gentleman

"Pearls, Arms and Hashish," by Henri de Monfried [Coward-McCann], is one of those books that are living proof of the adage that truth is stranger than fiction.

It is the record of the adventures of a Frenchman turned Moslem, a pirate, a smuggler, a legend in the Red sea, a figure feared by the white men, beloved by the black, a man rich in memories as well as gold. He is shown now improvising on the piano, now painting a landscape, now running guns for a native uprising, now smuggling pearls, now hashish.

Withal he is such a charming gentleman that when, after years of trying, the British finally caught him, they found the pirate such a man after their own hearts they searched frantically for some technicality on which they could release him. Having found it, they gave a dinner in his honor the night before he was officially released. A fabulous person, Henri de Monfried. He has told his story to Ida Treat, who has set it down.

HELTER SKELTER ELECTIONS.

Judge Lyle notes that the separate ballot saved the four Republican candidates for Municipal judge who survived the Democratic landslide. The fact is worth considering. The judiciary should not be thrown into the political hopper with a heterogeneous list of executive and legislative offices. If we are to have an elective judiciary chosen in party conflicts we ought at least to separate the process of choice from the vicissitudes of a general political election, which, as in that of Tuesday, turns upon issues having nothing to do with judicial competence. All judges should be selected at a special election, in which the question of judicial fitness could be made the only issue.

In fact, Tuesday's election illustrated as well as any we have had in recent years the defects of our system of selecting to public office. There were not only too many offices to be filled at one election, but by combining elections to the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of the government considerations which had no relation to one another confused and perverted the voters' judgment.

This is incompetent democracy. It is impossible to expect faithful and efficient government if important officials are to be chosen upon issues with which they have nothing whatever to do. What has the sanitary district or the county board or the Probate judge or the board of review or the trustees of the state university to do with the wet and dry issue? Our election system makes clear judgment and responsible voting as difficult as possible. It makes competent and responsible government as unlikely as possible. By this complicated and inconsistent machinery of elections political judgment is perpetually confused, and intelligent action by the voters confined to the determination of only the simplest and most general questions. Good candidates are sacrificed and unfit candidates succeed because of the decision of some issue with which they and their offices have nothing whatever to do, and while this may be profitable to party bosses it is not conducive to good government. In the recent election fit candidates were swept to defeat and less fit elected in the general tide of the main issue.

This is a stupid and unnecessary loss to competent and honest government.

GOV. DAVIS PROTECTS THE MOROS.

Administration in the Philippines occasionally must cut across native legislative tendencies to prevent the development of a situation full of trouble. An instance is in the action of Gov. Gen. Davis in protecting Moro lands from encroachments by either Tagalogs or Japanese. The certain cause of an outbreak would be the attempt to despoil the Mohammedan islanders of their lands by any sort of political action in Manila. It probably would not be attempted except under the protection which the American government would be expected to give legislative acts which it permitted to become laws.

Opposition to native policies in the assembly does not make the administration popular, but there was an example of the disorders which result from complacence when Mr. Harrison was in charge. Gov. Davis has endeavored to take the land question in Mindanao and Sulu out of native political agitation, and if he succeeds in quieting it with a settlement which the Tagalog population must respect and the Moros will appreciate for the good faith that is in it he will have done a service to the peace of the islands.

The Moros generally exhibit a good will to the American administration based on confidence which, it is pleasant to note, seems to be justified. There are many inherent hostilities and opposing interests in the diversified population of the Philippines which complicate administration by a governor general, but which also give it practical justification. The protection of minorities is a major task. Failure in that would result in oppression or in war to escape it.

RUSSIA'S NEW RELIGION.

Dispatches from Moscow a few days ago reported the approaching completion of the new mausoleum in the Red square in Moscow, in which the corpse of Lenin is to rest. There the body will lie, under glass, to be viewed by the faithful. Lenin the man has been translated into Lenin the sleeping god.

Karl Marx has joined the Marx Brothers. He preached that religion was the opiate of the masses and it must be admitted that pre-revolutionary Russia offered evidence in support of his view. Now that his doctrine has become the doctrine of Russia's new rulers, and the old religion has been undermined and all but destroyed, a new one has been set up to replace it: the religion of communism.

The evidence is overwhelming. This new religion has many of the outward symbols of the old one. It has its ikons, its sacred relics, its rites, and its pageantry. It demands that its devotees blind themselves to the realities of misery, oppression and cruelty and adhere to a doctrine as an act of faith. It has its sacred writings and its theologians to interpret them. No one who has read Mr. Trotsky's autobiography can doubt that Russia is ruled for all practical purposes by a theocracy. The leaders of communism are not the rationalists they pretend to be; they are the followers of a prophet. Their treatment of heretics is precisely what would be expected of a theocracy.

OUR PHILANTHROPIC EXPORTS.

American philanthropy continues to make generous gifts in foreign lands, gifts unprecedented, we believe, in history. The Rockefeller board has just presented $1,500,000 to Japan to establish an institute of public hygiene. Only a few months ago Mr. Edward Harkness established the Pilgrim fund for charitable purposes in England. His gift is unofficially stated to be $10,000,000.

It is, of course, no new thing for citizens of one country to give money for public welfare in another. We owe the founding of the Smithsonian institution to the generosity of an Englishman, but he had a special and personal reason for exporting his philanthropy; he was soured on his countrymen. Cecil Rhodes provided scholarships for Americans, but his gift was intended to solidify the English speaking peoples to the great benefit of England. Gifts for foreign missionary activities are a commonplace, but the money has generally been devoted to advancing the moral and physical welfare of so-called backward peoples, especially the natives of India, China and Africa. Much money, too, has been spent by Americans in foreign lands in seeking to root out endemic diseases like yellow fever, but when the international health board sent missions to the yellow fever country in Africa it was with the idea of eradicating yellow fever from the face of the earth rather than of benefiting the Africans.

Neither Japan nor England is a backward country in any ordinary meaning of the word. The Japanese know as well as we do the value of public health and of schools of public health. We are not introducing them to a new idea; Japan has less illiteracy than the United States and has made distinguished contributions to medical science. Likewise England, though a victim of the world-wide business depression, is not an impoverished country in the sense that India and China are impoverished. There is enough wealth in England, we should think, to care for the English charities to which Mr. Harkness contributed.

There is, of course, nothing improper about these international gifts. The money given will serve useful purposes. The right of a benefactor to dispose of his wealth about as he chooses is unquestioned. Granting all this, we still are puzzled to understand how our American philanthropists can fail to see that the money sent abroad might serve as well to relieve much distress and privation at home, particularly in times like these. The natural and, we should have thought, the inevitable first thought of any philanthropist would be for those nearest to him, his own countrymen. Why American men of great wealth are increasingly looking overseas for objects and persons to assist is a question which, we confess, puzzles us.

LYNCHING.

The trial of seventeen whites in South Carolina for the lynching of an innocent and respectable colored man, Allen Green, is evidence that headway is being made in some of the southern communities against the lynching evil. On the other hand, a leading southern journalist, Mr. Julian Harris, writing to the New York Times, complains of the absence of a strong protest in Georgia against the recent killing of three colored men in that state. There are certain to be variations in the strength of the reaction against lynching, as in all manifestations of public opinion, but lynch law is doomed by the natural progress of social conditions in the south. It cannot be "stamped out," as the outraged humanitarian demands, any more than other forms of crime can be stamped out. Lynching will be abolished by the conscience and intelligence of the south. It cannot survive the social and economic progress which is carrying Dixie steadily forward.

Today it is more clearly realized than yesterday that lynching is a blot on the good name of the south, and there is an increasing respect for the civil rights of the colored man. We have information, for example, that immunity from punishment for offenses against colored people is considerably more expensive than it used to be. That it should be obtainable at all, by money or by influence, is not a pleasant fact, but that is not confined to the south, and if it is coming higher where the colored man is concerned his rights are beginning to be realities.

Editorial of the Day

[Grand Rapids, Mich., Press.]

Grand Rapids furniture manufacturers have been fighting for years the unfair competition of fake antiques made up to order from aged wood and put down free of duty in the New York market to compete at fraudulent prices with good American furniture.

They asked congress to restrict importations to genuine antiques imported for museums and educational exhibits, but that effort failed. They then asked that ports at which alleged antiques could be admitted should be limited to three, at which genuine experts capable of detecting fakes might be stationed. That also failed, and the latest news is that the government is establishing ten such ports instead. It is hoped this scheme will work.

We fear that it will work somewhat like this: Importer A, discovering a popular liking for "antique" Chippendale chairs, will order a dozen from London faker, B, who has been busily engaged in buying up old bridge timbers. On receipt of the order B makes up the chairs from the bridge timber. They are undeniably of good Chippendale design. They are unquestionably of wood more than a hundred years old. They are rickety enough to be older than that. The chairs will be imported at the place where the least expert or most careless "expert" is located. As the chairs will look like the real thing, and rattle like it, they will be passed duty free and sold to gullible Americans. Business which might have gone to Grand Rapids manufacturers selling honest merchandise better in every way will be lost.

The trouble is that in investigating furniture "antiques" there is absolutely no reliable system for determining whether a piece really is a hundred years old as required by law. No museum would think of purchasing an artistic antiquity without documentary proof and historical record of its origin, and the successive sales through which it has passed to bring it down to the present. No intelligent art collector would buy a picture without some such record.

AND THAT'S THAT!

HEATING HOUSES.

A NEW method of heating houses is being given an extensive tryout. So far as things have gone it has proved satisfactory. It consists in heating the walls, ceilings, and floors and having them radiate heat into the air. Certain panels, set in the walls, ceilings and floors, are heated by means of electricity, hot water, or hot air, and, if electricity is used, insulated wires are imbedded in the plaster. The heat comes from the passage of electrical current through resistance coils or wires.

If hot water supplies the heat, hot water pipes run just behind the face of the wall, just under the floor, or just above the surface of the ceiling. The advantage of the method is that it heats the air in all parts of the room more nearly uniformly and maintains a more even heat than any other method. If the hot air is used the air ducts are below the plank of the floor or behind the face of the wall, and the air flows through the ducts and never into the room itself.

Another method consists in suspending fire clay plates some ten feet or more above the floor. In these plates wires to conduct electricity are embedded. The plates are heated by means of electricity circulating in these wires, and the plates radiate and conduct heat to the room air.

The great shortcoming of all the better established means of heating is that they are insufficient when it comes to distribution of the heat to different parts of the room. The spaces near the radiators and the hot air inlets are too hot and those near the windows are too cold. The space up near the ceiling is scorching hot and that near the floor is unpleasantly cold. This is responsible for some colds and other illnesses and for much discomfort on the part of the occupants of the room, it makes some space impossible for use, and it wastes heat. The new methods of heating are planned to overcome all these defects.

GETTING FREE OF BLACKHEADS.

O. O. writes: My face, neck, and forehead are covered with pimples and blackheads. Could you suggest any way I might rid myself of this trouble?

REPLY.

I can. Will you follow it?

Pimples result from infection of distended grease glands. If you will keep these grease glands emptied you will get rid of pimples. Men who shave are free from pimples on the skin. That points the way to you. Lather your skin with soap and hot water. Go over the skin with the edge of a dull case knife, pressing the grease from the glands. In other words, do what the shaver does, but use an edge that will not cut or scrape. There are some other aids, but this is enough in most cases. But persistence and soap are needed.

IT IS DANGEROUS HABIT.

A. E. W. writes: Is kissing a baby on the face and hands dangerous when one has a cold?

REPLY.

It is.

IT MAY BE SERIOUS.

A Constant Reader writes: Have had night sweats very bad for two weeks past, getting up often at night, coughing severely at times, using as many as two dozen handkerchiefs a week. At meal times I eat as much as two persons. I am hungry between meals and at night, wanting mostly meat, heavy foods. I am still able to work at trade. Do you think it serious?

REPLY.

I do. It may mean diabetes, or something else.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

HEAR YE! HEAR YE! HEAR YE!

The Thanksgiving proclamation tells us that we are to give thanks on Thursday, Nov. 27. Well, we'll give thanks all right; gosh, that's about all that lots of us have left to give. And right after we read the Thanksgiving proclamation and was wondering just what we'd do that day we ran into another column of the paper and read a statement from Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, that business would be on the upgrade next month. We'd give thanks for that only there's been so many of those business on the upgrade statements from Washington this year that we somehow can't get very enthusiastic about another one. Business is on the upgrade all right, but it's a mighty stiff grade, and we've got a puncture in the front tires or the carburetor's leaking, or something. Anyhow, the Pilgrim fathers gave thanks when they didn't have anything to eat but some parched corn and the Indians were shooting at 'em on their way to church. We'll have more than parched corn to eat this Thanksgiving anyhow—wheat's so low that almost anybody could get hold of some wheat to put with the parched corn. And the Indians won't be shooting at us, just bootleggers, dry enforcement cops, bandits, and things like that. But, cheer up. Think about the poor turkeys. Suppose you were a turkey and had to read the Thanksgiving proclamation? So, if you can't think of anything else, be thankful you're not a turkey.

DONE IN OILS.

The painter caught the mood, sedate, contained,
Judicious aspect and the visage high,
Profundity with wisdom there engrained,
The calf skin volume on the table nigh,
This was a judge in life, sober and wise,
Skilled to detect the flaw, the specious, false,
Unerring to point out the clumsy lies,
Spurring the nag along when Justice halts.
Gracing these walls as once he graced the court,
With gravity, demeanor high and proud,
A man uncommon, of another sort,
Who shunned the embraces of the common crowd
But silent on these walls he now presides
With a relentless, even, steadfast stare,
The flood of litigation with high tides
Surges below and beats upon the air.
But calm, unmoved, he sees it going by,
Unmindful of his presence hanging high.

CLARENCE P. MILLIGAN.

ANOTHER SIGN of hard times—saw a woman in a ten cent store yesterday buying a tin cocktail shaker.

THIS MACHINE AGE amazes us more and more. The office gave us a new typewriter yesterday which is the last word in typewriters. It's so big and beautiful and imposing that we're almost afraid to touch it. However, we're getting on with it, and we think if we treat it right we can get San Francisco, and maybe Cuba, or even tune in on London. And we're going to bring down some Caruso records and see if it will play 'em. And we hope it won't use as much gasoline as our auto does and that it won't skid. Anyhow, we're going to put chains on it when snow comes.

"LONDON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—It became known today that Charles the Bold of Burgundy died of an ingrowing toenail which affected his foot."—Yesterday's Trib. It's just too bad, but as Charlie kicked off in 1477 it seems too late to do anything about it now.

THE GIRLS are wailing so about having to give up their lovely short skirts and being compelled to wear those hateful long, new style Mother Hubbard things that we fear the long skirt must have been voted on in the election Tuesday and is now a law. It was a long ballot and loaded with all sorts of things. Wonder what all we did vote for on that ballot anyhow.

AND, ANYHOW, since the election, when a man pipes up gently and says, "I really believe the 18th amendment should be repealed," he is no longer regarded as a social outcast or a monster of iniquity.

GEN. W. EVON VON BLOMBURG of the East Prussian army, who is visiting in Chicago, expressed his amazement over the talk he has heard here about depression, asserting that everybody he has met appears prosperous, and that every one he sees drives an automobile. True, general, but if you will step into our private office we will tell you a few things about this here now installment system.

UNDER THE NEW LAW candidates for mayor of Chicago can file their petitions as early as December 24th. Well, all right; the law is the law, but it's just about going to ruin Christmas for us. Gosh, we're so tired of politics!

SONGS FOR LYNN.

Cool, impervious,
Close to the good earth,
You are a stone, over which
The fancies of my love drift
In seasonal rhythm,
Now lightly, like snow from cottonwood trees;
Now gayly, with rustle of autumn leaves;
Now coldly, bitterly, as frost lace;
Now softly, sorrowfully as rain. . . .
Now lightly, now softly,
Over and over again. . . .

AND THE THANKSGIVING proclamation says that there is much to be thankful for. Democrats and wets, yes, but what about the Republicans and drys?

SURE TO KICK THE PROPS OUT FROM UNDER SOMEBODY

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 8, 1914.

LIMA, Peru.—It is reported here that a Japanese squadron, cruising along the coast of Peru, has captured the German cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau.

PARIS.—Violent night and day attacks by the Germans on the Anglo-French front southeast of Ypres and on the British line at Nieu Chapelle, between the canal at La Bassee and Arras, and against the British positions on the Oise, have been repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy.

CHICAGO.—There are thousands of fatherless and homeless children in the war zone of Europe. Cold, starvation, disease and the blind violence of war threaten the destruction of these innocents. There are thousands of childless families in the United States who would gladly give them temporary or permanent homes. It is the purpose of THE TRIBUNE to bring the two together. The plan has been indorsed by representatives of the Belgian government, though it is not intended to confine the work to the war orphans of that desolated kingdom.

CHICAGO.—What war actually is was shown to a small group of persons yesterday in the rooms of Maj. M. L. C. Funkhouser of the board of censors in the city hall. Motion pictures of war scenes in Belgium, taken by Edwin F. Weigle, a TRIBUNE staff photographer, were shown to the censors. Practically every phase of fighting was depicted.

NOVEMBER 8, 1900.

CHICAGO.—In Chicago and Cook county the campaign of 1900 will be memorable as marking the defeat—some call it "the passing"—of William Lorimer, congressman from the Second district, often called "the boss of the Tenth ward." Lorimer admits his defeat by John J. Feely. The man who has thus humiliated the erstwhile boss is 25 years old and an "unknown." President McKinley carried the county by 17,835 votes, while at the same time Samuel Alschuler, the Democratic candidate for governor of Illinois, secured a plurality in the county of 5,064 over Richard Yates. John J. Hanberg, Republican, was elected president of the county board, and John E. Traeger, Democrat, was elected coroner. The Democrats again have control of the drainage board. The total vote cast in Chicago was 364,545. McKinley's plurality in the state is 105,000 and Yates' is 70,000. The results in Kentucky and Nebraska are still in doubt.

NEW YORK.—Elbridge T. Gerry, founder of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and for the last twenty-one years at its head, has resigned as president of the organization.

NOVEMBER 8, 1880.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The secretary of state has received an abstract of the official vote on the President from 57 counties. With the known vote in other counties, the returns indicate a majority for Garfield and Arthur of 40,000 in the state.

LONDON.—One of the greatest of the Land league meetings was held in the little town of Athlone in the counties of Westmeath and Roscommon with 20,000 persons in attendance. Some of them had traveled barefoot from points 50 miles away. The whole mass seemed to be moved by a spirit of utter defiance for all forms of British rule that certainly bodes no good to the surrounding landlords. This, with Mr. Parnell's bold and almost revolutionary speech, is considered here in London as an almost certain indication of a projected uprising and a war to the knife of the peasantry against landlords. There can be little doubt that the popular sentiment of Ireland is thoroughly aroused.

ROME.—The pope delivered a speech on the wrongs which he considers the church and sovereign pontiff have suffered at the hands of the Italian government which has produced a profound sensation, for his words were as uncompromising as they were unexpected. He declared that no compromise, conciliation, or modus vivendi can ever be possible between the Vatican and the Quirinal until the latter yields all the former asks and holds to be right.

ON THE CANCELING OF PARTIES.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—It is getting to be a daily occurrence for clubs, societies, and even individuals to cancel parties, banquets, etc., with the excuse that they are going to use the money for the unemployed.

We would like to know how they are going to give this money to the unemployed. It seems to me it would be a good idea for these people to consider that our leading hotels are immense institutions, working under a terrific expense, giving employment to thousands and thousands of people, and when these clubs, societies, and individuals do give parties or banquets they are giving employment to cooks, chefs, waiters, miscellaneous help, and last but not least to performers and musicians who are entitled to make a living as well as any one else.

I fail to see where it is in any way altering or remedying the present depression by canceling these affairs and throwing this vast number of people out of employment. JAMES G. HENSHEL.

CALL FOR A LEADER.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—I would like to differ with those who call this election a Democratic landslide, especially in Illinois. It could better be known as a Republican suicide aided by Democratic poison. Let us look back to the April primary. You will find that Republican ballots out of proportion to our vote were voted upon. We know that this surplus was due to Democrats helping pick a Republican ticket, one that could have no harmony. They were aided by Republican factions picking candidates unsatisfactory even to themselves in order to vent their spite. With this facing us in the fall, we met a united Democratic party, we being torn asunder by at least three factional groups. All this I find by using a little common sense and by acting as judge of election. With each Republican faction voting its one-third candidates and giving the Democrats the other two-thirds vote, we find the Democrats getting the equivalent of two straight tickets that belong to the Republicans. If petty animosities and personal feelings are to split up our party, is there nobody to clean house and lead us? A. L. S.

DRIVERS' LICENSES.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Mr. Charles S. Worth in his letter criticizing the drivers' license law overlooked the fact that such laws have been successfully enforced for years in a dozen of the eastern states, including New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, which certainly are not free from political squabbles.

Our investigator recently took the license examination in twelve of these states, incognito, and talked with hundreds of people. When he asked about graft the answer was, "When it's so simple to get a license honestly, why pay a grafter?"

These laws have reduced fatalities 29 per cent in a few years. This would mean three hundred lives a year in Cook county alone. The cost to the private driver would be insignificant, probably only 50 cents every three years.

C. W. BURGQUIST,
President National Safety Council.

ENTERING A CANDIDATE.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—In my opinion Judge Jarecki would make Chicago a good Mayor and would be elected should he run. MARK WHITE, M. D.

REPUBLICAN RESPONSIBILITY.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—I am a Republican and the only comment I have to make concerning the election is to say that a good many Republicans have made fools of themselves and of the party they represent. It seems strange that in times of stress they had not sufficient courage to stand up under the load and carry on. The papers tell us that the depression is not only national but universal. Do they attribute it to the Republican party in Europe?

As for prohibition: My father was an habitual drinker, and to whisky and whisky alone do I attribute all the suffering and privation that fell to me until I became a wage earner myself. If any one can tell me just how the world is going to be bettered, individually and collectively, by letting flow the booze which its selfish appetite craves, let them come out with it. My memories of trembling, wakeful nights waiting by my lonely mother's side for a drunken father to return with what little (if any) was left in his pay envelope, would seem to cloud for the moment any great or overwhelming sense of appreciation for boon, for which the world so longs.

DISGUSTED.

ARMY FOOTBALL.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 6.—Army projects Navy's plan for charity game! Army, a service institute financed by the people—yes, even their extravagant football machine is financed either indirectly by the public through taxpayers or directly by the public through support at the ticket offices—now refuses to aid a part of those citizens in distress, who really have made Army what it is today. Is this the real American spirit?

Army athletic authorities base their refusal on the petty dispute with Navy of four years back. Navy is willing to forget in this time of need for duty's sake. Army refuses. If West Point is going to allow such petty disputes to cause so much hard feeling between the two schools that they can't harmonize in time of public need, then it is time that steps be taken to end football at West Point. A STUDENT.

CLOSING THE SCHOOLS.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—I have been trying to find out why the Chicago public schools were closed on election day this week and I am still without the answer.

Most people say that it is to give the teachers an opportunity to vote. Nothing could be more absurd. That might justify opening the schools a half hour later or closing them a half hour earlier, but even those measures are not required. Teachers have ample time to vote before school or after school.

Moreover, I can see no good reason for making any special effort to check the teachers' votes. I cannot forget that we owe the last election of Mayor Thompson in no small degree to the attitude of the teachers' organization. It was, perhaps, as distinguished as an example of political folly on the part of a presumably educated class in the community as will ever come to the attention of this generation of voters.

I am wondering if this closing of the schools is required by state law. If it was ordered by the school board on its own authority the members who voted for it ought to be examined for insanity. PARENT.

SNOW
By Ednah Aiken

SYNOPSIS.

Sheila Fay married King George despite the opposition of her uncle and guardian, John Donohue, and her former suitor, Jim Molloy, and disapproving friends.

King, known as "the wild boy of Harvard," must wait several years before receiving the principal of the fortune left by his father, Joshua George of chewing gum fame.

After the wedding they elope to avoid the reception. Instead of going to Monterey where their baggage had been shipped, they slip off to Lake Tahoe. King is strangely restless and irritable, and a phone call which Sheila overhears King make reveals to her the cause—he is a drug addict and because of their changed honeymoon plans is without supply. Sheila determines to fight for King's regeneration and consults a federal narcotic agent, who suggests a program which if rigidly adhered to would effect a cure.

King had entered his favorite horse, Wind, in the Tia Juana races with the intention of riding him himself, so they go to San Diego. The day before the race Sheila overhears her husband and his trainer planning to dope Wind to insure his winning. The day of the race King asks Sheila to place his bets for him on Wind. Instead she places them on his opponent, who wins. After the race Sheila tells King what she had done and why.

King had promised Sheila to go with her to Alaska after the races. Jim Molloy is in Nome and he meets them there at Sheila's request. He helps her to carry out her plan to take King to a remote spot, there to help him fight off his baneful habit. Sheila and Jim had booked passage on the boat returning to California. Jim invites them for an early farewell breakfast at his cabin. King's coffee is drugged and Sheila and Jim carry him off unconscious to a cabin, not far from Nome, although seemingly in the heart of the frozen wilderness. Two servants, an Eskimo couple, hired by Jim, are at the cabin. Jim returns at once to Nome. King returns to consciousness in sullen silence.

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

SHARP-BLADED WORDS.

Sheila crept from the covers, standing on her pillows to reach the angle formed by fiber wall and roof. Her groping fingers found a niche behind a beam wherein they dropped the hateful box. King would not come across it there. And next spring she would give the odious steel things back to Jim, exultingly telling him, "They were superfluous, Major!" Next spring! So much was to happen before then.

. . . . . .

The next morning it was a restored Sheila who was awake and watching the curtains which surrounded King's bed. She was wondering if she still slept when a rap, light as a bird's wing, brushed their door. The squaw, Casino.

When she saw how capably the little brown woman was setting about to prepare the two trays, Sheila crept back into bed again. Jim's training still prevailed. So far it was she who was superfluous. What a Chechako she was! She had once thought she could get along in this frozen wilderness without servants. She had craved to meet this struggle alone, without alien eyes or ears as witness to poor King's degradation. But these were kindly. It was as though they were deaf and blind.

As soon as the breakfast of toast, coffee, and marmalade had been eaten and the dishes washed, the room dusted, she dismissed the Eskimo woman. "Come back dinner time!" She made the motions of eating. Casino nodded. With slow precision she made herself shapeless in parka and mukluks, ambling out into the snow, which during the night had reached the door sill. Through the open door Sheila had a glimpse of a white sheeted world.

And still no word from King.

In the quiet room Sheila bathed, dressed, compelling her thoughts to follow her motions, for dread of the coming struggle, she warned herself, would weaken her. She forced an interest in her costume for the first evening in the wilds, deciding at last on the orange colored plaited skirt and the new sweater of lemon tinted wool, with which she would wear either her gold or antique amber beads. As long as possible she was determined to be kind to King's eyes. "His gold and white Diana," he had called her at the lake. He had revelled in her golden beauty; had marveled at the firm-fished white allmness of her body—he would love it again when all this was past.

Special pains had to be expended on her hair, to which the journey of yesterday had not been friendly. It was harsh and stiff, resisting her fingers. For many minutes she brushed it until it surrendered soft obedience, ruffling and shaping it into the gentle waves he had once loved—no, fiercely she corrected herself. Which he loved. She must affirm, affirm, affirm.

But when she emerged from the curtains, dressed for the day, her heart was clamoring against her ribs. A ready made smile waited on her lips. "Morning, King!"

His inflexible stare told her that speech hung over them like a bright, double-edged dirk. Nothing in her experience, it came to her then with a shock, had fitted her for what she had to endure. For horses one vanquishes with muscle and iron will; with them one need not fear the degradation of sharp-bladed words.

Before her eyes left his face she saw he was going to break the silence; that he was fully awake, the mocking, hostile eyes no longer confused.

"So you want every one in Nome—and outside, too, for they'll chatter and write—to know we missed the boat; and why. You want every one to know what you think you've found out. When was it? At Nome? Or did you marry me to reform me? My God!"

Not as terrible as she had feared—but this was only the beginning. Which of his questions were the safer to answer? Which led to dangerous crossings? She waited, deliberating.

"Well?"

"No one, at Nome or anywhere, is to know. That's why—I chose—this place."

A sneer of incredulity twisted the beautiful mouth. "Be yourself! In a dump like Nome every one knows everything about everybody. You think I can't get—the stuff here, I s'pose?"

He expected they would return to Nome as soon as the boat had sailed away without these two passengers. If that were what he thought, what would he say when he knew her intention?

While she was still planning a sentence which would not be a bomb, he went on, "Pretty costly trick, eh?"

The answer to that was safe and simple. Eagerly, cheerfully, she said, "Yes!"

"Think I can't get what I want? Silly Sheila. D'you think I can't stop any time I want to? I could stop today—but now I won't. I won't be forced by a woman. I'd have stopped long ago but for—folks, like you, daring me on."

If only the talk could end there! But the bomb had to be dropped. Better have it over with, her thought counseled. Quietly but with inner panic she said, "We aren't near Nome. Not near enough to get back."

He raised himself on his elbow, staring at her with disbelief. "Not near Nome? Where in God's world are we then?"

A lie had been rehearsed for that question. "Sixty miles away, plus. Part of the way we came by dogmobile, before it began to snow; the tracks are covered now; can't be used again until next summer. The dogs have been sent back to Nome. We had to cross Nome river—several times." She caught herself in time, as she was about to be definite. "And once by boat. And we hiked in here before it began to snow hard. Not hard enough to require snowshoes. Which was well for me, for I don't know how to use them. Do you?" He made no answer, and she went on.

"Now one can't get far from the cabin without them." For he must be made to realize at once not only their isolation but their helplessness.

Even then she could see he did not fully grasp his situation, for the voice was controlled which demanded, "And how long do you plan to reside—at this Ritz? When are they coming for us?"

It was hard to meet his eyes without flinching. "When the next boat leaves, in June."

His fury was then unleashed. He sprang out of bed. "Next summer! By God, you——" The unforgettable words poured forth, a cascade of abuse he wanted to cover her ears, to protect mind and memory from the flood of muddied waters. But that would confess fear. Her spirit cowering, she managed, she thought, to keep her face unafraid.

As though he were a stranger whose wrath could not wound her, she watched the man she had married. No, she would not listen; she would shut out his words. She would mock him with her thoughts. The clothes of yesterday had not been removed; he was unwashed, unshaven; his hair had not been combed. When his anger would spend itself, he would see himself as a ridiculous spectacle, King, the erstwhile exquisite, facing his golden-habited calm keeper. She had the advantage in every way, she must remember. If she kept that in mind she would soon control him. "Patience, Sheila," she cautioned, prayed. For she was not sure of herself. Never before had she had to listen to any one abusing her; never before had to submit to a humiliating tirade. This, she must remember, was a test of wills.

"I'm beginning to understand. It was at Molloy's, wasn't it? He made me drink that d—— coffee. And so you let him drug me. Molloy's back of all this. He has his reason for wanting me out of the way. A gold digger all right. A fortune hunter! Jim, who had done his best to oppose her plan. Jim, the good friend, whom she had had to coerce!

Good Morning!

Glorious comedy this, with an insistent bell of pathos tolling through it! A picture that catches the fancy at the outset and holds the interest taut till the final curtain! Of laughs it has a legion and the tears it calls forth are warm, spontaneous and satisfying. It is Sean O'Casey's fine stage play, acted on the screen by an excellent cast containing a number of the original Abbey players featured in the "legitimate" production.

"Juno and the Paycock" is an anomaly, alive with the spirit of caricature. There's burlesque in its comedy; melodrama in its tragedy; but it is richly, shrewdly human always—and so, it gets you where you live.

The story deals with the lives of the Boyle family and their associates, and the scenes are laid in Ireland during the days when the Free Staters battled the Die Hards. Capt. Boyle, the "Paycock," is a swaggering, whisky swigging, worthless fellow, in the pink of condition save when a job threatens him. Then mysterious ails assail him and his legs do Leon Errol's under him. Mrs. Boyle—big hearted, generous breasted, laughter loving "Juno"—shoulders the family responsibilities, keeping her sense of humor in a situation that would have floored a weaker woman. There is a son, Johnny, who lost his arm in the wars for Irish freedom and lives in a state of cringing terror. He expects to be arrested as an informer. Mary, the daughter, is her mother's comfort until—

A slick young lawyer enters the scheme of things with a word of a legacy that's been left the "Paycock." The family, with true racial abandon, invests heavily in furniture and a gramophone. Comes an evil day when they learn there's to be no legacy—and that Mary has loved the lawyer too well. And so on, to a brave and pitiful ending.

Edward Chapman does great work as the "Paycock," played on the stage by Arthur Sinclair. You love him while you hate him, and laugh as you long to lay him low. Sidney Morgan as his irresponsible boozing inseparable is a quaintly comic character. Marie O'Neill as Mrs. Madigan, a neighbor, affords you joyous moments. John Laurie presents a blackly pitiful portrayal of the fear beset Johnny. Kathleen O'Regan is sweet as Mary—giving a much better account of herself in the later scenes of the picture than she does in the first ones. Other rôles are handled with sympathy and skill. These native Irish players know their business well!

The sharp rattle of machine guns in the streets invests the action with the atmosphere of the times.

Perhaps, toward the end, the picture drags just a little; but this, I feel, I should hardly mention, when the production as a whole is the brave and beautiful, gay and gallant thing that it is.

Every day there come to my desk letters begging for GOOD silent pictures. "The Silent Enemy" is an answer to these prayers.

It is a marvelously photographed chronicle of the lives of the Ojibway Indians and their battle with their "silent enemy"—hunger.

The picture was made in the wilds of Canada and is acted entirely by Indians—and animals. The romance of the daughter of a chief and the man she loves, whose happiness is threatened by an unscrupulous Medicine Man, constitutes the thread of story. But in this production the "love interest" isn't the big thing. The great adventure of a peace-loving tribe, fighting for life against a background of sheer and awful beauty, is what counts.

They stem the rapids; they conquer the forests; they battle the blizzards! They wage on and on, bucking Nature, that they understand, and love in spite of her cruelty, in quest of the caribou that shall furnish them with food and clothing for the year to come. "The Silent Enemy" is as great an epic as was "Grass," and as an animal picture licks anything that ever came—or purported to come—out of Africa. The caribou stampede at its finish is like nothing I ever saw before in MY life! And you've got a good heart if it doesn't miss a few beats during the scene where a stag engages in a fight to the death with a pack of wolves.

There are 200 Indians performing for you, but never seeming TO perform. The principal players are the last word in naturalness. The camera has recorded events with sweeping and, at times, almost unbelievable beauty. How H. P. Carver, chief cameraman, ever got some of the shots that he did is beyond me! Where COULD he have been during the caribou rush! WHERE was he hidden when the stag fought the wolves . . . !

It took two years to make "The Silent Enemy!"

See it—and rejoice!

EMMERSON APPOINTS FOUR DELEGATES FOR HEALTH CONFERENCE

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Announcement was made today by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson of the appointment of a committee of four authorities on child welfare and health problems to attend the nation-wide conference called by President Herbert Hoover to meet in Washington, Nov. 19 to 22.

The committee includes Miss Edna Zimmerman, superintendent of child welfare, Illinois department of public welfare; Dr. A. C. Baxter, assistant director, Illinois department of public health; Miss Sophonisba P. Breckinridge, professor of sociology, University of Chicago, and Miss Mary E. Murphy, director Elizabeth McCormick Memorial fund, 848 North Dearborn street, Chicago.

Ground work for the sessions of President Hoover's conference was laid by a preliminary committee appointed by him in July, 1929.

U. of C. Planning New Home for Alien Students

May Attend Any College in This Vicinity.

An international house, nine stories in height, to be financed by John D. Rockefeller, will be built on the quadrangle of the University of Chicago for foreign students attending the city's various institutions of higher education.

Announcement of the project was made last night by Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the university chapel, before 400 foreign students and others at the sixth annual dinner for students from other lands held under auspices of the Chicago Church federation at the Hotel La Salle. Dean Gilkey presided.

According to Dr. Gilkey, the house, which will be a residence and club center, will accommodate 500 students and will be open to all students of other lands doing college work in Chicago. It will face the Midway between Dorchester and Blackstone avenues. Its exact location will be on the site of the old Del Prado hotel. Construction will be started early next year, with occupancy hoped for by the summer of 1932. Estimates of costs are not yet available.

"The dormitory facilities will house a maximum of 500 students with separate sections for men and women," Dr. Gilkey said. "A dining room, cafeteria and coffee shop on the ground floor will accommodate 250 at one time. Club rooms with kitchenette facilities and an auditorium on the Dorchester avenue side will offer ample facilities for varied interests and groups. Rentals of rooms will be as low as will meet the operating expenses of the building.

"There are more than 1,000 foreign students eligible to use the house residing in Chicago at one time. A limited percentage of Americans also will be admitted to residence to promote international good will."

Dean Gilkey is chairman of the committee in charge of formulating the plans and program. Other members are Vice President Frederic Woodward of the University of Chicago; President E. C. Jenkins of the Y. M. C. A. college, and Dr. J. M. Stifler of Evanston, university trustee.

Preceding Dean Gilkey's announcement Dr. James M. Yard, director of religious activities of Northwestern university, delivered an address against war. The present generation, he declared, must know how wars grow and not be hoodwinked. All the causes productive of armed conflict are existent today, he asserted.

MEN'S FASHIONS 'STEAL THE SHOW' AT WOMEN'S CLUB

Laces and velvets, satins and taffetas, ermines and sables came to the fashion promenade at the Illinois Women's Athletic club last night, and a mere man's outfit "stole the show" and became the hit of the evening. Feminine approval was emphatically registered on behalf of an innovation in male attire—the semi-formal costume for daytime wear.

Applause was notably generous for the masculine models and the modes they displayed in this style show, which introduced them with the corresponding garments for women. But the idea of this black oxford sack coat worn with striped trousers, a gray vest and a bowler hat, intended to supplement, rather than supersede, the traditional frock coat, was an instantaneous and popular success. Young men have taken kindly to it already, style mentors say, because of its more comfortable appearance.

Another novelty in the men's clothing that drew a storm of handclapping from the crowd of 300 men and women attending the formal dinner, between courses of which the various divisions of the show were given, was a flannel lounge suit. The coat was of white, tailored with notched lapels and large white pearl buttons. The trousers were in red and black striped flannel, the stripes half an inch wide.

This is intended either for leisure hours about the house or for wear on the beach at winter resorts, its sponsors explain, and it comes in various color combiantions.

Competing with these masculine intruders were thousands of dollars' worth of exotic costumes for day and evening wear for women, modeled in professional style by the daughters or nieces of club members. Features that caused gasps in the audience were the prevalence of long sleeves on formal evening frocks, mostly in transparent materials; the exaggerated lengths of the flaring skirts, many of which trailed the floor; the daring of the decolletege on more than one otherwise simple gown, the huge ostrich feather fan carried by one model; the extravagant use of ermine in the new, long evening coats, and the popularity of all black evening costumes, sometimes relieved by a touch of vivid color.

As a finale, as stunning a wedding party as ever walked to a wedding march made a stately entrance, circled the ballroom and retired to the accompaniment of such enthusiasm that the guests plucked the flowers from the tables and pelted the bride and groom. The former was enacted by Miss Edith Baker and the latter by Edward Jacques. Dorothy Williams was a maid of honor, and Misses Dorothy Campbell and Alice Albright the bridesmaids.

Mrs. Robert Leits presided at the function, which was arranged by the round table department.

Stock's Orchestra Presents Novelties for Friday's Concert

BY EDWARD MOORE.

One came away from the Chicago Symphony orchestra concert yesterday afternoon with a pronounced desire for an entirely new musical vocabulary, something that would give vivid expression to the difference in feeling between the old and new in music.

The first part of the program was music of the newest. Only William Walton's "Portsmouth Point" overture had ever been heard in Chicago before, and that was new last year. The second part was a single work, Schubert's tenth symphony in C. So the contrast was abrupt almost to the point of violence.

When all the votes are in now and in several years, the high point of yesterday's new music probably will be a symphony by Karol Szymanowski of Poland, the third of his list and bearing the title, "The Song of the Night." It is continuous; that is, the movements blend into each other without pause; it is founded upon a Persian poem by Maulana Jalal-uddin Rumi of the thirteenth century, and parts of the poem are quoted in a tenor solo during the progress of the work. Here Eugene Dressler lent expert service.

It is also difficult to absorb in one hearing and atonal beyond all telling. Acrid, peppery surprises greet the hearer from moment to moment. I would defy any one, except perhaps Mr. Dressler, to sing a single phrase of it from memory. Yet sooner or later, usually sooner, you find yourself incredibly enchanted by it. It gets beneath the surface and takes hold.

All of which gets back to the first principles of music. It makes not the slightest difference whether the composer uses the most recently invented idiom, like Szymanowski, or the most familiar and conventional, like Schubert. All he needs to do is to write music, real music. And it is quite as much of a trick, quite as much a mark of genius, to do it in the one style as the other. For it takes more than discords to make real modern music, even in these days.

The rest was simpler. Frederick Delius of England contributed "On Hearing the First Cuckoo in Spring," composed out of two pleasant melodies with a few cuckoo notes in the clarinet. Robert Braine of Ohio added two numbers, the prelude to the third act of his opera, "Virginia," more pleasant melody rather Scotch in manner, and "S O S," a brief bit of humor portraying by orchestral means the outraged clamor of a ship in distress.

Then came the Schubert symphony, and suddenly one began to think of the concert in terms of the palate. It was as though one had dined upon five highly spiced and seasoned dishes, full of unknown and astonishing and fascinating flavors, followed by another of the blandest and most soothing, able to be digested by the most delicate.

The Skalski orchestra's series of concerts three times nightly at Kimball hall came to an unexpectedly sudden close yesterday. Few persons could be found who were willing to take the responsibility of being quoted, but gossip was to the effect that the gap between guarantees and box office receipts on the one side and expenses on the other grew too wide to be bridged.

Senator Harrison's Son to Wed College Friend

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Byron Patton Harrison, son of Senator and Mrs. Pat Harrison of Mississippi, today obtained a license to marry Miss Mary Louise Dorrah of Albuquerque, N. M. The wedding will take place next Wednesday, probably at the senator's home.

Harrison, who gave his age as 22, and Miss Dorrah, who is a year older, met at the University of Mississippi, where they were graduated last spring. Since that time he has been connected with a Washington hotel.

Miss Dorrah is the daughter of Dr. J. H. Dorrah, dean of the school of engineering at the University of New Mexico. He occupied a similar position at the University of Mississippi until last fall.

Youth Ready to Heed Truth, Professor Says

Calls Colleges, Churches, Parents at Fault.

The soundness of American college education was challenged yesterday by Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn. He is professor of philosophy at the University of Wisconsin, as well as a militant exponent of liberalism in higher education.

The church and the home, too, came in for their share of his criticism. Seven years ago he walked out of the presidency of Amherst college and into the department of philosophy at Wisconsin. There his ideas of freedom in educational methods found more sympathetic reception by President Glenn Frank.

Dr. Meiklejohn spoke yesterday before the Executives' club at luncheon in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman. These young Chicago business men applauded him enthusiastically when he declared:

"If youth does not listen when the church, the school, and the home try to tell him what to think, the explanation is not to be found in youth. Youth does not change; it is the same today as it has been for a thousand years—plastic and ready to learn. If youth is not listening it is because those institutions have nothing to say that is worth listening to.

"They are speaking in a manner that does not command the respect of youth. The Christian church has lost its clarity of vision because it has a hundred different and confused sects. It does not know what it is saying.

"The same is true of the home. The biggest change in the life of the home has been the change in the place of woman, and with it goes the change in the relation of the sexes. We don't know whether to retain the old customs of the home. We will have to find out what the family and sex life and sex relations is or ought to be.

"The same is true with the schools. We are strong on methods and procedure and technique, but when you ask the schools 'what kind of a man do you want to turn out,' they do not know. The thing we need most in education today is a gospel—a sense of something that ought to be done. There will be no genuine system of education in America until there is a gospel."

Russia, Dr. Meiklejhon said, had acquired this gospel, but he quickly explained that he did not imply any sympathy with Russia's form of government. "Russia," he said, "is in a state of mind that makes education possible and their youth are stirred by what Russia is trying to do—whether right or wrong. The same is true of Germany, France, and Italy."

Of America he said: "We are lingering and hoping because we do not know what to think about."

"There's work to be done and every man who is not doing a job is a quitter. But vocational education is not genuine education, for all you pay for in a man in a vocational job is skill and skill is not education."

The professor spoke of the need for scholarship, "the love of learning for its own sake." He criticised American amusements as "trivial and rather dull." "We ought to teach better forms of play," he said, "and, above all, the fun of scholarship."

Wisdom he set forth as the greatest need. He called it "the wisdom to find out what ought to be done to set the world right."

"We find in any economic scheme the division of rich and poor," he said. "Some have too much and others too little; luxury and poverty are side by side; over-production and demand are face to face. I do not think that any man wants to live in luxury while others are in despair, yet we can do no better. What thinking should do is find a way to make it better.

"Every human society has fallen into two groups: The ruler and the ruled. Some men lay down the laws others are expected to obey. Very few men do the thinking and thousands spend their lives doing what they are told to do. Man should be in charge of his own fortunes. Thinking should try to make an economic and political scheme that is just."

"War and other conflict are possible," he said, "because our minds are so dull that we can find no other way to settle our problems."

Renoir's and Milles' Work on Exhibition at the Arts Club

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An exhibition of fifteen paintings by Auguste Renoir opened yesterday in the Arts club. An adjoining gallery in the club offers six bas-reliefs by Carl Milles. There criticism might end; in fact, there the story might end, because both the paintings and the sculpture speak for themselves better than any one can interpret them. It is unfortunate that an abrupt statement carries so little weight alone.

Renoir long has been known both abroad and here as a painter of light. His portraits of women have been famous; his gardens have been celebrated; his still life has won unmeasured praise. In the current exhibit you will find the various subjects illustrated. But how beautifully they are illustrated! The poetry of pure color runs in and out of the paintings. They sign to it—thrill to it. Something of the magic must infect you.

The three most famous Renoirs here are probably "Les Pecheuses de Moules à Berneval," "Le Piano," and "Danse a la Campagne." None of these has ever been offered for sale. They are veritable treasure. The first is a large canvas showing three little children and their mother gathering clams on the sea shore. The light that falls on the sky and sea is the golden gleam sought by Merlin. The children and mother are a second beautiful picture in the foreground of the quivering, glimmering distance.

"Danse à la Campagne" gives us a man and woman in the costumes of 1883, waltzing slowly with obvious satisfaction in each other, in the open air. Follow the way in which Renoir has accented red and red and red again; at the same time trace his subtle pursuit of yellow. It is marvelous. Turning from it, across the gallery hangs "Le Piano," an enchanting group of two young girls seriously engaged with their music.

To go from Renoir to Milles is like stepping from a fragrant bath to an icy shower. Renoir caresses; Milles challenges. His six plaques deal with the weather, "Rain" and "Sun"; the blacksmith, "Ancient" and "Modern"; and farming, "Sowing," "Reaping," "Felling Trees," and "Ploughing." They are stirring pictures in sculpture, fantastic, virile, alive. The superb horses in "Ploughing" will be hard to forget.

The exhibition will continue to Nov. 26.

Cowles, president of the Chicago Academy of Sciences and chairman of the department of botany, will lecture tomorrow afternoon on "Along Italian Trails," at the academy's museum in Lincoln park. GILLETT DECLARES U. S. SHOULD ENTER THE WORLD COURT

South Hadley, Mass., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Senator Frederick H. Gillett of Massachusetts today told the alumni and undergraduates of Mount Holyoke college at founder's day exercises, that for the United States to refuse to support the world court "would show indifference to the great cause of judicial settlement of international disputes."

"We certainly are not risking much," Senator Gillette said, "in helping to establish a court which can never try us except on our request. Any judgment it may render in disputes between other nations does not bind us, but only the nations on trial.

"The fifth reservation, which has been the sole source of difficulty, provided that the court shall not 'without the consent of the United States entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest.'"

"It is unfair to direct against the court," Senator Gillette said, "the hostility which exists against the league of nations. Personally, I am glad we are not in the league.

"To refuse to support the world court, however, would show indifference to the great cause of judicial settlement of international disputes, which is the most hopeful pathway to peace, and which represents a tradition which America has most consistently followed."

This Gives a Few Arguments Against Daily Home Work

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Short reading references on child management will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Today we're going to run over some of the arguments against home work for school children.

It seems only fair if you give the "cons" of a matter, to present the "pros" also. But home work has always had so many champions through the years, that the pros are well taken care of. So we're going to seem one-sided and only give the "cons" of home work.

First I must explain that when I give the arguments against home work I mean against any home work at all for the younger children and against long hours of home study for the older.

One of the strongest points is that home work interferes with the time that children should have for fresh air and play and vigorous exercise, that is, for exercise of the big muscles. These three things are vital in growing lives, and must not be pushed out by anything.

Home work practically always involves sitting down and bending over, using small muscles. It is almost always writing and reading.

It is usually a continuing of the day's school work, giving no variety.

It is frequently mechanical like copying or something to keep the children busy, instead of being a live interesting piece of work.

It is often so difficult that children ask for home help with it.

It tends to make children stale for their next day's work.

It is often given with the idea that it is good discipline for a child to do something because he's told to, whether he likes it or not. This is a deadening not a vivifying thing.

It causes strain, which is not only bad mentally and emotionally but according to eminent biologists interferes and often stops the nutritive process. This from the statement by Prof. Jay B. Nash of New York university in "The School Parent."

These are a few of the reasons against home work. And now for the last, which like the first is one of the utmost importance.

Home work uses the time which boys and girls should have free so that they may learn to use their leisure—not merely have it filled up by somebody else with chores. This is just as much true education as their school life is. Learning to use their leisure is learning to live richly. They must have some time not ordered by some one else, for their games and sports and play, for music and reading and drawing and painting, for manual work or the pursuit of some special interest.

Favorite Silhouette Adds New Embroidery

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Dresses that mold the figure closely to six or seven inches above the knees and then become full by some means or other absolutely refuse to vanish from the Paris mode. That is because they have been tried and have not been found wanting. This line is becoming to at least eight women out of ten. It can be successfully worn by the slender girl—who can wear anything, for that matter—but it is particularly flattering to the heavier figure, to which it can be individually adapted by a slight raising or lowering of the belt, as the case may require.

Though not brand new, this silhouette outlines some of the smartest evening frocks of this season. Lucien Lelong makes it appear novel by cunning use of his new embroidery, which is really a combination of appliqua, beads, and embroidery.

The Lelong evening frock, sketched above, is of turquoise blue mousseline decorated with butterflies of blue velvet in the same tone embroidered on with blue silk and tiny silver beads. They are applied in rows, cleverly spaced—much closer together round the center of the figure—so as to make the wearer look tall and slim. A separate belt of pale blue velvet fastened with a turquoise and silver buckle may be worn where it does the most good. A band of pale blue transparent velvet edges the full flounced skirt hem. Long velvet gloves to match are specially pretty with this type of frock. The collar and earrings are of turquoise finished with tassels of turquoise beads.

Gift Giving Calls for Understanding and Sense of Tact

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Perhaps it is a bit early to be talking about Christmas giving, but the subject of gifts and giving arises in a letter from a wife who objects to certain presents tendered her husband. He, the husband, is a minor official in a large organization. He has a number of men and women under his direction, however. Every Christmas one of the girls in his department makes the man a gift, which is an embarrassment to the man and obviously an irritant to the wife.

Being one of the early Christmas planners, the wife inquires how to prevent a recurrence of the gift making, this coming holly season. Her husband, she says, hates to refuse the gift point blank for fear of hurting the girl's feelings. He makes no Christmas gift to the girl, a matter of further embarrassment when her "remembrance" is advanced.

While we are a bit in advance of the gift giving season, as already hinted, still it may not be amiss to attempt to set office workers right on the subject. In certain organizations a Christmas dread is introduced into what should be a happy season by this very business of gift making to superiors or by a foolish exchange between the workers themselves. It is possible that the coming Christmas will see less of it than previous ones have because of the current financial depression. Anyway, it is time to strike a balance and give only where one gives with a true affection.

There is something mean and petty about the employé who advances upon a superior with a gift that is no wise justified. Whether the intention is there or not, it has the flavor of currying favor, a bad procedure in office conduct. No gift should be considered as such if favors are expected in return. It becomes a bribe, nothing more nor less. It also is in execrable taste.

If young women understood the old adage about the ease with which a man's interest is estranged by putting him in an embarrassing position there would be fewer instances of promiscuous gift-making. And that goes for any occasion, Christmas, birthday, or the Fourth of July, or whenever the impulse to give a present attacks a fair female.

Mrs. M. J. Fay is treasurer of the auxiliary of the Catholic Social Center and of the committee in charge of its annual bridge party to be held in the Palmer house this afternoon. Proceeds will go to the maintenance fund of the center, which is located at Sangamon street and Jackson boulevard. Mrs. John M. Smyth is president of the auxiliary and general chairman of the party. Mrs. M. P. Cromling of Evanston and Miss A. E. Horton are co-chairmen. Mrs. George Aste is chairman of arrangements.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Tell the Truth.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 16, but told a boy friend I was 18. He is 25. Should I tell him my right age? RUTH."

It would be better to tell him the truth. You don't want him to question your veracity.

Shut Out Competition.

"Dear Miss Blake: Should a young man keep after the girl he loves if he thinks she is not true to him?

"MURRAY."

He should keep after her until he shuts out all competition. Until then she may use her own judgment about accepting other invitations.

Newspaper Group to Meet in Georgia Near Battlefields

Sea Island Beach, Ga., Nov. 7.—(AP)—In a section rich in the romance and history of the early life of America the American Newspaper Publishers' association will hold its fall convention Nov. 10, 11 and 12.

It was in this community that the English and Spanish, struggling for possession of the area, wrote numerous chapters in the history of the country and gave Bloody Marsh its name.

In 1742 the English, through military strategy, defeated the Spanish on a nearby marsh. The Spanish commander in his report on the battle laid much of the blame for defeat on the presence near the fort of large quantites of prickly pear.

Legend has it that the English, acting on the advice of Indians, covered the area with a thick layer of prickly pear which the barefooted Spaniards could not penetrate. That specie of cactus has large, fleshy leaves and is studded with stiff barbed thorns.

The marsh will be one of the points of interest included in motor trips for the publishers.

A touch of old plantation life in this section will be given the publishers Sunday evening when Negro singers will entertain them at their hotel here.

In addition to business sessions on the three days of the convention there will be golf, tennis, trapshooting, sailing, and yachting parties.

Another point of interest is the ruins of the house where Aaron Burr sought peace after he killed Alexander Hamilton in a duel. Remains of what once was the greatest British fortifications in North America still stand here. The fort was built by Gen. James Edward Oglethorpe and served as an entering wedge in the contest between the Spanish in Florida and the English in South Carolina for the area.

Society Has Busy Day of Music, Tea, Art

BY THALIA

From noon yesterday until long past midnight society was kept busy with a veritable merry-go-round of social affairs. Besides the presentations of four debutantes the day's calendar included the Symphony concert, with a round of luncheons preceding it, and the formal opening of the Arts club with a tea to introduce the exhibition of Renoir's paintings and six plaques by Carl Milles.

Many of the guests at the latter event will have to return later to the Arts club for leisurely study of the Renoirs, since they were able to remain only a few minutes before dashing off to make an appearance at the debut teas of Miss Elsa Armour and Miss Betty Offield. Among the early arrivals at the Arts club were the president, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, who arranged to have the exhibition brought from Europe; Mrs. John Root, Mrs. John Borden, Mrs. Charles R. Goodspeed, Mrs. William Bush and her daughters, Miss Carol and Miss Emmline Bush; Miss Anna Morgan, Mrs. Duncan Hodges, Mrs. Norman Harris, and Mrs. Helen Walton.

The floral offerings sent to Miss Elsa Armour, daughter of the A. Watson Armours, for her debut at the Casino were so numerous that all the suitable receptacles at the club had to be utilized. Miss Armour wore a modified Directoire gown of French blue velvet with a V neckline, short sleeves, and a brief train. Her mother were black chiffon and a shoulder bouquet of gardenias. The assisting hosts included Beatrice Kirk, Hortense Henry, Caroline Smith, Ghita Watson, Helen Stanley, Sarah Wood, Constance Hasler, and Elizabeth Smith.

The other debutante of the afternoon was Miss Betty Offield, who was presented by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Offield, at their residence at 1400 Astor street. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Wrigley Jr., assisted in the receiving line. Miss Offield wore a beige velvet gown with brown fur trimming and carried an old fashioned bouquet of roses. Her mother wore brown velvet and an orchid corsage, and Mrs. Wrigley was in black chiffon.

The Blackstone ballroom was decorated with wreaths of smilax and clusters of chrysanthemums for the musical and ball that Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Carton and Mr. and Mrs. Donald McLennan gave for their debutante daughters, Miss Catherine Carton and Miss Margaret McLennan. The program which preceded the ball was given by Rudolph Ganz, the pianist, and Countess Albani of New York. Miss Carton wore a bouffante white taffet frock embroidered in silver and Miss McLennan a white chiffon gown with crystal beading. Mrs. McLennan wore green chiffon and Mrs. Carton pale blue chiffon and silver.

Miss McLennan and Miss Carton will return on Monday to their studies at Smith college.

Three more debutantes are scheduled to make their formal bows today. Miss Winifred Wheeler, daughter of Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler, will be presented at a tea from 4 until 7 o'clock this afternoon at her mother's residence at 1447 Astor street. The bud's grandmothers, Mrs. Mahlon Daniel Thatcher of Colorado and Mrs. Eugene Wheeler, will assist her and her mother in the receiving line.

At the same hour Mr. and Mrs. W. Edwin Stanley will introduce their daughter, Miss Helen Stanley, at a tea and reception at the Casino, and Miss Mary Esther Churchill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Churchill, will make her bow at a tea and reception at the Woman's Athletic club. Mr. and Mrs. Churchill will give a dinner following the tea at the Drake hotel for the bud and her assistants and their escorts.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Alden B. Swift, with their daughter, Miss Narcissa Swift, will be hosts at a dinner-dance at the Casino for their debutante nieces, Miss Geraldine Swift and Miss Hortense Henry.

Mrs. Bruce Thorne (Marianne Stevenson) and Mrs. Hallett Thorne are arranging a series of teas to be given at Vassar house for the benefit of the Vassar scholarship fund. Some of the season's debutantes will officiate at the teas, the first of which will be held next week. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Thorne returned a few days ago from their wedding trip and are residing at 31 East Elm street.

Miss Suzanne C. Kohlsaat and her sister, Miss Cynthia G. Kohlsaat, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Kohlsaat of Winnetka, will be married in the same church on Nov. 29. The first ceremony will take place at 4:30 and the other immediately thereafter. Miss Suzanne will become the bride of Franklin E. Agnew Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin E. Agnew of Creston, Ia., while Miss Cynthia will be married to Edward M. Harkness, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Harkness of 5656 Magnolia avenue. Both ceremonies will be at Christ church, Winnetka.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, who have been in the west since the early part of last winter, will return next week to spend a few days at the Blackstone before setting off again for warmer climes. They had planned to remain a little longer in Santa Barbara, but are hurrying home in order to be present at the opening on Monday of an exhibition of paintings by Muriel and Bassett Wilson at Knoedler's galleries. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are related by marriage to the McCormick family in England, so Mrs. Hamilton McCormick is extending her hospitality to them during their stay here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dixon of 2350 Lincoln Park West are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on Tuesday at the Evanston hospital.

8 New Fellowships in Chemistry Are Offered to Students

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 7.—(AP)—The endowment for eight more places under the national chemical fellowship plan for young chemists of extraordinary ability was announced today by Dr. Joseph S. Ames, president of Johns Hopkins university. Dr. Ames made the announcement in welcoming the donors of 32 previously established fellowships. They held their second annual meeting here.

The object of the plan is to give advanced chemical training to a gifted student from every state and the principal foreign countries with the object of providing prospective leaders.

The selection is accomplished through committees which examine the student's previous scholastic record as well as his personal qualities. The nine students selected last year have completed a year of training and 12 more entered the university this fall.

Of the eight new fellowships the Coco Cola company, Atlanta, Ga.; C. A. Pfeiffer, New York; and the Central Scientific company, Chicago, each financed one; the American Can company, New York, three; the Chemical Foundation, New York, two.

Francis P. Garvan, head of the Chemical Foundation, endowed the chair of chemical education, under which the national fellowship plan is operating.

Food Talk.

"Can you tell me how to make a perfect meringue that will not get watery, shrink, or fall and will hold its shape after it is cold?" writes Mrs. W. K.

The ordinary meringue mixture used on the top of cream pies is one of the simplest, consisting of beaten egg whites and sugar. Despite this simplicity, cooks often have difficulties in preparing it. The whites of fresh eggs should be used because they whip up quickly into a stiff mass. There is no trick to whipping the meringue, but there are two common errors made in the preparation. One is the use of too much sugar and the other is in baking it too rapidly at a high temperature.

In that excellent book on baking and making candies and ice cream, called the "Hows and Whys of Cooking," by Drs. Halliday and Noble of the University of Chicago, a brief and clear description is given for meringue to be used on one crust pies. Only one tablespoon of granulated sugar is recommended to each medium sized egg white. The whites are whipped until they will just about but not quite hold their shape. The sugar is added and whipping is continued until whites are stiff enough to hold their shape. Then the meringue is spread on pie and browned in a 300° F. [slow] oven for 15 minutes.

The meringue should be spread over the entire surface, touching the edge of the crust all the way around. In this way it cannot pull away from the crust when the pie is cut.

A meringue mixture resembles an angel cake mixture which requires long, slow cooking to penetrate through a heat resisting air filled mass and to coagulate the egg white so that it will stand up under its own weight.

An angel cake should never be disturbed or cut until it is thoroughly cool because it is firmer when cold. This is also true of a meringue. It should be thoroughly cooked and cooled. Then and only then will the delicate egg white mixture be firm enough to stand up. A hot or underdone mixture cannot stand alone. A high temperature toasts the top to the desired color in a few minutes but the part underneath is undercooked and on standing goes back to a watery consistency, just as does an uncooked beaten egg white. So try cooking the meringue at 300° F. for at least 15 minutes and I'm quite sure your results will be satisfactory. If you have no temperature regulator on your oven purchase a portable oven thermometer. They aren't expensive and may be used in any kind of an oven. It cared for, they will last a lifetime.

CREAM OF COCOANUT PIE.

Plain pastry.
½ cup sugar.
3 medium sized eggs.
1 1-3 cups milk.
¾ cup shredded cocoanut.

Bake a pie shell on the outside of a pie tin. Prepare the filling as follows: Blend the flour and sugar until smooth. Beat three yolks and one egg white [set aside two whites for meringue.] Heat milk in top of double boiler to scalding point. Stir about ¼ of milk into flour-sugar mixture. Beat mixture until it is smooth. Then add egg yolks and one white and mix well. Add the rest of the milk gradually with constant stirring. Cook this mixture in a double boiler for about 15 minutes. Stir it constantly until it thickens. Then cover the double boiler and cook about 5 minutes longer. Add about ½ cup cocoanut to filling and pour filling into crust. Beat the two egg whites until almost stiff, add 2 tablespoons sugar and whip stiff. Spread on top of pie. Sprinkle rest of cocoanut over top and brown in a [300° F.] slow oven 15 minutes Cool before serving.

Yield One pie [6 servings]. One serving: Total, 341 calories; protein, 33 calories; fat, 146 calories; carbohydrates, 162 calories.

A Furrowed Brow Is Sadly at Odds with New Chapeau

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If you are going to wear the forehead exposed and the hat tilted back you are going to want a massage a day. Your face must have that soft skinned look to it that one gets from care. You know what I mean because you cannot stand on a street crossing today without realizing how hard and uncompromising certain skins look under this new exposure to daylight instituted by the back-tilted bonnet.

And, of course, you are going to wear the smart hat.

It may eventually prove a blessing to all women since they will become more conscious of the complexion. And by complexion I do not mean the makeup. It is the whole effect of the facial area and its soft and cared for look that is meant.

Once in a while you run across an old-fashioned dear whose rigorous countenance speaks sufficiently, without her smug remark that soap and water is enough for her. To be consistent, this same dear should practise half-concealment under the hat brim. Sometimes she does. But we suspect her presence under some of the brimless, back-tilted chapeaux. Anyway, we are not living in an age of rigidly virtuous beauty. Call it a sin age, if you want to, with all the paint and the eyshadow—but be fair and admit that our most beautiful women's faces have a well-kept air about them. And that's what I am arguing for right now. That look of finish, of time well spent, and of pride in the face.

My remarks apply not to the young. They have the faces for the full exposure. But the older face that is a trifle weatherbeaten is the one we're after with daily massage arguments, home given, of course, because we would not advocate a professional one every day. It's that creaming at night and "palming" the face, brushing the lines over and up and feeding the dry skin a bit of the emollient it needs so badly.

After all, a skin should have a satiny look to it. And if the skin has gone dry, rough or red, you have to work with cream and fingers or palms and just a few minutes every night will do wonders.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

MRS. G. R. C.: I HAVE EXERcises for the neck and chin. Send a stamped addressed envelope for them. After the exercises a massage is helpful. Wash neck with soap and warm water and then work in cold cream. Mold the neck, working from the base of the neck along the muscles up to point of the chin.

CADET FOOTBALL TEAMS CLASH FOR CHARITY

STURDY GUARD IS FORCED OFF BY LEG INJURY

Referee—James Masker [Northwestern]. Umpire—A. G. Reid [Michigan]. Field judge—Anthony Haines [Yale]. Head linesman—Fred Young [Illinois Wesleyan].

Sam Horwitz, varsity right guard and head man of the University of Chicago football team's defense, suffered a leg injury yesterday which will keep him out of the Maroon's engagement with Purdue at Stagg field this afternoon.

Against Mississippi and Princeton, when the Chicago line played well enough defensively to hold its opponents to scoreless ties, it was Horwitz who broke through to make a large per cent of the tackles. Andy Brislen has been chosen to replace Horwitz against the Boilermakers.

Coach A. A. Stagg has worked overtime this week to prepare a defense for Purdue's seven back field aces, who have averaged net gains of 4.7 yards a each running play this season. Stagg hopes to hold last year's Big Ten champions to a one or two touchdown margin of victory, despite the fact that pounding his linesmen will result from the Purdue backs.

Maroons Hope to Score.

Most important is the Chicagoan's hope of scoring a touchdown, something they have not achieved since defeating Ripon in the opening game of the season. They managed to score twice in that contest.

Paul Stagg, Walter Knudson, and Bob Wallace are the men counted upon to make a touchdown possible. Stagg will handle the passing, in the absence of Capt. Erret Van Nice, who has been on the sidelines since his injury in the Wisconsin game. Knudson is the line plunger of the outfit and Wallace is a sophomore half back who has shown plenty of speed in workouts against the freshmen this week. Wallace is not expected to start the game but will be rushed in if Chicago comes within scoring distance.

Against this, Purdue can offer its seven ball carriers, all of first team caliber, a strong forward passing attack, and a line which has defied the best efforts of Wisconsin and Illinois plungers.

Backs Are Interchangeable.

Jack White will remain at quarter back most of the game, but will work with two separate sets of backs. Pope, Purvis, and Yunevich have been picked to start, but when they become weary Elser will send in Horstman, Chasey, and Risk, who can cite the record books to prove they're just as good as the first named three.

Risk, in fact, leads the lot in ground gaining, having carried the ball 45 times and picked up 326 yards, for an average of 7.11 yards per attempt. Pope ranks next with an even six yards every time White calls his number.

Up until 1928 Purdue was comparatively easy for the Maroons, Coach Stagg's elevens piling up 27 victories against 5 defeats and one tie in the series that dates back to 1892. Two years ago, however, the Boilermakers scored a 40 to 0 victory, and last season they won by 26 to 0.

Army-Navy Game Still in 'To Be Or Not to Be' Class

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—A post-season football game for charity between the Army and Navy teams is still in the to be or not to be classification. The Navy's willing, and maybe the Army will be persuaded to be willing—and maybe not.

What has happened definitely, however, is that out of all the talk about this year's possible charity game there is crystallizing a real probability that football relations will be resumed next year.

The prediction that there would be no Army-Navy game in 1931, the first since 1927, came tonight from none less than one high naval officer, all of whom have been busy these last few days in doing what they could to reach a compromise.

It was learned from naval negotiators that the Navy has said it would play a charity game and that it will play one this year. If it can't get the Army to play, it will play somebody else. And if Chicago looks like the logical place for such a game, the Navy will play in Chicago.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Two undefeated football teams, one with a record of fifteen consecutive victories, will meet this afternoon at Soldiers' field in a charity game for the benefit of disabled and unemployed war veterans. The two teams are St. John's Military academy of Delafield, Wis., and Culver Military academy of Culver, Ind.

The football game will be preceded by a parade through the loop and a colorful military pageant at the field, in the course of which the cadet corps of both schools, together with the famous black horse troop of Culver, will pass in review before Ralph T. O'Neill, national commander of the American Legion; Gov. Emmerson of Illinois, Gov. Leslie of Indiana, Gov. Kohler of Wisconsin, and many other distinguished guests.

Teams Evenly Matched.

The Cook county council of the American Legion, which is sponsoring the contest, expects approximately 50,000 spectators. Those who come are likely to see a game replete with thrills, for the two teams appear to be equally matched. St. John's has not been beaten since the season of 1928 and Culver's lone defeat of the last two years was at the hands of its enemy of this afternoon.

Among its victims of this season St. John's numbers Shattuck Military academy, Oshkosh Normal, Platteville School of Mines, and the Ripon freshmen. Culver has overthrown Concordia college, Lake Forest and De Paul freshmen, and was held to a tie by Crane Junior college.

The lines appear to be about equally matched, but St. John's seems to have a slightly more versatile back field. Wismer and O'Hare both are reliable kickers and a strong passing attack has been built up around Bender.

Oliver Is Triple Threat.

Culver has a triple threat man in Oliver, the full back. He does all of the kicking and passing, and in addition has proved himself a powerful line plunger. One of the most important cogs in the running attack is Capt. Schulz, a Chicago boy, who plays left half back.

St. John's probably has great reserve strength, Coach Wilhelm having brought a squad of 40 players to town yesterday morning. Coach Peck of Culver says he will use his full strength at the start and make few substitutions.

The cadet corps of the two schools will arrive this morning and form ranks at Washington and Canal streets. Then they will parade down Washington, La Salle, and Jackson boulevard to Soldiers' field. The military display will begin half an hour before the game, and will continue between the halves.

Grid Interest Waning, Says Purdue Head

About 200 members of the Purdue Association of Chicago were in high humor in anticipation of what the Boilermakers are going to do to the University of Chicago football team at the association's annual banquet at the Congress hotel last night.

EDW. C. ELLIOTT.

Then J. Bernard Thiess, toastmaster, called on Edward C. Elliott, the Purdue university president, for the main talk of the night.

They were shocked a few minutes later to hear President Elliott tell them that after a careful study of this year's football activities in all parts of the country he had come to the pessimistic conclusion that the climax had been reached in the development of intercollegiate athletic rivalry.

"Public interest in our intercollegiate athletic contests has reached its peak and is receding," President Elliott told the Boilermaker old grads. "Except possibly where a championship is at stake we may no longer count on the enthusiastic and emotional public support that we have enjoyed in the last eight years.

"The time may be near when we may have to restrict intercollegiate athletic activities. If that decision must be made I hope every Purdue man will stand as loyally with us as he has during our football championship days."

Gov. Leslie of Indiana, N. A. Kellogg, Purdue athletic director; Mal Elward and Earl Martineau, assistant football coaches, were among the other speakers.

Loyola Beats St. Louis by Long Run, 7-6

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Loyola's football team broke its extended losing streak here tonight by defeating the St. Louis university eleven, 7 to 6. It was Tommy Howland who turned the trick by getting away on an 82 yard run for a touchdown just before the close of the first half.

Before Howland decided to settle the issue himself, St. Louis had taken the lead. The Billikens started a whirlwind attack immediately upon receiving the opening kickoff. Stephan tore around his right end for 25 yards. Little Charles McKinney then began passing. The first heave to McGown put the ball on Loyola's 20 yard line and the second to the other end, Kennedy, resulted in a touchdown. Poppelreiter blocked the attempt to kick goal.

Then the game see-sawed until a minute and a half before the intermission. Loyola had just received a St. Louis punt and the oval was resting on the 18 yard stripe. Howland skirted off tackle and dashed 82 yards for the score. Lutzenkerchen then kicked goal for the winning point.

Capt. Les Molloy was unable to play because of a sprained hand. The lineup:

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 7.—"Beat Northwestern," the old battle cry, has been revived. Indiana students and alumni, assembled tonight at the campus bonfire and later in the men's gymnasium, chanted: "Beat Northwestern." Again and again this refrain will be repeated, until tomorrow afternoon when the undefeated Wildcats face the Hoosiers in Memorial stadium.

There is no logic in such cheering, for Indiana has been held scoreless this year by Ohio State, Minnesota, Southern Methodist and Notre Dame. But Hoosier spirit, which has accepted these defeats complacently, has been resurrected. Tonight it demanded victory.

Hoosiers Seek Fourth Upset.

Without reason? Certainly, for Indiana's eleven will be outweighed, it lacks experience; its offense is inconsistent. There are many reasons why Northwestern should win, but Hoosier spirit calls for victory. Thus Indiana always has gone into battle against Northwestern. And thus Indiana has triumphed for three consecutive years.

Last year it was George Ross, the Hoosier leader tomorrow, who raced through the Northwestern team for a last minute touchdown and a 19 to 14 victory. The year before, it was Chuck Bennett, one of the greatest Indiana backs, who plunged for a touchdown and victory, 6 to 0. Pooch Harrell helped in the victory of 1927.

Indiana Lacks Weight.

Lack of weight, of course, is Indiana's handicap. The Hoosier line will average 174 pounds; the backs, 159. The team averages 169 pounds. Against this, Northwestern will have a forward wall averaging 189 pounds and backs whose average weight will be 181 pounds. The team weight will be 187. Thus Indiana will be outweighed by 22 pounds in the back field, 15 pounds per man in the line, and with an average difference per player of 18 pounds.

George Ross and Joe Zeller, either of whom may kick for Indiana, cannot match Capt. Bruder of Northwestern, although Bruder occasionally is erratic. If Pug Raniner were in the Wildcat lineup, Indiana might succumb to forward passes, but the Hoosier coaches believe Indiana can stop Lee Hanley's forward. Indiana was successful last week against Notre Dame's air attack and that success is basis for tomorrow's expectations.

Prepared for Wildcats' Attack.

Northwestern strategy will not surprise Indiana. All week the varsity has drilled against the double wing back attack of the Warner system. Indeed, it took a first lesson at Columbus against Ohio State, and the heavier opponents on that day were thrust back repeatedly until, in the closing period, sheer power crumbled the Hoosier line.

But such analysis of strength and weakness does not appeal to the 15,000 students and alumni who will attend the game tomorrow. Rather, they prefer to bank on Hoosier spirit, and tonight they credit that spirit above the mechanics of the gridiron which presage victory for Northwestern.

Illinois Meets Army Eleven at Yankee Stadium Today

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The big parade will march at the Yankee stadium tomorrow. The city has seen the gray clad corps of cadets from West Point at many an Army-Navy game, now a lamented thing of the past, yet apparently to be revived next year. The city has seen the long gray line go filing past when the Army met Notre Dame and Stanford. But the sight is always new, always thrilling. The corps will make its only appearance in New York this year this afternoon when the Army football team, undefeated, tied only by Yale, meets Illinois, several times champions of the middle western conference.

RALPH SASSE.

But that won't be all of the big parade. Besides the corps of cadets there will be the Illinois band consisting of 160 pieces. Not that it knows many, its chief accomplishment being the rendering of "We're Loyal to You, Illinois."

Army Has Better Team.

As a football game this may lack something. Illinois isn't up to standard, for only one man who faced the Army last year is again in the lineup, while Maj. Ralph Sasse, army coach, has produced one of the best teams that ever went on the field with the long corps yell ringing in its ears. But there will be all the trimmings. The Illinois squad arrived yesterday afternoon and worked out at the Yankee stadium.

Any time the corps of cadets appears in New York—or anywhere else, for that matter—cheering and singing its team on to victory it is quite an occasion. There's something about the atmosphere of enthusiasm that sweeps through these youngsters to be found in no other body of undergraduates. Maybe it's just the thrill of getting away from those cold, bleak buildings that lie on the banks of the Hudson.

Army Fears Zuppke.

The Army is a heavy favorite to win, but there's a prevalent opinion that Bob Zuppke, one of football's master magicians, has brought the team along with this game in view. A victory over the Army would in a great measure compensate Illinois for its defeats in the western conference and Zuppke evidently has built on the idea that if you can't win them all, then win a good one.

The Army will be at something less

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Gene Tunney landed a paralyzing punch right in the middle of Tim Mara's $500,000 lawsuit against him today when telegrams showing that a Tunney-Dempsey match was tentatively arranged in January of 1926 were introduced.

NAOMA LOWENSORN.

The telegrams, never before made public, passed between Jack Dempsey and Tex Rickard here. On Jan. 14—three months before Mara came into the case—Dempsey offered to fight Tunney for $500,000 and 50 per cent of the gate over $1,000,000.

The title bout then was scheduled for Jersey City. Dempsey had insisted on it in spite of Rickard's determination, expressed in the wires, to get it into New York.

First Wire Dated Jan. 11.

Miss Naoma Lowensohn, a secretary for Rickard, was on the stand at the time the telegrams were introduced. She identified them. The series of communications opened with a wire from Dempsey dated Jan. 11, which read:

"What date, guarantee, for Tunney at Jersey City and time after Aug. 6?"

This was Rickard's wire in reply, marked "absolutely confidential":

"Dear Jack—I will guarantee $400,000 with a 45 per cent privilege. I am sure we would draw more in New York than in New Jersey. Besides I could guarantee you absolute protection in New York. It will be all right for me if you insist on Jersey. However, please keep it absolutely quiet and I will announce that you will box anywhere that I designate.

"Please keep this absolutely confidential until I sign Tunney, as he will want too much if he learns you have agreed to box with him. Let me know as soon as possible your decision, as you know it takes a long time to work up a big show."

Dempsey Insists on Jersey.

Dempsey wired back the next day demanding $450,000, an additional $50,000 bonus for signing up, and 50 per cent of the gate over $1,000,000.

"Insist on Jersey," he wired, "and must get full protection on money end."

Rickard immediately wired Dempsey again, saying that if it were possible to guarantee that much he would have done it, but explained that he did not think that more than an $800,000 gate could be taken in Jersey City. The Jersey City location presumably referred to Boyle's Thirty Acres, which was under Rickard's control at the time.

"Sorry, Tex." Dempsey telegraphed back from California. "What about Wills, then?" What will you guarantee?"

Objects to Wills' Bout.

The Madison Square Garden promoter then sent a long message outlining to the then heavyweight champion the objections to a bout with Wills. If it were held, he said, he thought it would have to be out of the United States, because of the opposition here to a bout between a white and Negro. He also added that he thought a Dempsey-Wills bout would kill boxing in this country.

Then Rickard met Dempsey's demand for a match with Tunney, saying that he would give him $500,000 and 50 per cent of the gate over $1,000,000. Not very prophetically he added:

"You're taking less chance with Tunney than with Wills."

Ten days later, at Dempsey's request, Rickard and the champion met in Fort Worth, Tex., and the Tunney forces maintained in court today that the final agreement was entered into then. The case probably will go to the jury Monday.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 7. — [Special.]—Philadelphia's greatest football crowd, 78,000 persons, will turn out tomorrow to see the undefeated Notre Dame team meet Pennsylvania at Franklin field.

Notre Dame's squad, thirty-eight strong, arrived here this morning and went directly to the Manufacturers Country club at Oreland, a suburb. Coach Knute Rockne directed a final drill out on the fairways of the golf course this afternoon.

Rockne was guest of honor at a luncheon at the Penn Athletic club this noon, at which Mayor Harry Mackey presented him a silver football trophy. Marty Brill, right half back, and Capt. Tom Conley, right end, both of Philadelphia, also were given silver footballs.

Rockne Predicts Victory.

The rival coaches seemed to agree that Notre Dame would win, although Coach Lud Wray of Pennsylvania, who early this week said he expected to lose by four or five touchdowns, lowered his estimate to three. Rockne predicted a small margin of victory for his own team.

Penn, on the rebound from its 27-0 defeat at the hands of Wisconsin early in the season, last Saturday defeated a strong Kansas eleven, and this leads to the prediction the game will be close.

Notre Dame is expected to start its first team. If Rockne starts the shock troops, Wray plans to match his move with the Penn reserves.

Irish in Better Condition.

The Notre Dame squad is in excellent physical condition and will have the edge on Penn in this respect. Carl Perina, Penn right half, is on the injured list and probably will be on the side lines, with Warren Gette in his place. Bill Graupner, quarter back, was hurt in the Kansas game, and, although he will start, he is not expected to last through the game. In today's practice at Seaview Country club, Coach Wray used Gentle at quarter back for a while, with Masters at half back.

Notre Dame's final drill consisted of dummy defensive work against Penn plays. The third team was lined up on offense and the Penn attack explained to the men by Rockne. Both the varsity and shock troops stopped the plays effectively, and the new defense organized Wednesday night to stop Penn's lateral passes was functioning satisfactorily.

Is Their First Meeting.

The game is the first in history between these two teams, although the Irish have appeared here before against Penn State. Undefeated since 1928, Notre Dame will be after its fifteenth straight victory.

Fort Worth Sells Tavener to Milwaukee A. A. Club

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Sale of Jack Tavener, a shortstop, to Milwaukee of the American association, was announced today by Fort Worth of the Texas league. No price was announced. Tavener was obtained from the Cleveland Indians last winter.

Walker Wins from Risko in Ten Rounds

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, made his first serious move into the heavyweight ranks at Olympia tonight and won a decision after ten rounds of hard fighting over Johnny Risko of Cleveland.

MICKEY WALKER.

A crowd of 19,000, which taxed the capacity of the big arena, watched the "toy bulldog" send Risko down for a count of nine in the second round and then outpunch the Cleveland boxer for the remainder of the battle. Risko entered the ring weighing 179½ pounds more than the middleweight champion.

After a rather feeble start in the first round, Walker hit his stride in the second and the round had been underway but a few seconds when he sent a stinging left to Risko's head which floored the Cleveland big fellow. Risko was stunned, but was up in time to save himself from a knockout.

From then until the finish Walker varied his attack. In one round he was punching at Risko's body, while in the next he was staggering him with hard rights and lefts to the jaw. Risko was in distress in the third and sixth sessions, but managed to hold on long enough to keep Walker from putting him away.

Walker weighed 166 and Risko 193½.

62,000 to See Michigan and Harvard Battle

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Michigan's undefeated football eleven rules the favorite to beat Harvard in the sixth meeting between the two universities on Soldiers' field here tomorrow afternoon. Both teams today went through their final paces in the wind swept stadium and both coaches have announced their starting lineups.

Harvard, which this year has succeeded in beating only Vermont and Springfield and has been beaten by West Point and Dartmouth and tied by William and Mary, will take the field with a patched up lineup.

Harvard's sole hope seems to lie in a successful aerial attack. A year ago Barry Wood amassed the middle west with his exhibition of passing against the Wolverine outfit, which seemed ineffective in its defense against these tactics.

Harvard Line Outweighed.

With Michigan's line outweighing Harvard's and with the Crimson running attack impotent against all its major rivals to date, passes seem to be the only hope. Jess Hawley, former Dartmouth coach, the man who taught Oberlander, Lane, Tully, and

NEW YORK GIANTS SIGN RED CAGLE FOR THREE YEARS

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Christian Keener Cagle, formerly star back on the Army football team, has been signed by the New York Giants, professional football club, at a salary of $20,000 for three years, it was learned from an authoritative source this afternoon. Cagle will come north from Starkville, Miss., where he has been coaching the Mississippi Aggies, immediately after the close of that team's season this month and play out the schedule with the Giants, according to the report.

Cagle has not been successful as a coach, if his team's record is a true indication of his ability. The only eleven the Aggies have beaten is Louisiana State.

LONDON DEFEATS BLACKHAWKS IN EXHIBITION, 4-2

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—London Tecumsehs of the International Professional hockey league defeated the Chicago Blackhawks of the National league, 4 to 2, in an exhibition game here tonight. The rugged London team offset the speed of the Blackhawks with heavy body checking.

Totts Holway, captain and defense man of the Tecumsehs, scored two goals, while Len Grosvenor and Archie Briden accounted for the others. Tom Cook and Earl Miller drove in the Hawks' two counters.

INTERSECTIONAL BATTLES HEAD GRID CARD TODAY

Notre Dame, Michigan, Illinois Invade East.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 7.—It has taken the better part of a week for the colleges to convince the country that they are not their brothers' keepers, but now that that's settled, the game can go on. There may be some unpleasant feeling about the failure of the most chivalrous game to respond to the plight of the poor on the ground that the rules forbid, because such punctilious observance of the law is characteristic neither of the public nor the colleges themselves.

The homicide statistics and the burglary insurance rates bespeak no such stickling for the right thing by the population at large and it seems quite likely that if the big schools had waived their little rules in this case and for this purpose the offense would have been widely condoned.

May Suit Own Convenience.

Also, judging from the report of the Carnegie Foundation, the schools themselves have not been too mindful of the absolutely right thing to do when certain other rules would have interfered with their success in football, so it does look as though the learned guardians of the game have adjusted their principles to their convenience.

For the enhancement of their gate receipts they could proselyte and subsidize players, contrary to their solemn agreements, and any inspection of hotel rooms and the tumblers on the restaurant tables after Saturday's games would be certain to show considerable disrespect of the U. S. constitution.

But there is hope for the nation yet when the greatest universities in the country cannot agree to help the jobless lest they flout their sacred convenants to play only so many games and no more and those in the precise sites named in the formal contracts. Scofflawry could go just so far and the colleges called the halt.

It's Intersectional Showdown.

This, then, is the Saturday of the intersectional showdown, or the nearest thing to a showdown that football affords, involving four undefeated teams of the east, mid-west and south.

Notre Dame plays Penn at Philadelphia and the traffic bound down from New York will represent an almost continuous line of special trains on the railroads and automobiles on the highway as the New York alumni of both schools shove along to the game.

Only Appearance in East.

This is the only eastern appearance this year of Saveldi, Brill, Schwartz and Carideo, as the Army-Notre Dame game has been transferred to Chicago from the customary site, the Yankee stadium, for reasons not entirely flattering to New York.

The Army, also undefeated although tied by Yale in the moving picture battle at New Haven two weeks ago, will take the field at Yankee stadium, suspiciously alert for sly ruses, against the University of Illinois. Two of the Army's first string players, Letzelter and Hillsinger, back and guard, respectively, probably will have to yield to an understudy part of the time.

Illinois has shown nothing thus far that would seem likely to alarm one of the best teams in the country. The Army is playing a fast, loose game this season and the men are strong, firm and thoroughly taught.

Fear Zuppke's Tricks.

Still, Maj. Ralph [Tank] Sasse and the other coaching officers, are leary and nervous. Robert Zuppke, "the Dutchman," coach of Illinois, has done this to their composure. They regard him as a wizard and sometime before the game begins, the major is likely to call on him to say, in earnest paraphrase of a familiar jest, "Listen, wizard; none of your miracles today."

Fordham's team, undefeated in two years, went to Detroit for a game with Detroit university.

Georgia, also unbeaten and remembered as a team of heroic come-behinders for the victory at Yale a few weeks ago, comes north again to play New York U. at the Polo grounds.

Michigan and Harvard at Boston and Navy and Ohio State at Baltimore are two games in the intersectional class in which neither team has come thus far unbeaten or tied.

WOLVERINES TO BATTLE HARVARD BEFORE 62,000

Michigan, on the other hand, appears to be a well rounded team capable of striking either through the air or through the line.

Harvard on the defense, has presented a stubborn front against even such powerful lines as those of Dartmouth and West Point, and, though several first stringers will be missing, Michigan may be surprised at how tough the Harvard line can be.

Expect Passing Duel.

Should Harvard refuse to yield ground to the Michigan running attack, Coach Harry Kipke has in Harry Newman, a sophomore quarter back, just the man to rival Wood in aerial pyrotechnics. Michigan has won two conference games through the air so far, and if the two lines fight each other to a standstill a spectacular forward passing duel should result.

It turned very cold here yesterday, and the clear weather is expected to continue tomorrow. A capacity crowd of 62,000 is expected to be on hand for this conflict.

A feature of the game will be the appearance in the east of Michigan's 100 piece band. The Wolverine ensemble arrived in town today and paraded through the streets of Boston serenading the mayor and the governor.

Lake Forest Plays Little 19 Leaders at Homecoming

Lake Forest college's football team will meet Monmouth in its homecoming game at Lake Forest this afternoon. Monmouth is undefeated in the Little 19 conference this season, while Lake Forest has lost one game.

Teams which Monmouth has defeated in conference competition are Wheaton, North Central, Illinois College, and Augustana. Lake Forest has won from Beloit, North Central, the American College of Physical Education, and Northwestern college. Knox was the only team to score against Lake Forest, making 20 points.

However, a line that includes Price, the greatest tackle ever to play at West Point, with the possible exception of Leland Devore; Messinger, a great wing man; Miller, one of the best centers in this or any other section; Trice, Suarez, and Armstrong ought to handle the situation capably.

BEARS TO HAVE FULL STRENGTH AGAINST PACKERS

When the Bears meet the Green Bay Packers at Wrigley field tomorrow afternoon they will have their best opportunity to win since 1923. Although the national professional football champions come here unbeaten and with a 7 to 0 victory over the Bears in a previous encounter this season, the Chicagoans will have their full strength and a new assortment of offensive plays.

A punting duel looms between Verne Lewellen of the Packers and Joe Lintzenich of the Bears. For years Lewellen has ranked as the leading punter of the league, but Lintzenich has a good chance of dethroning him.

The last time the Bears defeated the Packers was in 1927 and the first game in 1923 ended in a 12 to 12 tie.

Teammates of Gipp to Play in Shrine Game

Back in 1920 Notre Dame university's football team leaped into national fame, largely through the brilliancy of George Gipp, all-American half back, whose death shortly after the close of the 1920 season shocked the sport world.

While Gipp was the big star, Coach Knute Rockne never lost sight of the fact that it took eleven men to make a football team, and he gave due credit to Gipp's teammates for much of the team's success. Gipp was a marked man for all opponents, and while the opponents were watching Gipp, his running mates, Johnny Mohardt and Norman Barry, cut loose and carried the ball through for substantial gains.

In the line were "Hunk" Anderson at tackle, and Ole Larson, at center, to make holes in the opposing lines for the backs to tear through.

When Rockne proposed to play a team of former Notre Dame stars against former stars of Northwestern on the Thanksgiving day football program at Soldiers' field, for the benefit of the Chicago unit of Shriners' Hospitals for Crippled Children, and the plan was put through, he immediately notified all of his available former stars that he wanted them to play.

So Barry, Anderson and Larson of the 1920 team will appear again in Notre Dame uniforms Thanksgiving day at Soldiers' field. Anderson now is head line coach under Rockne at Notre Dame; Larson is line coach at Loyola, and Norman Barry is practicing law in the loop and coaching the De La Salle institute football team.

Illinois Uplands Call Hunters for Quail and Rabbit

BY BOB BECKER.

Number 7 shot or standard duck shells loaded with number 6 for pheasant shooting; the same load for rabbits and number 8 shot for quail—these are the loads which we expect to use next week when we join the upland game hunters.

Monday morning, Nov. 10, the Illinois law says is the time to open up on ring necks, cottontail rabbits, quail, and even prairie chicken, although the latter as a game bird is nearly a thing of the past in Illinois. With the arrival of this big season hundreds of Illinois hunters may be expected to forsake the duck blinds for a time at least, because it's a heap of fun to hike across meadow and see the noisy ring necked pheasants hurtle into the air and watch a peppy cottontail rabbit dash through the weeds or brush.

We stay close to a 16 gauge double gun with 28 inch barrels when it comes time to have some fun with the pheasants. It is light, brought into action quickly, and will take care of the birds. Another necessary accessory for our hunting will be Jack, our English springer spaniel.

The springer is an ideal dog to work on the ring necks. In the first place he quarters his ground back and forth within range of the gun. Secondly, he doesn't let a smart old cock bird run like a scared greyhound and thus avoid flushing or flush out of range.

The dog is trained to retrieve and finishes his performance by bringing in the bird. In the east when we were judging a field trial we saw a springer (working in competition) flush pheasants, woodcock, and quail for the guns before its trial was over, showing that it had a nose getting everything in the bird line.

BIKE RIDERS TO MEET IN SPECIAL RACES TONIGHT

Georgetti and Walker in Feature Event.

All of the professional bicycle riders who will compete in Chicago's international six day bike race which starts tomorrow night in the Chicago Stadium will ride tonight at the Stadium in a program of special events.

Franco Georgetti, Italian racer, who holds the motor paced championship, and Cecil Walker will ride a one mile match, the best two in three heats. Gerard Debaets, Belgian, and Alfred Letourner, Frenchman, will meet in a five mile motor paced race which will be decided the best two in three heats. The pacemakers will be Jimmy Hunter and Charley Stein.

Alfredo Binda, Italy, will make his first appearance in Chicago tonight in an Australian pursuit match race against Reggie McNamara. They will start from opposite sides of the track and race until one rider catches the other.

Italy will meet America in a one mile team race. Representing America will be Freddie Spencer and Tony Beckman, while the Italian team will be made up of Gaetano Belloni and Pietro Linari. The other races will be a half mile handicap and a five mile open, while the amateurs will ride a half mile handicap and a one hour race with fifteen teams competing.

CARDINALS PLAN DEFENSE AGAINST GIANTS' PASSES

Every member of the Cardinals' squad will be in good condition tomorrow when they play the New York Giants at Comiskey park. The Chicagoans have not played since last Sunday, but have held several workouts, perfecting new plays to try on the easterners.

A special defense has been devised to stop the forward passing attack of the Giants. With Benny Friedman hurling the ball the Giants have had little trouble passing their way to victory in every game but one this season. Their defeat came at the hands of the Green Bay Packers, undefeated leaders of the National Professional Football league.

When the Cardinals played the Giants in New York earlier in the season they made 17 first downs and scored two touchdowns.

THAT LEVINSKY BOUT ISN'T OVER YET, IT SEEMS

Fans Still Disagree with Officials on Decision.

Says Fans Are Victims

"I'VE supported a number of boxing bills during my 17 years in the assembly, but after seeing the Slattery-Levinsky fight and hearing the decision, I'm inclined to doubt the wisdom of my action," Frank Ryan, state representative from the Second district, said last night.

Mr. Ryan's district includes the Chicago Stadium, where the bout was held.

"I don't know whether it's the commission or others who are at fault, but I know something should be done about it. The people who paid to see the fight certainly didn't get a square deal, and as for Slattery, the worst he should have received was a draw. If Representative Igoe seeks a repeal of the state boxing act, I'll swing along with him."

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Places where fight fans congregate were the scenes of heavy oratory yesterday anent the officials' decision which on Thursday night made King Levinsky a victor over Jimmy Slattery in a ten round boxing match at the Chicago Stadium.

The consensus among the ringside, ringmains, and gallery experts, expressed immediately after the fight in the form of boos, catcalls, and various other derisive noises, was amplified in most of the smokeshop declamations. Popular as Mr. Levinsky has been, there were few to be found who believed that he should have been awarded the decision.

Slattery Makes a Hit.

The fact that the process of building up Levinsky, an unskilled but strong and willing performer, has been so intensive has caused many to view with suspicion the appearance against the clever Slattery. The prefight suspicion, however, was based on the theory that Slattery might do a little splashing in the pool. When Slattery showed at the outset that he had no intention of doing any tank wallowing, or even slowing up, his eagerness apparently sold those who had suspected him. They forthwith became his boosters in a great big way.

This suddenly acquired following, according to theorizing yesterday, was all the more emotional when Slattery failed to be rewarded for his good faith by getting the decision, or at least a draw.

Bell-Voiced Igoe Protests.

It was said that State Representative Mike Igoe was protesting the decision "with a voice as clear as a bell" and threatening to vote for the repeal of the state boxing law. The Hon. Mike's voice is ever clear as a bell, and while his many friends do not question his sincerity at any time, it is probable that he will not be one of the leaders in an attack on the law, observers insisted.

Confusion about the manner of selecting officials was said to have caused some embarrassment to the Chicago Stadium fight department. Many of the disgruntled spectators called the Stadium late Thursday night and throughout the day to voice criticism of the decision.

This led the Stadium folks to issue a statement explaining that the appointment of officials is in the hands of the state athletic commission and that promoters of fights do not even have a voice in the approval of officials after they have been chosen.

Point System Confuses.

The point system employed in judging fights also occasioned some confusion, for the total points of the three officials showed more for Slattery than for Levinsky, due to the fact that Referee McGarrity and Judge Osborne each voted 55 to 45 for Levinsky, whereas Judge Corrigan's tabulation was 61 points to 39 for Slattery.

The explanation, of course, is that no points are used only to determine each individual card. Thus McGarrity's and Osborne's cards accounted for one vote each for Levinsky, the same as they would if their point tabulation had been 99 to 1. The same was true of Corrigan in favor of Slattery. There were three votes. Two were for Levinsky and one for Slattery.

Both of the officials accused of poor judgment have had considerable experience in officiating at boxing matches, but neither is engaged in a business allied with athletics. McGarrity is a butcher and Osborne an attorney.

During the day Al Miller, Levinsky's manager, issued a formal statement in which he said the decision was based on the rules as outlined before the fight in the office of Gen. Dunn, chairman of the commission. Miller said that Slattery choked his boy repeatedly and that the decision was against the Buffalo fighter as a result of this unethical procedure.

It was said that all three members of the commission were out of the city yesterday.

OHIO STATE PINS HOPES ON FESLER IN NAVY BATTLE

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The Ohio State football team, heartened by its scoreless tie with Wisconsin last Saturday, was resting here tonight confident that it had an even chance for victory tomorrow in its intersectional game with the Navy.

Although still suffering from bruises and minor injuries incurred in the battle with the Badgers, the Buckeyes are expected to present their full strength against the Middies. The team arrived here today in a special train while another special train is carrying the Ohio State band of 110 pieces and 2,500 students and supporters from Columbus.

The Navy squad completed its preparations for the game at Annapolis before moving over to Baltimore to await the kickoff. Coach Bill Ingram sent the entire squad of varsity players and reserves through a long signal drill.

The Midshipmen will come here tomorrow 2,000 strong, headed by their own band and the Navy drum and bugle corps.

Ohio State was placing its reliance for victory tomorrow on the ability of Wesley Fesler, captain and all-American end of 1929, who is playing full back this year, to find holes in the Navy's line. Ohio's line showed such improvement in the Wisconsin game that Buckeye supporters are confident that with the same support tomorrow Fesler will get away often enough to outscore the Middies.

Pacific Coast League Fails to Name President

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Deadlocked in the balloting, directors of the Pacific Coast Baseball league adjourned today from their annual meeting without electing a president. Another election will be held in Montreal Dec. 1, during the annual Minor league national convention.

Harry A. Williams, Los Angeles, incumbent, received four votes; J. Cal Ewing, former Oakland club owner, three, and John J. Sullivan, Seattle, one.

Penn Alumni Object to Side Jobs of Football Coaches

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 7.—(AP)—The University of Pennsylvania alumni committee on athletics, in a report today said the rich financial rewards frequently accruing on the side to successful football coaches "threaten to make a veritable racket of the college game, if they have not already done so."

The committee made its report to the national conference of the Associated Pennsylvania club. The report was read by Sol Metzger, captain of the 1903 Pennsylvania team and later a coach, who is chairman of the committee.

The report declared:

"College football is no longer the players' game but is a struggle between sagacious and clever coaches, a match between press-agented systems. Perhaps Pennsylvania is to be blamed here, for what grayheaded grad but remembers with pride and boasting the good old days when the Woodruff system went steamrolling over all opponents."

Praises Western Method.

The committee urged university officials to handle the football problem in a franker manner, praised the middle western method of granting scholarships to athletes on the basis of scholarship, and advocated recruiting of students by local alumni groups rather than by the athletic coaches.

Members of the athletic committee, in addition to Metzger, are William T. Tilden II., tennis star; John Dern II. New York City; William E. Lingelbach Jr., son of a professor of history at the university, and now at Oxford university, England, and John P. Gardiner of Toledo, O.

Coaches Earn Their Salary.

"Our war is not against high salaried coaches," the report stated. "Whatever they are paid they earn by sleepless nights and criticism from all sources, as any who ever filled such berths will affirm. The rub is that a situation similar to that in amateur golf and tennis, the old stuff of sinecures, has arisen. The game threatens to become a racket. It may already be one."

Gasparo Knocks Out Bush in Second Round

Dan Gasparo, Chicago welterweight, knocked out Chester Bush of New Orleans in the second round of an eight round windup at the Olympic arena last night. In the six round semi-final Solly Schuman, west side featherweight, knocked out Billy Locks of South Bend, Ind., in the third round.

A. A. Stagg Says a Coaching Job Is No Sinecure

Alonzo Stagg, football coach at the University of Chicago, expressed disagreement last night with the report of the University of Pennsylvania alumni committee, which asserted that sinecures and the rich financial rewards reaped by fotoball coaches on the side were threatening to "make a veritable racket" of the college game.

"Certainly, I have no sinecure as coach at the University of Chicago," said Mr. Stagg. "Our football is part of the institution's physical educational plan, and I never make anything out of it on the side, except for an article for a magazine. I don't make a practice of writing articles for newspaper syndication.

"My salary is $8,000 a year, the same as professors are paid. I have had plenty of opportunities to make extra money, but I have persistently turned down the offers."

Mr Stagg asserted that with few exceptions, he believed other football coaches seldom cashed in on their prominence. He insisted that football was not being "overemphasized" at the University of Chicago.

"We go on the field at four o'clock, work two hours and play two hours," he said. "There is nothing of the grind about it. The university offers football, swimming, wrestling, fencing, track, and field and basketball and baseball as courses for the students, who elect what they want. They are required to take two years of one of them."

CUB PROFITS FOR 1930 BIGGEST IN CLUB'S HISTORY

$50,000 Paid for Smith Tops Expenditures.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The corporation bearing the name of the Chicago National League Baseball club, but better known as the Cubs, will operate for the coming year with the same set of officers who held titles last season. The annual business meeting was held in the Wrigley building yesterday and after determining the healthy condition of the treasury the incumbents felt so good they decided to reelect each other by unanimous vote.

The exact state of the treasury was not revealed to any except stockholders, but it was learned that the net profits on the year's business was the largest in the club's history. In 1929 receipts touched a higher figure, but considerable of the cream was skimmed off by player purchases.

Smith Costliest Purchase.

The ticket, which was elected without much more than a gesture, follows:

PRESIDENT AND TREASURER—William Veeck.
SECRETARY—Miss Margaret Donahue.
FIRST VICE PRESIDENT—William M. Walker.
SECOND VICE PRESIDENT—John O. Seys.
BOARD OF DIRECTORS — William Wrigley Jr., chairman; R. A. Cavanaugh, A. D. Lasker, George Marcy, Charles McCulloch, A. B. Schuetller, William M. Walker, Phil K. Wrigley, William Veeck.

The biggest expenditure made by the club this fall, but which was not charged against the fiscal year just closed, was for Pitcher Bob Smith, purchased from the Braves for money and one young pitcher. The sum involved in this trade was reported, unofficially, to be in excess of $50,000. Sweetland, bought from the Phillies, and May, taken from the Reds, cost $20,000 and $25,000 respectively.

Although the purchase price for Ed Baecht, acquired on Thursday from Los Angeles, was in the neighborhood of $65,000, only $20,000 was in cash, the balance being represented by seven players whom the Cubs will send to the Coast league club.

Vaughn Back on Roster.

The future of Jim Vaughn, the old time southpaw, who was automatically restored to the Cubs' roster by his reinstatement to organized baseball after an eight year lapse, is a matter of doubt so far as Manager Hornsby and President Veeck are concerned.

Hornsby declared yesterday that he hadn't decided whether to hold the veteran to determine whether he had any pitching remaining in his one time invaluable left wing or to release him. With a number of southpaws already enrolled on his staff it is probable that waivers will be asked on Vaughn, and if he is unclaimed he will be sent to some minor league.

COMMUNITY HIGH WINS.

Sterling, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Community High of Sterling today defeated St. Thomas High of Rockford, 7 to 0, in the last home game of the season. A 40 yard pass, Innis to T. Ackert, scored the touchdown.

La Salle, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—La Salle-Peru defeated Ottawa on the latter's field in a home coming game today, 21 to 0.

A New Design in an English Brogue

REGAL SHOES

ALLEN & BRIDGE, famous London Bootmakers, told us that this new "fully-brogued," hand-punched, perforated Wing Tip Model was their most popular design, and showed us their Customers' Book to prove it.

We reproduced this new design exactly—Style, Pattern, Last and Leather. They used Gallun's Vegetable tanned Calfskin—we are using the same identical tannage.

Every hole in the elaborately perforated pattern was punched by hand with an awl. We made a die and with one click of a machine reproduced the Design exactly.

Now how can we prove to you we can reproduce this $27.90 hand made English Brogue for $6.60?

I can't think of any way to make it easier for you or more difficult for us than to buy the Original $27.90 shoe in London and show it to you in our windows with the Regal Reproduction for $6.60.

R. FLOYD CLINCH DIES SUDDENLY IN HIS OFFICE

Heart Attack Is Fatal to Capitalist.

R. Floyd Clinch, capitalist, philanthropist and business leader, died suddenly yesterday in his office in the Rookery building at 209 South La Salle street. Death was attributed to heart disease. Mr. Clinch was 65 years old.

Before leaving his home in Hubbard Woods yesterday morning Mr. Clinch complained that he had contracted a cold. He went to the office of Dr. Louis Ruttenberg for an examination. On his arrival in his office he said that the doctor had found him fit except for a slight lung congestion.

Two hours later his employés heard a noise in his office. On entering they found that he had fallen from his chair. Dr. Ruttenberg was summoned. He pronounced Mr. Clinch dead after more than an hour had been spent in attempts to revive him.

Son of Confederate Officer.

Mr. Clinch was born in Georgia, the son of Col. Duncan L. Clinch of the Confederate army and the grandson of Gen. Duncan L. Clinch, who served in the war of 1812. He was educated in private schools in Georgia and later attended a military academy in Pennsylvania. He came to Chicago in 1883 and became associated with the Joliet Steel company.

In 1899 Mr. Clinch organized, with the late John Crerar, the Crerar Clinch Coal company, of which he was president at the time of his death. He was a director of the Central Trust company and the Chicago Rapid Trust company; director and vice president of the Chicago, North Shore, and Milwaukee railroad and of the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad; president of the Michigan Transit company, the Traverse City State Bank of Traverse City, Mich., and of the Hannah & Lay Mercantile company; and receiver for the Chicago Auditorium association.

Contributor to Charities.

Mr. Clinch was a member of the Chicago, Union League, Electric, and Indian Hill Golf clubs and the Sons of Colonial Wars. He gave $25,000 in 1929 for the construction of the main tower of the new Western Theological seminary at Northwestern university. He was a frequent contributor to charities.

He is survived by his widow, Katharine S. Lay Clinch, and two children, Duncan Lamont Clinch and Margaret Lay Clinch. Funeral arrangements are to be announced later.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Getting Into Traffic

REVEAL GAS BAGS OF R-101 LEAKED BEFORE FLIGHT

O. K. Was Refused by Inspection Chief.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Three months before the dirigible R-101 sailed on her last tragic voyage, aircraft inspectors discovered that leaks in the gas bags had decreased the ship's lifting power to an alarming extent, it developed today at the inquiry into the loss of the dirigible.

"If it had been left to me," said F. McWade, chief of the inspection department at Cardington, "I'm afraid the R-101 would not have received a certificate of air worthiness."

Tried to Pad Defects.

Under questioning by Sir John Simon, head of the board of inquiry, McWade said he had reported the leaks last July. The gas bags were rubbing against wiring points when the ship rolled, he said, and the friction was wearing holes in the containers.

They tried padding the points of contact, McWade said, but this was unsatisfactory. He recommended certain changes in construction, but these would have necessitated removal of the gas bags and the job might have taken three months.

Meantime, Lord Thomson, the air minister who perished in the crash on Oct. 5, was eager to get away on the flight to India. When the dirigible left, McWade said, she was, with the exception of the padding, in the same condition as when he had first reported the leaks.

Big Ship Handled Heavily.

McWade testified after Sir John had read his memorandum recommending alterations in construction, and another document in which Col. V. C. Richmond, also killed in the crash, noted that the leaks were decreasing the ship's lifting power.

Sir John declared he could not understand why these documents had not been produced before, but it was explained later that they had been put aside for copying at the air ministry and had been overlooked.

Col. Richmond's memorandum, filed last july, was written after he had observed that the dirigible handled heavily in a trial flight. His own inspection, he wrote, indicated that the loss of lifting power amounted to about one ton per square inch of hole in twelve hours. It was an alarming condition which required immediate attention, his memorandum said.

FOUR MORE DEAD MEN FOUND IN OHIO MINE RAISES TOTAL TO 83

Millfield, O., Nov. 7.—(AP)—The tunnels of No. 6 mine of the Sunday Creek Coal company gave up the bodies of four more miners late today, bringing to 83 the known dead in last Wednesday's explosion.

Search for these four men was started after a tally revealed they were unaccounted for in the explosion. Previously it had been thought the toll would stand at 79, including the nine company officials who met death with their employés during an inspection trip into the tunnels.

Although rescuers expressed the belief that the bodies found today were all that remained in the mine, search of the tunnels will be continued until every section has been gone over.

In order to make a thorough search, workmen were engaged to build brattices so that all tunnels joining the two mile long main tunnel may be reached. Company officials said this work might require two or three days. The injured stood tonight at 20. Several of these were not expected to live.

MADRID BAKERS STRIKE AT PRICE FIXING OF BREAD

MADRID, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Bakers of the Spanish capital decided today to close their shops beginning tomorrow, protesting the price of 10 centesimo for a 4 ounce loaf of bread fixed by the government. The government subsidizes the bakers to maintain this price, but the latter assert that they are unable to make a profit without an increase.

GRANADA, Spain, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Law, medicine, and pharmacy students of the University of Granada today went on strike and said they would not return to classes until the government restores educational regulations adopted by parliament in 1903.

CHANNEL STORM MAY HALT FLIGHT OF DO-X TODAY

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Stiff winds whistled across the English channel tonight. Gale warnings were hoisted at Calshot, the naval base near Southampton, and prospects for tomorrow's promised flight of the seaplane DO-X to England were not promising.

Nevertheless, the big plane's crew proceeded with preparations for their salt water debut—a 400 mile flight to Calshot on the second stage of a trans-Atlantic voyage to New York by way of the Azores and Bermuda.

At Southampton, it was reported, both the German embassy and the British air ministry had invited 200 guests to witness the arrival of the biggest seaplane in the world. It was thought possible the prince of Wales might fly from London in his private plane to take part in the reception.

A crew of 15 and 21 passengers are to make this first flight of the DO-X between two important sea ports, and with only 36 aboard the ship will be flying light, for on her trials she has carried as many as 169.

MARIA JERITZA SUES AUTHOR ON SLANDER CHARGE

Opera Star Says Book Referred to Her.

VIENNA, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Madame Maria Jeritza, famous Austrian opera singer, today instituted legal proceedings charging defamation of character against Dr. Muller Guttenbrunn, Austrian writer.

Dr. Guttenbrunn wrote a book entitled, "Riff Raff," which the diva asserted referred to her. After the volume was published she obtained legal authority for confiscation.

The incident has created a great stir in Vienna.

Mme. Jeritza is now in New York with the Metropolitan Opera company, hence the action was handled by her attorney.

Censor Condemns Two Passages.

The book portrays a household constantly embroiled in sordid litigation and when the singer heard it was being prepared for publication it is understood she considered it might refer to her and her husband, Baron von Popper. She obtained an injunction against the author while the book still was in galley proof and referred the matter to the censor, who condemned two passages, which Dr. Guttenbrunn revised.

But by the time "Riff Raff" was published yesterday, Mme. Jeritza concluded the persons portrayed could be no one but herself and husband. She instituted proceedings for confiscation of the book and at the same time filed the suit against the author.

"Really a Small Matter."

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The suit started in Vienna by Marie Jeritza against the author of a book containing allegedly defamatory statements about her is "really a small matter," the diva's husband, Baron Leopold von Popper, said today. The baron said the author wrote the book "only to be nasty."

Baron von Popper disclaimed knowledge of exactly what the book contains or on what passages the charges of defamation of character were based and declared Mme. Jeritza is equally ignorant. He explained they had authorized their attorney in Vienna to handle the case as he thought advisable.

100,000 ETHIOPIAN WARRIORS YELL LOYALTY TO KING

ADDIS ABRABA, Abyssinia, Nov. 7.—(AP)—One hundred thousand Ethiopian warriors today galloped past the newly crowned emperor, Haile Selassie I., in token of their fealty and as a great farewell demonstration for the foreigners from afar who attended the coronation Sunday. It was a thrilling spectacle.

Shouting and gesticulating like wild Apaches on the warpath, the hordes of feudal chieftains and tribesmen, attired in medieval garb of shaggy lion manes and armed with lances and swords, swept up before the monarch on beautiful and high spirited horses.

For a time it appeared that the shrieking tribesmen would become a menace to the emperor and the local authorities kept machine guns trained upon them from a strategic position. At one point the emperor's guards, fearing an assault upon their ruler, forced the screaming horsemen down hill with lances and bayonets.

As they rushed before the golden dais on which the emperor sat the warriors of the desert and mountain flung themselves from their steeds and lay prostrate before their ruler, assuring him of their bravery and their readiness to defend him against all enemies.

Boy Seeking Cross U. S. Air Record Lands in Chicago

Stanley Boynton, the 18 year old Boston youth who is trying to establish a new junior transcontinental flying record, flew into Chicago yesterday and landed at the Municipal airport at 4:30 p. m. He said he had made the journey here from Los Angeles in 14 hours 11 minutes and that he hoped to continue on to New York this morning, reaching there in less than six hours. This would place his transcontinental time at less than 20 hours. The present record of 23 hours is held by Robert Buck.

AURORA HUNTS 2 BANDITS WHO PREY ON WEALTHY

Aurora police yesterday were seeking a pair of bandits who are specializing in invading wealthy homes.

The latest holdup, it was learned yesterday, was committed Thursday night in the home of Mrs. E. S. Hobbs, widow of a former president of the Aurora Cotton Mills. She lost $250 in jewelry and money. Her sister, Miss Lee Dunklin, gave up $850 in money and gems.

The night before two masked men, believed the same ones who held up Mrs. Hobbs, entered the home of Mrs. Clifford Trimble, widow of Clifford Trimble, one time manager of the Exposition Park Jockey club, and stole $2,100 in jewels.

SANDINO REBELS STORM OUTPOST; KILL 5 GUARDS

Burn Fort in Nicaragua After Fierce Battle.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Headquarters of the Nicaraguan national guard announced today that its outpost at Matiguas, in the department of Matigalpa, had been besieged on Wednesday by a band believed to have been followers of Augusto Sandino, insurgent leader, and that five guardsmen had been killed or captured.

The ten men stationed at Matiguas made a brave defense for several hours, the announcement said, killing several of the attacking party before five of the garrison fled to an outpost fifteen miles to the south.

United States marines made an air reconnaisance of the vicinity today. They reported the Matiguas barracks burned to the ground. There was no sign of the attacking party, but ten mounted men sighted several miles to the south of the outpost were bombed from the plane until they fled into the jungle.

The Liberal newspaper La Noticia cited the reported attack today as an argument against contemplated reduction of the national guard forces.

VOLUME OF MAIL ORDER BUSINESS HOLDS UP WELL

Sears-Roebuck Sales Are an Example.

The Chicago Board of Trade the Chicago Stock exchange and the Chicago Curb exchange will be closed next Tuesday Nov. 11, Armistice day, which is a legal holiday in this state Trading on the New York exchange will be suspended for two minutes at 11 o'clock in the morning. Chicago brokerage houses will be open, but al banks will be closed.

BY O. A. MATHER.

In spite of unfavorable agricultural and industrial conditions, sales of some of the big mail order and chain store companies have been showing seasonal expansion. Naturally, they do not show the dollar values established a year ago, as commodity prices have declined considerably. But taking the lower prices into consideration, actual volume of business this year appears not greatly below last year.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago's big mail order and chain store concern, affords an example. It reported sales of $34,588,125 for the four weeks ended Nov. 5, which was the eleventh period in the company's thirteen month year. While the total marked a decline of $7,498,749, or 17.8 per cent, from the corresponding period in 1929, it still showed a steady increase over several periods immediately preceding.

A better comparative showing is made by cumulative sales for this year to date. Up to Nov. 5 total sales were $319,063,550, compared with $349,614,446 in the same period last year, a decline of $30,550,896, or 8.7 per cent. This percentage decline is not far from the average decline in commodity prices. Hence, it would appear that actual volume of business has been about the same.

Auto Output Drops.

Automobile production registered another sharp decline last month, according to data compiled by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The October output was placed at 156,-[illegible] vehicles, compared with 220,888 in September and 394,540 in October, 1929. Production for the first ten months of this year totaled 3,222,256 vehicles, compared with 5,269,216 in the same period last year.

Surmises that the steel industry is curing production to current demand, thus reducing operations and not cutting into backlogs, received support yesterday. It was reported that the United States Steel corporation's monthly report on unfilled orders, which will be issued on Monday, will make a comparatively favorable showing.

Instead of another large decline in forward business, it was predicted that unfilled orders will show little change. Two factors that should contribute to this result were cited: First, the declining scale of operations last month; second, some impetus in new buying, which was larger than had been anticipated, particularly small lot purchasing. In addition, considerable new business has been received for rolling next year.

Trade Conditions Quiet.

Quiet conditions in general trade and industry again are reported by the weekly mercantile reviews. Whatever seasonal expansion appeared with autumn now has passed its peak and wholesale buying has let down.

"The net results apparently visible—this backed up by a few monthly statistical returns—are that regular fall trade and industry connected therewith hardly reached full seasonal proportions," Bradstreet's review says. "This leaves the satisfaction of holiday needs and regular retail buying to furnish chief occupation until the closing month of the year is entered. Measures of movement for October available thus early show irregular trade, this partly due to the fact that October, last year, saw the collapse of speculative positions in stocks, grain, and other commodities."

"Both weekly and monthly compilations have shown that the fall of commodity prices, which already has gone further than had been commonly anticipated, has not yet been checked and this obviously acts as a retarding factor. Where resistance points apparently have been reached, as in copper and cotton textile, buying has increased noticeably and the status of these markets has been strengthened. At some period, similar phases should develop more generally and the direct alignment of production to the needs for actual consumption is working toward this end."

Argentine Rust Spreads; Wheat Starts on Upgrade

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Official confirmation of the spreading of rust in Argentina, where it is now found in practically all sections, and a cable quoting an Argentine government official as estimating the damage already at about 20 per cent in the provinces of Cordoba and Santa Fe started wheat prices on the upgrade yesterday in all of the leading world markets. Despite the semi-demoralization of securities in Wall street, part of the advance was held on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Yellow striped rust, first identified by Crop Expert R. O. Cromwell of Lamson Brothers & Co. during his inspection trip last year, rather than black rust, with which the American and Canadian trade is so familiar, is responsible for the deterioration in the new wheat crop in Argentina.

According to Mr. Cromwell the yellow rust, which exists only in a few places in the United States, is about 75 per cent as damaging as the black. A cable to Clement, Curtis & Co. said the forecast was for rains today, Sunday and Monday, which tended to increase the apprehension of the trade, as wet weather is favorable for the spread the rust.

Wheat Closes Higher.

At one time wheat prices dipped back to under Thursday's close in sympathy with the stock market, but there was fairly persistent buying by commission houses and the local element were also more friendly to the bull side. A local house sold on scale orders as did holders of offers, but the close was ⅛@¼c higher, with old December finishing at 74⅛c to 74¼@74⅜c; March, 78¼@78⅜c; May, 80⅝@80½c, and July, 81⅛c. Winnipeg advanced ⅞@1c for the day, while Liverpool was up 1⅝@1¾d, and Buenos Aires closed 1⅛c higher. February in the latter market was 70¼c at the last, gaining fractionally on Chicago during the day.

Supply and demand figures have apparently been temporarily discarded by the wheat trade in basing their ideas on the trend of the market in the immediate future. Operators here and abroad are paying the closest attention to the character of the crop comments coming from Argentina.

Should Argentina harvest a small wheat crop this season a drastic revision would be necessary in estimates as to the amount of grain exporting countries could furnish during the present season. Bulls received some encouragement during the day by Broomhall's agents' estimate on the Australian crop of 181,000,000 bu, or nearly 25,000,000 bu under the government figures of the previous day.

Foreigners showed more interest in Manitoba wheat than for some time, sales of 1,000,000 bu or more being claimed at Winnipeg, and it was understood there were bids in the market for additional quantities.

Corn Market Unsettled.

Corn futures advanced around 1c in the early trading, in sympathy with wheat and on scattered local and commission house buying, but the bulge was checked by selling against offers and a reaction came toward the last on the weakness in the stock market. Closing trades were ⅝c higher to ⅝c lower, with July showing the decline. Old December finished at 73⅝@73¾c; March, 76⅝c; May, 78¾c, and July, 80c.

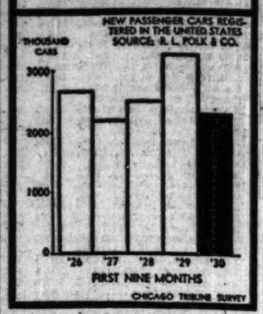
Owing to the prevailing low price of corn in Argentina the experiment may be made of burning corn in place of coal on the railroads. December in Buenos Aires closed ⅝c higher at 37¾c. Local operators are inclined to favor the buying side of the nearby futures on the breaks, feeling that the movement will let up shortly. Country offerings are small, and consignments show indications of letting up.

Buy Oats Early.

Cash interests commission houses, and shorts bought oats early, but the best prices were not maintained, although final sales showed net gains of ¼@⅝c, with December 31⅞c and May 35⅝c. Shipping demand has improved considerably as the result of the recent decline, with around 500,-000 bu sold so far this week.

Outside interest in rye was limited and the market was dominated almost entirely by the action of wheat, closing trades being ¼c lower to ⅛c higher, with December at 42¾c, and May at 49c.

Car Sales in the United States for Nine Months Were Slightly Higher Than in 1927



CLAIM MODIFICATION OF PACKERS' DECREE WOULD HURT GROCERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—Witnesses for the government in the hearing on petitions of Swift & Co. and Armour & Co. for modification of the packers' consent decree told today in the district Supreme court how the wholesale grocery business would be injured were the packers permitted to sell food products other than meat.

V. P. Wilkinson of Newark, N. J., head of a wholesale grocery house and chain of retail stores, said his business would be seriously affected were the packers allowed to enter the wholesale and retail food field. Other witnesses claimed that the packers, by using their partly filled refrigerator cars to carry foods other than meats, could ship for less money.

J. Frank Grimes of Evanston, Ill., president of the Independent Grocers' Alliance, described the growth of his company to its present membership of 9,000 retail stores to meet the competition of the chain stores. He said retailers were watching with interest the experiments with quick freezing of meats. Should the experiments prove successful, he asserted, packing of meats would be possible and a revolution in selling take place, rendering store equipment obsolete and throwing retail meat cutters out of work.

Advises More Liberal Dividends When Possible

BY SCRUTATOR.

There seems a rather prevalent idea that American corporations are doing business on a no profit basis. The course of stock market prices as well as occasional references to hard times by big business men demonstrate that. Some corporations are, of course, without any profits this year. Others have made larger ones this year than last. The majority have, on the basis of the available statistics, suffered only such reduction in earnings as would logically be expected from the reduction in volume of business done, although the decline in commodity prices and the lowered value of inventories written off may have been important factors with many.

Average 10.1 Per Cent.

The National City bank has collected figures showing that 200 large corporations engaged in a dozen lines of business earned in nine months of 1930 a total just short of 782 million dollars, as against $1,172,000,000 in the same period of 1929. Making allowances for changes in total assets, these 200 companies earned this year on their capital and surplus at the annual rate of 10.1 per cent and last year at the rate of 17 per cent.

Apparently no effort was made to place only those with good showings in the list. Thirty-seven of the firms had actual deficits and twenty-eight had larger profits than in 1929 for the nine month period.

Represented were eleven automobile companies, nineteen auto accessory makers, fourteen chemical and drug firms, six electrical equipment, twenty-one making food products, eighteen iron and steel, sixteen machinery, thirteen petroleum, and eighty-two listed in other lines.

The list of industries is thus rather comprehensive. The companies may not, of course, be representative of business as a whole. Probably they are in the usual situation of large well conducted organizations. They prove, at least, that the art of making profits has not entirely disappeared. An average annual earning of 10 per cent was considered fair enough even in the old days when stocks were regarded as selling at normal prices and when market values stayed closer to book values than they did in the inflationary period.

May Be Too Conservative.

That percentage may look a little slim to people who had grown to feel aggrieved unless their stocks went up several times that much in market appreciation, and who may now be harboring the intention of recouping in the next bull market what they lost in the collapse of the last one. Corporation policies of plowing back large parts of their annual earnings, admirable as it was in financing and in compounding the investor's return, had a great deal to do with the promotion of the idea that future capital gains rather than present income was the important thing.

It has been frequently suggested that those companies who have weathered this year in good shape should adopt a more liberal dividend policy for the future. Seemingly those who have passed the 10 per cent mark this year should feel safe enough to do it. Conservatism could be carried too far. The Financial World has tabulated twelve of the largest industrial concerns in the country who in the last eight years have turned back from 40 to 66 per cent of their earnings into capital.

KROGER GROCERY SALES ARE 10.15% UNDER YEAR AGO

Kroger Grocery and Baking company sales for the five weeks ended Nov. 1 totaled $25,164,779, a decrease of 10.15 per cent from $28,009,242 for the corresponding period last year. Sales for the 43 weeks and four days ended Nov. 1 aggregated $221,643,849, a decrease of 6.70 per cent from $237,-562,175 for the like period of 1929. Stores in operation Nov. 1 totaled 5,178, compared with 5,593 on the same date last year.

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The Export Petroleum Association, Inc., announced today that it had canceled all of its export price schedules. The statement was issued by Gilbert Montague, vice president and general counsel, who declined to comment. For some time there has been considerable opposition among members of the association to its official prices, according to oil company executives. Many contended the prices did not represent the actual status of the export market.

Dow, Jones & Co. says that regardless of lower earnings, it is the present intention of the board of directors of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company to pay the regular dividend on common stock for at least the next two quarters. The regular quarterly dividend on the common is $1.25.

The National Bank of Norway yesterday reduced its discount rate from 4½ per cent to 4 per cent.

The Hudson Motor Car company put 1,500 former employés back on the production line this week and will put an additional 1,000 men to work next week, with a further increase of 1,000 the following week, W. J. McAneeny, president, announced. He said the increase in employment was necessitated by orders placed for the new models.

Proposed increases in rates for telephone service in Princeville, Peoria county, scheduled by the Illinois Central Telephone company, were suspended until March 21, 1931, by the Illinois commerce commission yesterday.

Prices on the new Chevrolet line for 1931 range from $475 to $650, as against $495 to $685 for the 1930 line, according to an announcement from Detroit. Price reductions range from $20 to $40.

Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company's unfilled orders on Oct. 31 were $15,322,000, against $15,545,000 at the end of September, and $13,917,000 a year ago.

Y., and the plant will go on a five day a week schedule beginning Jan. 1. Three plants, modern in every detail, but not suitably located for shipping, will be closed. They are at Kansas City, St. Paul, and Bremen, Ind.

Finds Greatest Vacant Office Space in 7 Years

The largest percentage of vacant office space in seven years of survey was reported yesterday by the National Association of Building Owners and Managers in its October statement by the committee on renting. In a total floor area of 166,998,875 square feet there was a vacancy of 22,226,010 feet, or 13.32 per cent. The survey covered 1,980 office buildings in 42 principal cities of the United States and Canada. The vacant space, the report said, represents more than the total office space in the cities of Cleveland, Philadelphia and Los Angeles combined.

The association added that 11,054,563 square feet of office space are reported under construction, of which 1,147,289 will be available for occupancy by Jan. 1, 1931.

Radio Corp. Declares Regular Pfd. Dividends

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Directors of the Radio Corporation of America today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the class B preferred stock and 87½ cents on the class A preferred, both payable Jan. 1 to stock of record Dec. 1. Although officials of the corporation have intimated for some time the regular dividends would be paid, there had been some concern in speculative circles because of the weakness of the stock.

CHARGE MAKERS OF PIPES AGREE TO FIX PRICES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Charges that the five largest manufacturers of smoking pipes in the United States were operating under a "fixed selling price agreement" were made before the tariff commission today by a New York pipe importer.

The charge was made across a table almost hidden under a pile of pipes after representatives of domestic producers had asked the commission to increase the duty on pipes, raised by the 1930 tariff act, and importers had urged a 50 per cent decrease.

Julius Oppenheimer of New York, a pipe importer, told the commission "domestic manufacturers are operating under a fixed selling price agreement," put into effect last July with a considerable increase in prices.

Representatives of domestic manufacturers contended in extended testimony that greater protection was needed for American pipe producers to equalize cost of production here and abroad.

DE FOREST, RADIO INVENTOR, FILES $2,770,000 SUIT

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Dr. Lee De Forest, inventor of radio and talking motion picture devices, filed a $2,770,-000 damage suit in the Supreme court today against the Western Electric company, Inc., the Electrical Research Products, Inc., and John E. Otterson, president of Electrical Research Products.

He charged the defendants maliciously prevented him from selling control of the De Forest Phonfilm corporation in 1926 to William Fox. He said they feared Fox might become a formidable competitor.

The inventor further alleged the defendants represented to Fox that he or his companies did not own the sound film patents, sale of which he was negotiating with Fox.

Fox then refused to exercise an option to purchase De Forest stock, the plaintiff said, at a price which had been fixed at $2,250,000. If the option had been exercised, Dr. De Forest asserted, he was also to have been employed by Fox for five years at $50,000 a year.

Peter B. Carey, second vice president, will automatically become first vice president next year. He is being mentioned for the presidency.

Candidates are to be selected by the nominating committee which, under the rules, will hold three meetings, starting Nov. 13. A president, second vice president, five directors and five members each for the committees on appeals, arbitration and nomination are to be selected. Election will be held Jan. 5. Members of the nominating committee are: John J. Bittel, Charles Baker, George T. Carhart, Charles P. Randall and John C. Wood.

Enact Final Court Hearing in Youngstown Steel Suit

Youngstown, O., Nov. 7.—(AP)—The final chapter in the prolonged hearing of the injunction suit against the merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with the Bethlehem Steel corporation was enacted today in the courtroom of Judge David G. Jenkins. Bringing to a climax three weeks of final arguments Harry Crawford, member of counsel for the Cyrus S. Eaton interests, who filed the suit, delivered the last plea of the plaintiffs for an order setting aside the merger contract, which they claim was fraudulently and illegally executed.

Judge Jenkins will begin deliberation tomorrow on the extensive volumes of evidence which required months to compile. He is not expected to render his decision for six weeks or more. Crawford's argument consumed nearly all of the final day, and a night session of court, the first ever held in the four and a half months consumed by the trial, was necessary to complete it.

More than 100 buyers, manufacturers, and wholesalers, after an inspection of the big new building, attended. Buyers of the principal State street stores also were present. Claude A. Welles, general manager of the mart, was the principal speaker. Mr. Welles pointed out that the building was constructed on air rights, giving superior facilities for the handling of carload lots of furniture.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 7.—An almost steady drumfire of selling orders raked the stock market from end to end today, battering the averages to new low price levels for the year and giving Wall street the gloomiest day it has known in many a blue moon.

Leading issues broke 1 to 7 points with the losses in a number of the more volatile descriptions ranging much more. Peoples Gas, high grade utility and one of the two or three remaining stocks out of the entire list still selling above the 200 mark, dropped 12 points. Pere Marquette and Pittsburgh and West Virginia Coal declined 10 each, Union Pacific sold off 9 and Allied Chemical—up to last week also one of the exclusive 200 pointers—took the count for 8½ points.

On the face of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S combined averages embracing 50 representative stocks, the day's bottom prices were the lowest recorded since May 29, 1927. Twenty-five rails touched the lowest levels since June 4, 1926. Twenty-five industrials were at the lowest level since July 11, 1927. Using these averages as a yardstick the market is now far below the extreme depths it reached at the culmination of the big crash last autumn—on Nov. 13.

Auction Off at Bargains.

The abandon with which the best old time industrial stocks were put on the block and knocked down at bargain prices filled veteran observers with amazement. The telephone wires were kept hot as brokers called up all known sources of information to find out what it was all about and where it was likely to lead to. Nobody seemed able to offer any satisfactory explanation for the phenomenon and there was a vague, uneasy feeling, rather freely expressed, that there was "something hanging over the market"—just what nobody could suggest.

Certainly there was nothing in the published news of the day to account for it. Sentiment over the election, imminence of a railroad receivership, an estimate of lower production of motor cars, and the continued absence of any convincing signs of business improvement—all these were weighed in the balances and one after another found wanting as a reason. Probably all of them had some effect, contributing to the general pessimism, but it was agreed on all hands that none of them, nor all of them together, could account for such a sweeping liquidation movement.

Rallies Die Out.

Possibly scattered bear selling was a contributory factor but there was no sidestepping the fact that a run of liquidation was on and that it was sweeping all before it. Not that any serious effort was made to rally the list. There were a few feeble efforts to turn the tide, but they died aborning, almost without exception under fresh outbursts of liquidation.

The day's decline placed the yields on stocks to a level not obtainable since the 1924-'26 period, while prices were sunk to around the 1927-'28 levels.

A rather startling feature of the day was the heavy selling of old line investment railroad stocks. At the high prices this year, the highest yield obtainable on a good railroad stock was a little more than 5 per cent. Around today's lows, the yields on rails were mostly 6 per cent and in some instances ran as high as 7, 8, 9, and even 10 per cent.

U. S. Steel to 140.

United States Steel, for all its purple standing, found a poor market from the very outset to the final gong and gave way to a new low for the year of 140. Its net loss on the day's business was 3¾ points. New lows were made with it by other such aristocrats as American Telephone, Pennsylvania railroad, General Electric, Westinghouse Manufacturing, Radio and Bethlehem Steel. No sign of the much-discussed banker's support appeared for any of them.

Public Utility stocks were again heavily sold—partly due, no doubt, to continued uncertainty over the trend of legislation, to grow out of the election changeabouts—and declines of 1 to 5 points were the rule throughout the group. Virtually the whole lot scraped new bottoms for the year or longer.

The soft drink issues, such as Canada Dry and Coca Cola, came in for further pounding, the first named losing 4½ and the other 6¾ points.

LEADING CHICAGO STOCKS DESCEND TO RECORD LOWS

All Sections of List Encounter Selling.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Leading stocks on the Chicago exchange were forced down to record low prices yesterday as a new wave of selling engulfed the market and swelled the volume of trading to the highest level in days. Transactions mounted to nearly 300,000 shares, as compared with approximately 150,000 on the previous day.

The selling storm spared no section of the list. Blue chips and low priced issues, motors and industrials, specialties and miscellaneous shares were all caught in the tide which carried values down from one to seven points.

Cities Service Declines.

Cities Service broke sharply as more than 30,000 shares of the stock changed hands. Dealing in the stock was comparatively orderly. As a result of a temporary halt in the trading in New York which was made to give the specialist time to adjust his book some misunderstanding existed as to the exact situation in the stock. Trading was resumed here after an interruption of five minutes, when it was learned the nature of the suspension on the curb.

The last sale in the issue was made at 20¾, a fraction above its low quotation, representing a net loss for the day of 2¼ points.

Middle West Utilities, traditional volume leader of the list, found a new low quotation below 20, but encountered good support. Dealing in the issue was unusually active, with transactions running up to 50,000 shares.

Gleaner Combine slumped 6½ points, finishing the day at 13¾. The stock was not traded in on Thursday and has been comparatively inactive for some time. Yesterday's turnover totaled more than 4,000 shares.

List Other Losses.

Merchants and Manufacturers retreated 2¾. Lion Oil was pushed back 2½. United States Gypsum fell back to 35½. Public Service no bar broke 7. And Insull Utility was forced down some 2 points to a record low of 41½.

Grigsby-Grunow and Majestic both moved into new low ground, then rallied moderately. Grigsby's final quotation of 2¼ compared with its worst price of 2¾, and Majestic, after breaking through to 7¼, recovered a point.

The sharp break in the market climaxes a week or more of irregular decline. The volume of liquidation exceeded that of any recent selling period and the price declines were the worst seen in days. An atmosphere of gloom pervaded the exchange after the close when the full extent of the damage was sized up.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Through an error it was reported yesterday that the Aug. 31 balance sheet of the Grigsby-Grunow company showed accounts receivable from distributors and dealers of $725,621. The first digit of the figure was omitted and should have read $4,725,621. Current assets amounted to $10,614,485 and current liabilities were $4,818,737, as previously reported. Total receivables as of Aug. 31, including those from distributors and dealers, amounted to $5,931,898 after reserves.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

Trading in Chicago Rapid Transit debentures brought a new all time exchange volume record for a single day's trade in bonds yesterday, when sales in the bonds and certificates of deposit aggregated $128,000 par value. Prices were steady. The stock list reflected liquidation all along the line, as a number of utility, oil, and power stocks sold off to new low levels for the year. Public Service rights, Niagara Hudson, American Superpower, Associated Gas A, Standard of Kentucky, and Indian Territory were 1 to 3 points off at the finish. Commonwealth Edison and Peoples Gas rights lost substantial fractions, while Photocolor held steady.

NATIONAL TEA COMPANY BUYS THREE CORNERS

Expansion Plans Call for New Buildings.

BY AL CHASE.

Purchase of three corners and the signing of a long term lease by the National Tea company yesterday disclosed plans for the erection of three new buildings each to contain a new unit of the chain store and the expansion of one branch long established. The National Tea company bought the southwest corner of Crawford and Cornelia, 60x126, from William Ludtke for an indicated $35,000, subject to an incumbrance of $25,000.

The property is improved with a one and a two story building containing three stores. The buyer has had a store in one of the buildings for several years and will double its capacity by taking over an adjoining store room.

Buys Bryn Mawr Corner.

The National Tea company also purchased the northeast corner of Spaulding and Bryn Mawr avenues, 28x125, and is erecting a one story building which it will occupy about Jan. 1, 1931. It also bought the vacant southeast corner of Lathrop avenue and Lake street, in River Forest, and is erecting a one story building which it will occupy about Dec. 15.

National Tea also secured the northwest corner of Belvidere and Genesee, in Waukegan, 28x160, on a long term lease and will wreck the present old improvement and erect a one story building which it will occupy about Christmas.

Trustees of the Irving Park district have just acquired twelve lots fronting in Kilbourn and Kenton avenues, in the block bounded by Wilson, Sunnyside, Kilbourn and Kenton. The aim of the trustees is to have this entire block for playground purposes. Development will start next spring.

Activity in Evanston.

Quinlan & Tyson's Evanston office reports an activity in the mortgage bond market which is encouraging. That firm in one day sold $400,000 of a $450,000 leasehold loan for refinancing by the Church Street Building corporation of its property at Church street, Orrington avenue and Sherman avenue, Evanston. The loan is for seven years at 6 per cent. One individual took $150,000. The building property is valued at $941,000.

The Catholic Bishop of Chicago has purchased a block of frontage on the north side of Wellington avenue, between 77th avenue and 76th court, in Westwood, from John Mills. The property will be used for a church, school, and parish house by St. Celestine Roman Catholic church.

The Gray Goose Self Service Stores have just acquired their fifth Chicago location, having leased the store at 4147 West Madison street at a reported annual rental of $5,400. According to D. O. Jordan, of Jordan & Co., who represented both lessees and the Meyers Shoe company, who are lessors, the Gray Goose Self Service stores through their president, Joseph Horwitz, will continue their expansion program until all sections of the city have been covered.

Receipts at Chicago for today estimated at 800 cattle, 16,000 hogs, and 1,000 sheep.

Lightweight hogs ruled strong to 10c higher yesterday, while medium weights were more plentiful and sold steady to 10c higher, closing at the low point of the day. The extreme top for heavy butchers declined 5c at $9.40, while the general average held steady at $9.10.

Stock averaging less than 170 lbs was exceptionally scarce and traders expect to see underweights outselling all other weights in the near future. Range of prices narrowed again, the top and average being only 20c apart, against a spread of $1.10 about five weeks ago. Light pigs and roasters sold at $9.25@9.75, one shipment of 104 averaging 60 lbs at the outside figure.

Hog Futures Slow.

Trading in hog futures was slow yesterday. Light and mediums for the last half of the present month were offered at $9.25@9.40. Hogs averaging 170@260 lbs for December and January delivery were offered at $8.90@9.00, but the highest bids at the close were $8.65@8.75. March contracts were offered at $9.40 and bid $9.15.

Yesterday's small supply of 2,300 cattle changed hands at the recent advance, scattered sales showing gains of 50c to $1.00 compared with a week ago. A short load of mixed yearling steers and heifers averaging 897 lbs reached $13.50, while $13.00, the top for full carloads, was paid for 62 averaging 836 lbs. Butcher stock held generally steady, but show gains of 50c to $1.00 for the week.

Calves were unchanged yesterday. The best calves are closing in line with a week ago, while cheaper classes are unevenly lower. Stockers and feeders are 50 on a quiet trade yesterday, but gains of 25@50c were cited in comparing with a week ago.

Lamb Supply Short.

The shortage in sheep receipts forced buyers to pay 25@35c higher prices for yesterday's meager supply of 5,000. The bulge in the market brought the top to $8.85, highest since Oct. 22. Fed westerns to packers reached this figure, while most ewe and wether natives and fed westerns sold at $8.25@8.75. Aged sheep were scarce and firm. Yearings advanced fully 25c, 102 lb. averages bringing $7.25. Feeding lambs were stronger again.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 16,000 hogs and 1,000 sheep, against 419 cattle, 12,235 hogs and 3,323 sheep on the previous Saturday and 201 cattle, 5,397 hogs and 4,443 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for Monday are estimated from 45,000 to 60,000. J. M. Waters marked 60,000; W. C. White, 55,000; E. S. Waterbury, W. T. Reneker, and R. W. Trotter, 52,000; F. M. Sherwood and S. Lund, 50,000; F. Knutzen, G. W. Chandler and J. T. Brown, 48,000; C. Southwick, 46,000, and R. B. Ellis, 45,000

WORLD'S·GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Bros. & Co. crop expert, who discovered striped rust in Argentine wheat when making a survey of the crop conditions in that country last year, says: "Last year's epidemic of stripe rust in Argentina appeared to a noticeable degree first in the province of Buenos Aires before wheat headed and was worst in the southern part of this province. Exposed leaves were killed and they dried up. New leaves came out, remained clean until wheat was in the early milk stage, then the rust destroyed the new leaves and covered the head, penetrating the chaff into young berries. It caused shriveling nearly as bad as black rust where severe. Drought prevented damage from this rust in the north half of the wheat belt. This year, in our opinion, this rust undoubtedly will cover the entire wheat belt if, as claimed by Broomhall, the rust so far is reported of this species."

Corn and oats are regarded as having been well liquidated and local traders are taking hold of corn, but they are not getting outside help. In oats, however, there is more general interest.

The situation in oats in Winnipeg is a most interesting one. Offerings are light as prices are so low that farmers are not selling. November oats in Winnipeg are 29½c and May 30½c.

COTTON UP SHARPLY; ESTIMATE DUE TODAY

Cotton markets had a better tone yesterday and closed well toward the best price of the day. There was evening up of trades preparatory for the government report due early today.

The average of a majority of the estimates are for 14,750,000 bales. There were two estimates out during the day, however, one of which showed 14,148,000 bales and 14,159,000 bales. The government report last month was 14,486,000 bales and the final of 1929 aggregated 14,868,000 bales.

Into sight movement for the week was 747,000 bales, against 659,846 bales last year. Since Aug. 1 the aggregate was 7,697,552 bales, against 8,114,182 bales last year. World's takings for the week were 852,000 bales, against 409,000 bales last year.

At the close net gains on futures in Chicago were 8 to 14 points, with other markets up 11 to 18 points. Spots advanced 10 points with New York, 10.95c; New Orleans, 10.65c; Galveston, 10.75c, and Houston, 10.65c. Liverpool closed 3 points higher with spot sales of 6,000 bales. Prices follow:
